

Gold Run Halted by New 2-Price System

Americans Will Have To Pay More

WASHINGTON (AP) — A trip to the jeweler or the dentist probably will cost Americans more money under the new two-price system for gold adopted by the United States and its six European gold partners.

Wedding rings and other jewelry, fillings for teeth and sophisticated electronic circuits in missile systems are just a few of the domestic uses for gold.

Until now, domestic users bought the gold for $35 an ounce either directly from U.S. producers or from the Treasury Department, which dug into its stockpile to meet all the demand the producers couldn't.

But under the new agreement, the Treasury will no longer sell gold for domestic use. The jeweler and the dentist must buy their supplies on the open market, beginning today.

Whatever Price
A new Treasury Department regulation will permit U.S. producers to sell to domestic industry or to export gold at whatever price they want.

Although U.S. officials hesitate to predict where the open-market price of gold will go, it's almost a certainty the initial movement will be up.

Just how high it goes will depend on the supply both from producers and in the foreign markets and from the private hoards which have been accumulated throughout the world over the years and especially since devaluation of the British pound on Nov. 18.

As the price rises, hoarders will be tempted to unload their private stockpiles on the European markets for a quick profit — once the European markets reopen.

Too much gold on the market at one time, however, could depress the price.

Crash Kills 6 Cheerleaders

RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP) — Six high school girl cheerleaders and three adults were killed in the crash of a twin-engine plane coming home from the South Dakota state basketball tournament Sunday.

The tragedy stunned this western South Dakota city, and the Rapid City High School of some 2,600 students was closed today.

Ivan Landstrom, 56, a local businessman, was piloting his own plane and landing in a crosswind of 20 m.p.h. with gusts to 25 m.p.h. A witness said the plane had nearly touched down when it rose into the air, then cartwheeled on wing and screeched to a stop 100 yards off the runway.

A fire broke out and all nine aboard perished.

Blarney From the Governor

If you remembered to tip the tam to Gov. Warren P. Knowles on St. Paddy's Day, there's a good chance he responded with a little blarney from Kilarney. One sample of the 'governor's Irish touch went to a Fox Valley woman who proudly pinned his letter to her shamrock Sunday. It reads:

Dear Cousin:

Your welcome letter received and me and your Aunt Bridget thank you kindly for the money you sent. We have seven masses said for your grandfather and grandmother. God rest their souls.

You have gone high places in America, God bless you. I hope you'll not be putting on airs and forgetting your native land.

Your cousin, Hughie O'Toole, was hung in Londen-derry last week for killing a policeman, may God rest his soul. And may God's curse be on Jimmy Callahan, the informer, and may he burn in hell, God forgive me.

Times are not as bad as they might be. The herring is back and nearly everyone who has a heart is making ends meet and the price of fish is good, thanks be to God.

We had a grand time at Pat Muldoon's wake. He was an old blatherskite and it looked good to see him stretched out with his big mouth closed. He is better off dead, and he'll burn 'til the damn place freezes over. He had too many friends among the Orangemen. God curse the lot of them.

Too Much Drink

Bless your heart, I almost forgot to tell you about your Uncle Dinny. He took a pot-shot at a turncoat in back of a hedge, but he had too much drink in him and he missed. God's curse be on the dirty drink.

I hope this letter finds you in good health and may God keep reminding you to send the money.

The Brennans are 100 per cent strong around here since they stopped going to America. They have kids running all over the country.

Father O'Flaherty, who baptized you, is now feeble-minded and sends you his blessings.

Mollie O'Brien, the brat you used to go to school with, has married an Englishman. She'll have no luck.

May God take care of the lot of you and keep you from sudden death.

Your Devoted Cousin Michael

P.S. Things look bright again. Every police barracks and every Protestant church has been burned to the ground in County Cork. Thanks be to God!

P.S. Keep sending the money.

7 Nations Won't Sell to Speculators

WASHINGTON (AP) — A two-level gold pricing system took effect today as the gold pool governments halted the flow of metal from their treasuries into the fevered speculative markets.

Cablegrams sped to all capitals reporting Sunday night's decision by the seven central bankers at their weekend meeting in Washington—and inviting all countries to join in maintaining the established $35 an ounce price for all transactions between governments.

But the rest of the world's gold was set free to find its own price.

Pool Dissolved

The London gold pool was, in effect, dissolved. The London gold market—biggest of all, and the one which supplied most of the gold to other markets—was ordered to stay closed until April 1.

U.S. officials radiated confidence that the frenzied speculative attacks on the dollar would die away. Most Congressmen were pleased and relieved. London was dubious. Paris saw the action as a stop-gap, not a solution.

Among all the uncertainties, these results were assured:

1. The rate of exchange between dollars and other currencies will stay put. Those American travelers who suddenly could not spend dollar bills or cash travelers checks overseas should have no more trouble.

2. The pound sterling has been bolstered further. The six other countries which have supplied gold to the London pool are increasing to $4 billion the total of currency credits available to hard-pressed Britain. Their previous commitments were not disclosed, but the increase is known to be substantial.

Buy on Market

3. On the home front, jewelers and other licensed users of gold can no longer buy from the Treasury. The Treasury will continue to issue licenses to legitimate users, however, and the holders can buy on the free market here or overseas.

None of the governments, the seven bank governors said, will henceforth sell to private buyers or buy from private sellers. They seemed confident the rule would be followed by all free world governments, not just the seven signers.

Speculators and legitimate users alike thus will have to buy from those who mine the metal—in South Africa, the Soviet Union or Canada—or those who may be ready to sell from private hoards.

The question that hung heavily over the two-day conference in Washington's marble Federal Reserve Board building—and still remains unanswered—is whether the $35 official price can stand up if the free price is much higher.

Measures Sought

Not even Washington expects the plan to endure unless solid measures are taken to repair confidence in the dollar abroad. The Federal Reserve moved Thursday to tighten credit.

President Johnson gave further assurances Saturday. He will accept a multi-billion dollar spending cut in his fiscal 1969 budget, he said, to insure the enactment by Congress of his 10 per cent income tax surcharge proposal. There are strong indi-

600 Enemy Repulsed In 'Probe' at Khe Sanh

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese rangers fought off another attack on Khe Sanh today and allied troops sweeping around Saigon claimed an enemy death toll exceeding 800 in the first week of their big drive.

About 600 North Vietnamese soldiers charged from their trenches, some as close as 20 yards from the outer barbed wire, in their second attack this month on the South Vietnamese position at Khe Sanh.

A sheet of machine-gun fire from the rangers' trenches and U.S. Marine mortars drove the enemy away after about an hour. There was no report of casualties on either side, but the North Vietnamese could be seen dragging away dead and wounded men.

'Strong Probe'

A U.S. spokesman said the attack was a "strong probe" against the northwest frontier combat base, where the 400 rangers and some 6,000 U.S. Marines have been braced for several months for a major assault by an estimated 40,000 enemy troops around the fortress.

Enemy gunners fired about 500 shells at the Khe Sanh base Sunday, the heaviest barrage in more than a week. U.S. B52 bombers flew three raids against enemy positions.

In the 50,000-man operation Quyet Thang—Resolve To Win—around Saigon, South Vietnamese infantrymen came under fire from guerrillas dug in at the village of Tram Lak, 17 miles northwest of Saigon.

Associated Press photographer Al Chang, with the troops, said the infantrymen held their line while two tanks and 20 armored personnel carriers of the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry moved up and began blasting the enemy positions from within 50 yards.

Air strikes also were called in. At dusk, the allied troops secured the area and reported 84

guerrillas killed but only one American and one South Vietnamese wounded.

After two earlier battles Sunday, the U.S. Command had reported an enemy toll of 730 dead in the allied offensive that began last Monday in five provinces north, west and south of Saigon. U.S. losses so far were put at 30 killed and 249 wounded. Government casualties were reported light.

The U.S. Command also re-

Johnson Calls for National Austerity

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — President Johnson called on the American people today for "a program of national austerity" and an all-out effort to win the Vietnam war, win the peace and "complete the job at home."

Making an unannounced trip here from his Texas ranch to address the National Farmers' Union convention, Johnson said the tasks ahead will require "a program of national austerity to insure that our economy will prosper and our fiscal position will be sound."

Speaking more forcefully than ever before on the subject, Johnson declared:

"The time has come when your President must ask you to join in a total national effort to win the war, to win the peace, and to complete the job at home."

Johnson announced what reliable sources reported Saturday—that he is working with Congress to make major budget cuts in an effort to gain enactment of a 10 per cent income tax increase.

If such cuts are made—and they could slash $3 billion to $4 billion of federal spending in the next fiscal year—Johnson acknowledged the result would be to "postpone many needed actions."

'Support Our Men'

With the dollar under new assault in international money markets, Johnson also promised an intensified program to curb nonessential travel outside the hemisphere and to reduce business spending and investment in Western Europe. He did not go into detail.

Johnson said that "most of all I ask your help and your patriotic support of our men who are bearing the burden of battle in Vietnam." He said:

"We seek not the victory of conquest, but the triumph of justice. We will win."

Kennedy's Candidacy Involved

LBJ Charges 'Deal' on War Commission, RFK Denies It

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and the Johnson administration have exchanged politically explosive charges over the New Yorker's proposal to stay out of the presidential race if U.S. policy in Vietnam were revised.

High administration sources labeled as an ultimatum Kennedy's proposal that President Johnson appoint a blue-ribbon panel to work on war policy revisions. They said Johnson spurned it as a totally unacceptable political deal.

Kennedy said the commission idea originated with an unnamed Democratic political leader who advanced it to him as well as to President Johnson. He said Theodore Sorenson, a former aide to President John F. Kennedy, also proposed the measure to Johnson but not at his (Sen. Kennedy's) behest.

Reports Distorted

Kennedy added, however, that published reports have since distorted it and he blamed the distortions on White House leaks to the news media.

Charged Kennedy, who entered the race for the Democratic presidential nomination on Saturday:

"This incident reveals in the sharpest possible terms why the American people no longer believe the President and the White House: why the credibility of our political leadership has been so critically eroded and why it is clear that the only way we are going to change our policy in Vietnam is to change administrations in Washington."

In a 1,500-word statement, Kennedy said he told Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford last Thursday that his candidacy would not be necessary if Johnson accepted the commission proposal.

'More Than Gimmick'

Kennedy put it this way:

"I made it clear that if it (the commission) were more than a public relations gimmick, if both the President's announcement of the commission and its membership signalled a clear-cut willingness to seek a wider path to peace in Vietnam, then my declaration of candidacy would no longer be necessary."

But the administration source said Kennedy demanded that any statement announcing the commission indicate that Johnson had "grave doubt of the wisdom of his past course and that was why this reappraisal was necessary."

The source said Kennedy wanted to be on the commission and presented to Clifford a list of other possible members.

Johnson immediately rejected the proposal, the source said, on grounds it smacked of a political deal, cast doubt on his "Vietnam policies, might encourage

North Vietnam to think U.S. resolve was weakening and furthermore represented an attempt to usurp presidential authority.

Newsweek magazine quoted a White House aide as calling the proposal "the damndest piece of political blackmail" he had ever heard of.

'Rules Abridged'

Kennedy, saying he was surprised that "the traditional rules of confidence governing White House conversations are no longer respected by the White House itself," charged published versions of the affair "fall so short of the truth that I believe the American people are entitled to the facts."

Kennedy said Johnson had first appeared interested in the proposal but later rejected it, in part—said the senator—because

10,000 Rioters in London Protest Vietnam War

LONDON (AP) — Police filed criminal charges against 220 rioters today after battling an estimated 10,000 screaming marchers in a big anti-American demonstration.

More than 80 policemen were injured and 28 hospitalized Sunday as 1,000 unarmed bobbies fought off demonstrators against the Vietnam war trying to storm the U.S. Embassy on Grosvenor Square.

In Nuernberg, 500 leftwingers protesting the war jeered West German Foreign Minister Willy Brandt and for 10 minutes kept him out of his political party's national convention.

In Stockholm, an American newsman said he and a U.S. consul were roughed up by two Americans after being invited to meet with a young American who had deserted from the U.S. Army to escape going to Vietnam.

In Paris, explosions before dawn broke windows at the Chase Manhattan Bank, the Bank of America and the TWA office. No one was hurt.

Those arrested in the London riot were charged with threatening behavior, possession of offensive weapons, assault on police, obstructing police or obstructing the highway. Most of them were released on bail and will appear in court during the week.

Fighting broke out when demonstrators tried to push through three lines of police protecting the embassy.

The demonstrators failed to reach the building, but in 55 minutes of fighting scores were wrestled to the ground and dragged away.

Demonstrators hurled rocks, smoke bombs and red paint at the glass-walled embassy. There was little damage, but 13 windows were smashed by rocks and smoke bombs.

Mounted and foot police pushed back the surging throng without using truncheons or riot sticks. Several police horses were bruised in the melee.

The demonstration began in Trafalgar Square as an orderly protest against American involvement in Vietnam. Most of the protesters were British, but visiting American and European students joined in.

The crowd waved Viet Cong flags and carried banners denouncing the war and the United States.

The crowd moved from Trafalgar to Grosvenor Square, tying up traffic in central London. There was no violence until the embassy was approached.

Some demonstrators also broke windows in the nearby Europa Hotel, a popular residence with American visitors. Others tried to enter the Hilton Hotel about half a mile away but were locked out.

Gold Trading Tapers Off With Agreement of Pool Members

Bankers Feel Relief Only Temporary

LONDON (AP) — Free markets in gold opened in Paris and Zurich today in the wake of the Washington agreement, with prices down from Friday's high and trading much less hectic. Commentators and bankers agreed that the decisions taken in Washington were temporary measures whose success would depend on cuts in American and British spending. Speculative demand for gold on the Paris market eased, and the price for the one kilogram ingot settled at the equivalent of $40.10 an ounce, down from Friday's all-time high of $44.36. Trading was animated.

On the Zurich market, the big Swiss banks fixed prices ranging from $43 to $45 an ounce.

West German banks suspended the sale of gold, pending establishment of a free market price. Degussa, the large commercial firm which handles bullion sales in Germany, also stopped trading temporarily.

Await Affect
On the Hong Kong market, gold of $4.5 fineness climbed to a record high of $41.46, then slumped $1.24 as speculators waited to see what effect the new two-price system would have on the European markets. Both the dollar and the pound improved on the European financial exchanges. The dollar in Paris was going at 4.91 to 4.92 francs, compared with 4.90 to 4.905 at Friday's close. It was 3.98 marks in Frankfurt, up from 3.97 on Friday.

The pound gained a full cent on the London exchange, reaching $2.40, its official parity level.

Lower in London

Gold shares on the London Stock Exchange fell sharply. They had been driven way up last week on the expectation that the Washington agreement would approve an increase in the official price for the metal.

The agreement's basic point—the establishment of a two-price gold system—had been widely predicted in Britain and on the continent. The West German government advocated introduction of a free gold market last Friday, and Swiss bankers said they had urged the two-market system as the only way to stop the gold rush.

"Anything is better than the suspense and confusion of the last few days," said one French banker. He called it a victory for speculators and hoarders, but would not predict their reaction.

Market Still Closed

The Bank of England ordered the London, bullion market to give things a chance to settle down, to give people a chance to see what is going on," said a stock market spokesman. Since this is the world's chief gold market, its closure was certain to restrict trading on the continent.

Gold trading also remained suspended in Canada while the Bank of Canada and the government assessed the implications of the new system. The central bank's governor, Louis Rasminsky, pledged Canada's cooperation with the seven nations of the gold pool.

Shooting Spree Takes 7 Lives In Ironwood

Two Homes, Tavern Invaded During Saturday Rampage

IRONWOOD, Mich. (AP) — A seventh victim of a rifleman's two-hour shooting spree died Sunday and two persons remained in "very serious" condition.

Six persons were killed in the rampage Saturday through this western upper peninsula community.

Charged in the slayings is Eric Pearson, 56, a muscular outdoorsman described as "a skillful hunter and a loner" who worked as a janitor in a nearby ski lodge.

Pearson was scheduled to be arraigned today.

Mrs. Helen Puisto, 47, of Ironwood, died Sunday night in Grand View Hospital.

The victims all were shot with a high-powered hunting rifle.

Had Been Drinking

Gogebic County Sheriff Chester J. Prebish said Pearson had been drinking heavily and was incoherent when captured by patrons of a tavern, where one man was slain and a woman wounded.

The tavern was the last stop on the rampage. Authorities said the slayer first visited a modern, one-story home about a mile away, where four persons, including a mother and her daughter were killed in the living room.

A 12-year-old girl, trying to hide in her bedroom closet, was wounded when a bullet was fired through the door. A trail of blood was left throughout the home.

The killer then went to another home, killing one man and wounding his wife. The next stop was the tavern.

Started Shooting

"He just walked in the door and started shooting. He didn't say a word," said one customer.

The slayer's first bullet in the tavern struck and killed Rudolph Maurin, 56, of Ironwood, who was sitting near the door on the second stool from the end of the bar.

As Maurin slumped to the floor, Mrs. Puisto's husband, Axel, and another patron, John Niemi of Ironwood, lunged for the gunman.

The rifle, an automatic 30.06, discharged again and Mrs. Puisto fell mortally wounded.

The customer said Puisto went for the rifle while Niemi threw a couple of punches to throw the killer off balance and clubbed him with a whiskey bottle grabbed from the gunman's pocket.

Knew Pearson

One of the women killed in the first home, Mrs. Sally Johnson, 61, had dated Pearson, according to Deputy Sheriff Richard Bennetts.

Killed with her were her daughter, Mrs. Vienna Gustafson, owner of the home, Mrs. Katherine Rignoni, 59, of Ironwood, and Daniel E. Weiss, 67, of Lansing.

Mrs. Gustafson's 12-year-old daughter, Robin, was shot in the stomach through the door of the closet where she had tried to hide.

Cubans Survive First Dry Weekend in History

HAVANA (AP) — Cubans have just endured their first nonalcoholic weekend in memory. It bewildered most of them.

Neither guerrilla fighting, revolts, World War II or U.S. prohibition ever cut Cubans off from their rum, so it was a jarring experience.

"I didn't know what to do with myself Saturday night," said one swinger who frequents the local cabarets.

Thousands of others lined up at the movies, went to the beach Sunday if they had gasoline which is rationed, or just wandered about.

Thousands were kept busy, however, on the government's ambitious agricultural programs, tending coffee beans or cutting sugar cane.

Castro Order

The dry weekend resulted from an order by Prime Minister Fidel Castro closing all private and state bars and cabarets. Beer and wine with meals were the only exceptions.

The shutdown of clubs and cabarets was unexpected. It came Saturday night just before the help in these places were reporting for work. It caught hundreds of Cubans, including government officials, by surprise as they prepared to go out on the town.

Castro has said the government will put an end to the last vestige of capitalism and eliminate "parasites and exploiters" accused of living off the sweat of Cuban workers. But some observers predicted that cabarets with big shows and the better bars would reopen in a couple of weeks.

Economic Crackdown
The crackdown apparently stemmed from economic rather than moral reasons. Because of the poor sugar harvest this year, the government needs all the manpower it can get and must cut out as many luxuries as possible.

"But I can't see how cutting out a working man's beer will save much," said one worker.

Cuban newspapers haven't reported the crackdown on alcohol yet, but the national radio broadcast interviews with Havana housewives supporting the closing of the bars.

"The Cuban women embrace Fidel Castro," said one. "Now husbands will arrive home intact."

Air Losses Exceed Korean War Total

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. loss of planes and helicopters in the Vietnam war now exceeds its aircraft losses in Korea—but still is far below the World War II toll.

Pentagon figures show a total of 3,487 U.S. helicopters and fixed-wing planes have been destroyed in Vietnam.

In the Korean War, the total was 3,001, virtually all airplanes since helicopters were used in that war to a relatively insignificant degree.

The United States recorded 27,137 aircraft losses to enemy action in World War II. Figures were not available, but losses as a result of accidents and other noncombat causes probably ran into many thousands.

Security Material

The total for fixed wing aircraft lost in the Vietnam war reached 2,007 last week. The number of helicopters destroyed in both combat and noncombat operations came to 1,480.

The Pentagon would not give a breakdown on aircraft losses by types, saying this is security material of value to the enemy. Pentagon spokesmen said total costs of aircraft losses in the three wars are not available.

But competent sources have said $4 billion probably would not be far off as the cost for Vietnam air losses.

The prices paid for individual airplanes indicate how costs have escalated since World War II.

For example, a B17 heavy bomber of World War II cost nearly $190,000—about $80,000 less than the price of an Army helicopter being used in the Vietnam war.

A B29, classed as a "very heavy bomber" in one World War II document, cost about $635,000—only a fraction of the $8 million price for a B52 of this era.

A World War II P51 fighter could be bought for $53,000. By the Korean war, the government was paying $212,000 for an F86 jet fighter. And today's fighter bomber, the F4 Phantom, runs about $2.4 million a copy.

NEW YORK (AP) — The crisis meeting in Washington to protect the dollar has improved the tactical situation, but many changes must be made in longer range strategy before the defense can be called secure.

True, the gold drain might be ended for the time being, or until central banks succumb to the temptation to sell their monetary gold on a higher priced speculators' market, but the weaknesses still remain.

The United States still has a big balance-of-payments deficit. It has inflation. It is involved in a costly war. It has enormous commitments of its wealth all around the world. It has a budget deficit. And it can't seem to get any of these problems corrected.

Cut in Spending

In all probability federal spending will have to be cut. Taxes may have to be raised by a whopping percentage. Interest rates may have to be prodded higher. And President Johnson and Congress must reach agreements.

Simultaneously, the world's industrial nations must now work swiftly through the International Monetary Fund to establish new currency reserves less dependent upon the backing of gold.

This much was recognized in the statements released Sunday by seven central bank governors after their Washington meeting.

"The governors noted," the statement said, "that it is the determined policy of the United States government to defend the value of the dollar through appropriate fiscal and monetary measures and that substantial improvement of the U.S. balance of payments is a high priority objective."

Can't be Solved

This string of words might appear convincing, but all it amounts to is a restatement of the very problems that can't seem to be solved by Congress and the administration, despite their recognition of the dangers.

Minutes after the statement was released, in fact, Prof. Henry Wallich of Yale University commented:

"Personally, I do not find that a very strong statement. They said the balance of payments action would have high priority, not top or highest priority."

The governors' statement also is backed by very little power, for neither they nor the U.S. monetary managers can force President Johnson or Congress to take these dollar-defense measures.

Seldom has a more stubborn and futile battle been fought between an administration and Congress, while untreated fiscal and monetary sores grow larger and fester and imperil the nation's health.

This stalemate over measures to right the nation's books also recalls the cynical observation of Jacques Rueff, one of France's top economists and an outspoken advocate of an increase in the price of gold.

'Action Is Powerless'

"Experience has proved," he said in a speech last fall, "that administrative action, which means control of foreign payments, is powerless in a non-talitarian state." Politics and economics would interfere, he said.

What a challenge to democracy! Unless Rueff's words are to be proven true, more effective strategy must be implemented by both Congress and the administration.

At the same time the United States must tackle its financial problems, the world's leading financial powers must establish a more effective system for assuring the convertibility of currencies among nations.

Fortunately, a meeting to tackle that problem already is scheduled in Stockholm at the end of the month, with France expected to attend and express harsh and bitter judgments about the U.S. payments situation.

Sense of Urgency

Despite the possibility of fireworks, the nations are expected to show the responsibility and sense of urgency needed to come up with an agreement, no matter what their differences.

The plan, already approved in part by the International Monetary Fund last fall in Rio de Janeiro, calls for the creation of special drawing rights, or credits, which nations might use for settling international bills.

This would be a new type of arrangement, a mutually agreed upon discipline to take the place of gold backing. Thus the drawing rights are sometimes called paper gold, derisively so by the French.

The dollar has been defended. Now the defense must be made secure from the obvious weaknesses that still exist.

Chairman of State Rights Group Quits

MILWAUKEE (AP)—George C. Lorinzi resigned last week as chairman of the State Equal Rights Council, telling Gov. Warren P. Knowles that government reorganization had made the council—formerly the Governor's Commission on Human Rights—"a substantially ineffective caricature of its former self."

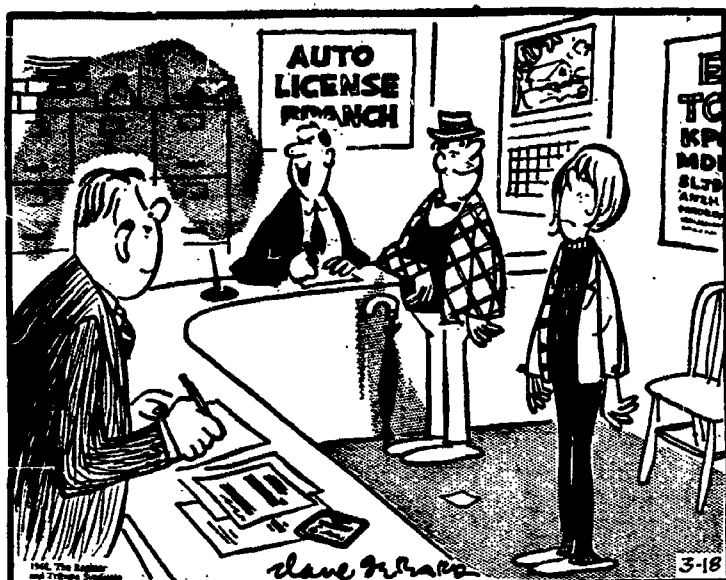

Under a bill signed into law in January as part of the Kellest streamlining procedure, the council became an advisory body to the commissioners of the state Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations.

The Milwaukee attorney said in his letter to Knowles that "I believe that, just as war is too important to be left solely to the generals, human rights are too important to be left only in the hands of bureaucrats."

He said that it was "heart-breaking that in the field of legal protection of human rights in Wisconsin all the power has passed out of the hands of citizen appointees, who thought as concerned human beings, into the hands of bureaucrats."

Urges Improvement in City-County Relations

League of Municipalities Official Says

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The manager of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, representing most of the cities and villages of the state, has his reservations about the benefits of county board reorganization as far as municipal and county relations are concerned.

Ed Johnson of the league made the comment in his organization's periodical as he examined the results of the historic county board reapportionment act of 1965, which followed a Supreme Court mandate to the State Legislature.

He said county government in Wisconsin is obviously going through a period of significant change, as shown by the county board reorganization and other events, but that communications between the governing authorities of cities and villages and the policymakers in the counties "leave much to be desired."

Furnish Services

"Counties still maintain roads, furnish police protection and provide other services to town residents, with the tab being picked up by village and city taxpayers where the same services are furnished by their own local governmental unit," he complained.

Johnson added his doubt that some of the city supervisors on county boards are conscientiously representing their urban constituencies, and said that municipal officers are becoming increasingly aware and concerned about it.

Need Communication

The league executive said that combining the offices of alderman and supervisor might be a solution to the problem in some instances, but, in general, there is a need for more effective communications between cities and county board members.

Johnson echoed a theme that

Once Thorn in His Side

Ex-Sen. Douglas Now Backs LBJ's Policies

By JACK MILLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Sen. Paul H. Douglas, once a liberal thorn in the side of then-Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, now provides valuable support for the President on two major battlefronts: The cities and the Vietnam war.

Still hard-working and healthy as he approaches his 76th birthday on March 26, Douglas heads the President's National Commission on Urban Problems and is founder and co-chairman of a committee of prominent Americans backing the war effort.

Douglas has led urban commission hearings in 18 cities around the country seeking ways to revitalize the depressed cities.

The commission's report isn't due until year's end. But most of Douglas' recommendations to date have followed Johnson policies. And Douglas praised the recent presidential message on the cities to Congress.

No Prompting

Douglas says he formed the Vietnam citizens committee without prompting from Johnson.

The one-time economics professor, who enlisted in the Marine Corps in 1943 as a 50-year-old private, drew to the new group such distinguished retired military leaders and statesmen as former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower and General of the Army Omar Bradley.

Avoiding the stance of either all-out opponents of the war or those calling for military escalation, the committee in its initial statement last Oct. 25 generally endorsed the President's war policy, saying: "We favor a sensible road between capitulation and the indiscriminate use of raw power."

Using almost the same words as administration officials in interpreting this year's massive, coordinated Communist attack on South Vietnamese cities

Douglas told a reporter: "My own view is that the Communists failed in their objective in that they did not get any appreciable support from the people of the cities."

Explaining in an interview his support for the Vietnam war, the tall, plain-featured man with crew-cut white hair said, "I happen to believe in collective security. I believed in it against Hitler, Russia and Korea, and I think this (Vietnam) is part of the same family."

In the Senate, the Illinois Democrat earned the adoration of liberals for his leadership on domestic reforms.

During an 18-year Senate career that ended in 1956 when he was beaten by Republican Charles H. Percy, Douglas led the drive for much of the landmark social legislation of the last generation: Minimum wages, medicare, federal aid to education and—especially—civil rights.

Civil rights once was a battle issue between Johnson and Douglas. As one who was close to both men recalls it, Douglas constantly refused to budge from his principles to make way for a Johnsonian consensus. Fuming, Johnson used to repeat over and over to friends that "politics is the art of the possible."

The associate recalls that "Johnson greatly disliked Douglas, and Douglas had no great affection for Johnson."

There is no indication today that the relationship—despite Douglas' support of key Johnson policies—has flowered into friendship.

Douglas said his current activities haven't drawn any words of gratitude from Johnson. And while Douglas occasionally attends a White House function, he said he has purposely avoided personal contact with the President to avoid implications the citizens group stand on Vietnam is influenced by Johnson.

Monolithic Communism Falters

Under the new leadership of Alexander Dubcek, Czechoslovakia is still a Communist-controlled country, but the changes being suggested at least are revolutionary.

The Socialist Party, controlled by Communists, published a resolution last week calling for different political parties to be given "a democratically open chance" to win support, the abolition of all regulations limiting non-Communist publications and the provision of funds for other parties as well as permission to recruit members.

If such ideas were actually implemented they could mean the end of real Communist control unless force was used. Certainly even the more moderate party members will realize this and it is unlikely that the liberal changes will be made at this time. But the fact that they can be publicly proposed is a tremendous step away from the usual authoritarian Communist control.

Moreover, the changes in Czechoslovakia are having considerable repercussions in other parts of Eastern Europe. East German leaders are disturbed for both political and economic reasons. The friendship treaty of 1967 was supposed to open a new page in history between the two nations, but it was signed by the old Stalinist Czech leader, Novotny, not by Dubcek, and reportedly Walter Ulbricht was snubbed by new Czech leaders when in Prague last month. The East Germans are also concerned because Czechoslovakia is now considering the purchase of a West German color television system instead of the French one which East Germany and Poland are buying. It is feared that the Czechs will begin to look westward for trade opportunities while in the past they have largely relied upon the Soviet Union and East European nations.

Meanwhile in Poland, the student riots emphasized demands for liberty on the campus and less interference by police. Although the demonstrations began in January over the closing of a play that had lines critical of the Soviet Union, they grew into charges of censorship and gestapo tactics. "Long live Czechoslovakia!" was one of the slogans and the concessions made to the students indicated that Poland, too, may be breaking away from its complete reliance upon the Communist world.

Poland, East Germany and Czechoslovakia have been slower to indicate more independent nationalism in great part because they share a common border with West Germany and the fear is still there. But as happens so often when authoritarian regimes begin to lose some of their power, Czechoslovakia seems to be moving very fast. There are bound to be reactions and we do not expect liberty as we understand it to be established there overnight. But the unrest in East Europe is one more indication that monolithic communism is coming apart at the seams.

The Basic Problems in Southeast Asia

For the last ten years, Dr. Gunnar Myrdal, Swedish economist and scholar, has been studying the problems of Southeast Asia. His three volume report, Asian Drama: An Inquiry Into the Poverty of Nations, is a gloomy survey of those problems and how he feels they must be solved.

Dr. Myrdal is chiefly known in this country for his 1944 probing study of the Negro in the United States, An American Dilemma. His latest work is just as thoughtful an examination of circumstances and an attempt to determine why the majority of Southeast Asian nations are getting poorer rather than sharing the affluence of the West.

Southeast Asia needs deep institutional changes, Myrdal found, to overcome the apathy of the masses of people and the clinging to old lines of near feudal society. It needs state intervention and while progress could be made in a democratic way, Myrdal does not see that as the only way. Western aid can help but essentially the changes must come from the people of Southeast Asia, through birth control, far more productive agriculture, land reform, and government enforcement of policies established.

In almost every country Myrdal found that the present governments, through one excuse or another, are maintaining power and wealth among the very few. Thailand uses "concern for internal stability;" in the Philippines, "it is the almost baronial power wielded by the landed gentry;" "India is ruled by a select group of upper-class citizens who use their political power to secure their privileged positions." In Burma, however, he felt that the officer corps which seized power looked to the national interest and that Pakistan can develop under its "present quasi-dictatorial regime." Indonesia must have a dictatorship for some years if it is to overcome the problems created by Sukarno's regime.

The Academic Industry

When the former director of the U.S. Employment Service recently observed that education is the "growth industry" of today, it scarcely qualified as news to anyone who has been watching local school budgets, the educational finance pressures in city councils, state legislatures and the congress, the endless new school and college campus construction projects across the land, or his own tax bill attributable to the costs of public schooling from the kindergarten to the graduate schools.

But it may be useful for American employers in other lines to note the advice of Frank H. Cassell that business faces its most direct and forceful competition for employment recruitment in the years ahead from what might be called the "academic industry."

Teachers in the country are now increasing in numbers at the rate of 55,000 a year, not only because of the growth of the country's population, but because of enlargement of curricula, the reduction in size of classes, the enrichment of school services, and the lengthening of the average young person's academic career.

Today in Wisconsin about half of all high school graduates enroll in college. Soon half of those who graduate from college will enroll in graduate school, and stay there longer than their predecessor generations. Accordingly, the number of persons in teaching during the next 10 years will increase at four times the rate of the last 10 years. The recruiting competition importance of the schools, moreover, will be enhanced by the powerful movement for higher school salaries and the fact that teaching is usually classified as a draft deferable occupation.

Taylor Writes

Nation Is Demoralized; Broken Pledges by RFK and LBJ to Blame

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

Since the New Hampshire primary the knife - throwing gentry in President Johnson's own Democratic Party are increasingly busy at their fratricidal business of carving him up.

He appears fallen like a lion, surrounded by a hungry pack. First they gather cautiously, ready to flee. Then, gaining strength from one another, they rush to devour the giant—that was, saying, "Why, he wasn't such a big lion, after all."

Yet the whole Washington cabal seems to have fallen out of phase with the folks back home. Everywhere I go politics, as politics, appears to be in the doghouse. It seems obvious that people couldn't care less what the politicians are doing to one another.

Washington, I think, is mentally tired of trying to figure things out. All I can find from one end of the country to the other is a feeling of confusion, anxiety and impatience — a nagging feeling that, after all, the country's sacrifices have really gotten it nowhere and that no matter what we do we are somehow being thrown away.

HAVE LOST RESPECT

One of the most damaging features of what is called Mr. Johnson's "credibility gap" is that millions, incensed by the reversal of White House pledges, have stopped believing that our political system is honorable and has a respectable meaning.

Today's movement toward nihilism, anarchy and alienation — not alone among many young people — and the cynicism that accompanies it, never before typical in our country, are in large part due to the undermined faith of our people.

The Kennedy and Johnson reversals of their 1960 and 1964 promises were, and still are, carried forth by deception, both in domestic policy (both went on and on to say, say, say, "I believe in a balanced budget") and in foreign policy (Cuba, Laos, Berlin, Vietnam). Doubt is an accumulative process and today's gnawing, corrosive lack of confidence in the government is the inevitable result.

This adds up to a demoralized nation. The individual feels isolated — confused within himself by the nation's leaders, their actions, their policies, their results, and the individual's own inability to support the nation's course.

Another gap compounds this. This gap is the apparently irreconcilable gap between the objectives of Mr. Johnson's administration and the willingness of the people to support these. You feel the corrosive effect creeping into the bone structure of the country.

The latest Gallup poll surveying 1,898 local Republican leaders indicates that, although the Vietnam war is the most dominant single issue, domestic problems — collectively — show up stronger than the war as an issue.

The top seven election campaign arguments named by the leaders, in order of frequency of their mention, are the Vietnam war, the high cost of living, Mr. Johnson's domestic programs, too much government spending and taxing, too much power for Mr. Johnson, loss of states' rights by Washington's intrusions and a whole brimming basketful of foreign policy criticisms.

ONE-MAN SHOW

For the first time there is substantial evidence that great numbers of Americans are alarmed about "government by executive order" and increasingly alarmed.

Apparently millions now fear that Mr. Johnson is running a dangerous one-man show.

The boomerang result is not softened by Mr. Johnson's undependability for truth-telling. This reaches dramatic heights in the finding among most polls that a majority of the American people do not believe they are being told, or ever have been told, the full truth about the Vietnam war.

A nation cannot be stronger than its beliefs. Its beliefs cannot be manufactured to suit a moment, a government, a policy or a person. Demoralization comes when people find themselves unsupported by tested convictions of their own and by a government environment they cannot believe in, rally to and respect.

Mr. Johnson is admittedly a political animal. But he's doing things the hard way by playing politics today. If the President would simply quit playing politics for awhile, and let the country see him doing only his level best in his immense and heartbreaking job, and let the chips fall where they may, the country would rally behind him in a way that is otherwise totally impossible.

LaFollette Logical Choice to Lead Party In Badger Campaign

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The nomination by the Democratic Party of Attorney General Bronson LaFollette for governor can probably be assumed, even as it was generally assumed by attentive politicians in both parties during the last several months that he would become a candidate for the nomination.

The man who made a suc-

Wyngaard

cessful first run for one of the most important offices in the state at the age of 29 and then managed to win a solid reelection in spite of the sagging fortunes of his party in other directions two years later, must be counted as a formidable challenger for the party's titular leadership this year, all other considerations aside. It may well be that he would have deferred his ambition until a more favorable time, as in 1970, but the trained politician learns early that he must run when the party wants him, or risk losing the chance altogether.

FAMILY NAME IS ASSET

The most important asset that the young attorney general brings to his party's campaign this year is obviously his family name and its historic associations. There is an element of irony in that circumstance, since the last LaFollette on the Wisconsin political scene before him, including his father and his uncle, ended their careers in defeat and demolished their old Progressive Party with their downfall.

Those Republican managers who do their homework — including analysis of past voting trends and habits — know that LaFollette is probably the strongest top candidate the Democrats could field this year — even as do those pro-Democratic groups that urged him into the contest.

Thus the LaFollette announcement will increase the pressure upon Knowles to make another run if, in fact, he has not yet decided that he wants to do so, as he has repeatedly insisted. Even as LaFollette found it impossible to turn a deaf ear to the importuning of the Democratic partisans, Knowles will find it

Subject of Money Hush-Hush Like Sex

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

After a party, one of our guests wandered into the kitchen for a drink of water and came across my older boy washing up the cups and saucers. "I suppose you're getting paid for this?" she asked.

"Heck, no," he said. "I get

a good allowance, and I don't need to be paid extra for a little job like this."

She reported this conversation to me, in mingled surprise, admiration, and envy. "Most boys I know, including mine," she said, "wouldn't feel they get enough allowance, and would want to be paid for washing dishes after a party."

Actually, my children all get modest allowances, tailored to their ages and special needs. What continually astonishes me is the poor communication between parents and children on the subject of money. It is almost as hedged in by fear, repression and fantasy as the subject of sex is between the generations.

Many children are given no idea of their parents' true economic status, and imagine themselves to be much poorer or much richer than they actually are. Others, and this is even worse, are lied to by sunny parents or bragged to hard to gainsay those of his friends in the Republican organization who know that the governorship is the most important office in the politics of any state and that once it is lost, it takes a long time for a party to recover from the blow.

URGED BY REPUBLICANS

When LaFollette, the young assistant in the U.S. attorney's office in Madison four or five years ago, let it be known among his friends that he would like to follow in the family's political tradition, he was urged by some Republicans to run for congressman in the Madison district, on the assumption that he would choose the primary party label of his family.

When he decided that he preferred association with the Democrats, there was talk about running him for Dane County district attorney, which is where his famous grandfather got his start. Had he not boldly, and perhaps presumptuously, struck out for the high and responsible office of attorney general in defiance of such counsel, he would not now be in such a good position to take over the party, as both he and his old advisors doubtless are now reflecting wryly.

He now has a record of having held high office, and although the Republicans will be loath to accept it, it is a record as creditable as those of most of his predecessors. It is not generally known that the office is primarily operated by professional and career civil servants. But LaFollette has used it with great skill as a forum for his political views, and ideology aside, has made no more mistakes than most of its previous occupants.

ADMITTED HIS BLUNDER

One of them no doubt was the widely publicized remark attributed to him about "police brutality" after the University of Wisconsin Madison campus riots of last fall. But it is the mark of the practical man in politics to acknowledge an error when an error has obviously been made, if only to extinguish it from the public mind. LaFollette apologized gracefully enough when he found the opportunity at a law enforcement conference in Milwaukee recently.

In the end, that experience might have been a valuable one — as a constant reminder of the hazards and possibilities for blunders that lie in the path of any man who starts the campaign trail in March that ends eight weary months later.

Rest Suggested After Meal for Heart Patient

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: Should a person with a heart condition rest, lie down or move about after a meal? — H.H.

Dr. Molner

Digesting one's food requires an increase in circulation of the blood in the digestive area — the shifting of circulation takes place automatically in the body. If a person already has a heart condition, that means that it is wise not to put too much strain on it. The blood supply for the digestive tract makes its demands; therefore do not make too many other demands on the heart at the same time. Hence the answer is that a person with heart trouble should take it easy after a meal. Whether one sits or lies down is a matter of preference, but exertion should be avoided. If the meal has been a small one, there is no harm in walking slowly or moderately. A large meal, however, can provoke the pain of angina pectoris. In any event, it is advisable for such a patient not to overeat. Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any way to prevent prostate gland trouble? If so what measures should be taken? — S.L.

There isn't any way as simple as taking a pill or following a faddish diet, just as there isn't any sure way of "preventing" appendicitis, pneumonia or arthritis, although there are general health rules which will help. Best thing to prevent serious prostate trouble is to have it treated early rather than late. The way to do this is to understand the prostate, know what it does, and be able to recognize early signs if trouble starts to develop. You'll find all that in my booklet, "The Pesky Prostate." For a copy, send 25 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Molner, care of The Post-Crescent.

Dear Dr. Molner: My spleen has been removed. I have heard there are certain foods I should not eat. Is this true? — Mrs. G.G.

There are no foods that need be avoided because of removal of the spleen. Diet is not related to the situation.

Dear Dr. Molner: We are four ladies who like to read and study up on diseases in the library and medical journals.

We have yet to find any mention or write-up on pernicious anemia. Is it so deadly that one does not like to go into details about it? Is it a first cousin to leukemia? Does it shorten one's life if an elderly person has it severely? — D.W.

Dear me, you must have been at the library on the days I've discussed pernicious anemia in this column.

The story of pernicious anemia is one of the very inspiring ones in medicine. It used to be unalterably fatal, the victim wasting away and sometimes becoming paralyzed.

About 40 years ago it was discovered that giving the patient large amounts of liver every day could stop the disease in its tracks.

Later the important part of the liver was found to be Vitamin B 12, so today with the use of periodic shots of Vitamin B 12, pernicious anemia has lost its terrors. It is no kin to leukemia.

The disease still exists (sometimes masked for a time by the ingredients of mixed vitamin preparations) but by giving B 12, the physician permits the patient to live a normal life.

If you are interested in medical topics, why not read up on the story of Dr. G.R. Minot, who discovered the secret of controlling pernicious anemia, and was himself, if memory serves me, just as dramatically saved himself? He had diabetes, too — and insulin was discovered in time to rescue him. (Copyright, 1968)

How would you like to sail down the Nile in a powered launch and look up to see scores of elephants feeding on trees along the river bank, look down to see countless crocodiles slithering in the mud next to their buddies, the hippos?

This is what I saw (plus lions, giraffes, rhinos, baboons, etc.) in Uganda and Tanzania, two countries in East Africa, 7,000, 8,000 miles from New York City during the period my income tax series was appearing. And if my response is typical, I also witnessed the beginning of what will become one of the great tourist areas of the globe.

Scenic Beauty

In many regions, you can find awe-inspiring mountains, magnificent beaches, holiday climates and sports. But on top of all this, here you find a fantastic variety of wild animals constantly on the move across hundreds of square miles of national parks.

If you're even a mite of adventurous spirit, you must yearn to see the animals alive and FREE. If you've any love of nature at all, you must thrill to the fact that the emerging nations of East Africa have had the basic sense to earmark precious funds to set apart huge areas where each species may exist, evolve, and survive.

The two problems of how to get there in the time you can afford for a vacation are rapidly being solved. Increasing numbers of airlines are staking out routes to the capital cities of Nairobi in Kenya, Kampala in Uganda, Dar Es Salaam in Tanzania. We flew via a U. S. airline (our ticket dollars never left the country.) You can make rising at a spectacular 10-30 per cent annually, East Africa is not yet prepared for a significant tourist influx. Other Difficulties What's more, my interviews with government officials revealed that policies on building the lodges essential to house us are exceedingly fuzzy. There are no coordinated efforts to woo us, no publicity programs worthy of the name. Passable roads are still another problem. It's okay to go through a series of bone-jarring bumps in a Jeep or Land Rover while stalking animals on the plains but it is not okay to suffer the ruts while riding on what are called roads. And there are other drawbacks — in attitudes, services, the calibre of labor — which will restrain the pace of the tourist rise. But all of the negatives shrink against the one great positive of the unique and abundant wildlife. Spurred by your memories of the stuffed animals you loved as an infant, armed only with a camera, protected by a car and guided by strict safari regulations, you can "bag" a bonanza of dreams in East Africa, and this will translate into tourist boom. Humphrey's Tux Gets Special Trip

"The phone hasn't rung for half an hour! That's the trouble with the world—lack of communication!"

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) What happens when you're scheduled to be principal speaker at the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick's dinner and you forget your formal attire? If you're vice president of the United States, you send your jet-liner back to Washington to get it. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey arrived in Scranton Sunday night without a tuxedo. The discovery was made shortly after the $3 million jet landed at the Scranton-Wilkes-Barre airport at 5:05 p.m. The Lockheed Jetstar went back to Washington National Airport and returned at 7:42 p.m. A state police car transported the formal wear to the vice president waiting at a Scranton hotel.

35,000 Apparent Increase in Troops

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is expected to increase U.S. troop strength in Vietnam by at least one more division—or about 35,000 more men.

Sources said the President has decided on a “moderate increase” in U.S. military manpower in response to an appeal by Gen. William C. Westmoreland, American commander in Vietnam, to raise the 525,000-man ceiling previously set.

Westmoreland was reported to have requested up to 60,000 more men after the massive Communist Tet offensive which began at the end of January.

Johnson's purpose in sending more troops, it is understood, is to give U.S. and allied forces a greater capacity to carry on offensive operations. Even so, large numbers of troops will remain tied down to defensive duties in the cities and in South Vietnam's northern provinces opposite large North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces near Khe Sanh and Hue.

No Commitment

Although Johnson is reported not to have reached a firm commitment on numbers, 35,000—a division plus supporting units—was the total being mentioned by Washington sources.

They said any boost was likely to be spread out over several months.

The administration also is reported to have agreed to speed up its plans to furnish South Vietnamese forces with modern light weapons.

Officials have said South Vietnamese provincial and local troops were outgunned during the Tet offensive by Viet Cong units armed with large numbers of Soviet-designed automatic rifles.

Rep. Paul Findley R-Ill., announced meanwhile that 137 House members have joined as co-sponsors of his resolution calling for an immediate congressional review of U.S. policy in Vietnam.

Faces Warren for Nomination Ceci Again to Seek Office

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Louis J. Ceci, a 40-year-old Milwaukee area attorney, today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for attorney-general.

At a morning press conference here, he became the second candidate for the post which Democratic incumbent Bronson LaFollette is vacating to run for the governorship.

Ceci, the 1966 GOP candidate against LaFollette, becomes a convention opponent of Green Bay State Sen. Robert Warren, who announced his candidacy last week.

Ceci would not say that he would drop out of the race if he lost the binding convention endorsement to Warren, leading to prospects of a bitter intra-party fight between now and the May 24 state party convention.

Ceci said that “now that the incumbent attorney-general has said he will seek another office, some candidates who could not muster the courage to run against this politically-powerful name will suddenly discover this to be an attractive opportunity, an opportunity to cash in on a good thing.”

Warren and an unnamed Republican in 1966 were offered the chance to run against LaFollette before Ceci, a one-term assemblyman, agreed to make the bid, he said.

Warren “vehemently declined” the opportunity, Ceci charged.

Ceci said he has gained widespread support from local and district Republican leaders in his bid this spring and expects to win the endorsement.

In the announcement, Ceci repeated his 1966 campaign theme of crime in the streets and civil disorder and added campus unrest as the main planks in his platform.

He lost that race, but polled 528,000 votes, losing to LaFollette, who had 609,000.

Questions and Answers

What Is Two-Price System For Gold? Why Is It Used?

NEW YORK (AP) — Seven of the leading Western industrialized nations approved Sunday in Washington a two-price system for gold.

What is the system? How will it work? Will it stop the U.S. loss of gold?

Here are some of the questions and answers about the system:

Q—What is the two-price system for gold?

A—It means a price of $35 an ounce would be maintained in transactions between central banks of different countries, such as the Federal Reserve Bank in the United States and the Bank of England. Prices in a private market would be determined by demand and supply, estimated at around $40 to $45 an ounce.

Stop Speculation

Q—Why was a two-price system set up?

A—It was designed to stop the wild speculative buying of gold bullion at $35 an ounce which swamped the London gold market. The buying severely drained the gold reserves of the seven nations which make up the London gold pool. Speculators were buying the gold for $35 on the assumption it would increase in price. Now gold on the free market will sell at whatever price people are willing to pay—without affecting the price of gold used for settling transactions among nations.

Q—What was the old price system?

A—The United States and seven other Western nations—including France which withdrew—formed the London gold pool to stabilize the price of gold at $35 an ounce. This is the price at which the United States, since 1934, has said it will pay in gold for other countries' dollars.

Q—When was the gold pool formed?

Formed in 1961

A—The pool came into being in 1961 to stabilize the price of gold after the price in the London market soared to more than $40 an ounce.

Q—Why didn't the old price system work?

A—In times of uncertainty about paper currencies hoarded by speculators would cash in their paper money for gold. This created a drain on the reserves of the London gold pool nations, especially the United States which supplied 59 per cent of the gold.

Q—Does the two-price system solve the U.S. gold problem?

A—Economists say it stops the loss of gold immediately but the underlying problem—the balance of payments deficit—remains. Steps such as a tax increase and spending cuts must be taken to reduce the deficit, according to economists.

Q—What are the seven nations which agreed to this two-price system?

A—In addition to the United States, they are Belgium, West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Switzerland, and Britain.

Q—How much gold do the seven nations have?

A—About $26 billion.

Q—Will these seven nations now supply gold to any market?

A—In their Sunday communiqué, the central banks said they “decided no longer to supply gold to the London gold market or any other gold market.” They said they felt the existing stock of monetary gold—gold held in governmental reserves—is “sufficient.”

Q—What would prevent the central banks from acquiring gold at $35 an ounce and reselling it for a profit at a higher price in the private market?

A—The seven nations agreed that they would not sell gold to other countries to replace gold sold in the private market. The seven also agreed they would not purchase gold in the free market.

Q—How long will the higher private market prices last?

A—One Paris gold dealer said “as soon as all the speculators try to sell gold and take their profit, you will have too much gold around” and the price would drop.

Q—Where will the gold come from for the private market?

A—Newly mined gold and gold held by individuals will be the sources. But government-held gold, the bulk of the world's supply, won't be available to individuals.

cations that resistance in Congress is melting.

To make sure that no government tries to make a sneak profit by selling official $35-an-ounce gold to private buyers at the free market price, the seven signatory governments agreed they will not sell to any government “to replace gold sold in private markets.”

In other words, if any government chooses to violate the ban on private sales, it will lose for good that much gold from its reserves.

The seven signatory governments—Britain, Belgium, Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Switzerland and the United States—hold about $6 billion in their official gold reserves. The total held by all governments is close to $40 billion. Privately held stocks are comparatively small.

The statement read to reporters by William McChesney Martin, Federal Reserve Board chairman, at the close of the weekend meeting said:

“As the existing stock of monetary gold is sufficient in view of the prospective establishment of the facility for Special Drawing Rights, they (the seven governments) no longer feel it is necessary to buy gold from the market.”

Special Drawing Rights, or SDRs, are a new form of money to be created for the sole purpose of international settlements. They will be merely bookkeeping entries in the books of the International Monetary Fund.

The SDR system was approved last September by the IMF, but still requires ratification by its member nations. It would not be a substitute for gold but a supplement to it which can expand the world's monetary resources as needed to support the growth of trade.

Rockefeller's Hopes May Rest on Ohio Poll

Good Showing in Oregon Will Bring Him Support of Buckeye State's Leaders

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

COLUMBUS, Ohio — A secret poll to be taken by the Ohio Republican party early in June just after the May 28 Oregon presidential primary may turn out to be Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's best hope for the Republican presidential nomination.

If Rockefeller runs markedly better than Nixon in that survey, it likely will give him most of Ohio's 58 delegates and perhaps irreversible momentum for his presidential hopes. Indeed, Ohio, traditional bastion of Republican conservatism, is ironically the main reason why the nomination cannot quite be wrapped up yet for Richard M. Nixon.

Flamboyant Gov. James A.

Rhodes, Ohio's all-time champion vote-getter, and John Andrews, the party's bright young state chairman, are determined to nominate a winner this time. And, again contrary to cliché, the most recent survey by the state party shows both Rockefeller and Nixon edging President Johnson with Rockefeller running slightly stronger.

Evans

Rhodes, Ohio's all-time champion vote-getter, and John Andrews, the party's bright young state chairman, are determined to Rockefeller's March 10 summit meeting in New York) until at least July. Moreover, their pro-Rockefeller inclinations are backed up by polls. Contrary to the cliché that this Midwestern heartland is Nixon country, the most recent survey by the state party shows both Rockefeller and Nixon edging President Johnson with Rockefeller running slightly stronger.

But party leaders here are interested in more than just beating Mr. Johnson. They want somebody atop the ticket to pull in state and local candidates. And, again contrary to cliché, the most recent poll shows the most recent poll shows on's supported a Nixon winning up to 5 percentage points. He while that he is that better with Rockefeller on the ticket than with Nixon.

Consequently, Ohio's traditional role at national party conventions as guardian of Republican orthodoxy is being transformed to champion of political pragmatism — a change understandable only against the backdrop of the last four years.

The 1964 Story

In 1964, Rhodes was a state party leader in name only. Some 47 of the state's 58 delegates were committed in advance to Barry Goldwater no matter what Jim Rhodes had to say about it. Bowing to the inevitable, Rhodes backed Goldwater at San Francisco. The dismal result in November was Goldwater carrying only five of Ohio's 88 counties and scores of Republican candidates perishing in his wake.

The party bounced back in 1966 behind Rhodes's landslide re-election victory and immediately began working against a recurrence even faintly reminiscent of 1964.

The first step was guarding against another infiltration of the delegation in behalf of one candidate. State Chairman Andrews, fully backed by Rhodes, permitted only delegates not opposed in advance to any single candidate for president — automatically excluding confirmed Rockefeller-haters. The remarkable result is that of 58 regular party delegates only 17 were on the 1964 delegation (and more than half of those are statewide at-large delegates picked because of their office).

The main challenger to the Rhodes-Andrew doctrine is Rep. John Ashbrook, a young doctrinaire conservative and loner in Ohio politics who is opposing the two regular party delegates from his district in the May 7 primary. Despite opposition from Andrews's state committee, Ashbrook is expected to win and go to Miami Beach pledged in advance against Rockefeller.

Besides Ashbrook, another new breed rightwinger — Rep. Donald (Buz) Lukens, Goldwaterite National Chairman of the Young Republicans in 1963-64 — is determined to throw his district's two delegates (on the regular slate) against Rockefeller. Nor are such Bourbon Republicans as former Sen. John Bricker and National Committeewoman Katherine Kennedy Brown likely to vote for Rockefeller.

But these are exceptions. Although Nixon might win two-thirds of the delegation on a test of personal preference, most Ohio delegates are more interested in winning nationally and keeping their big 1966 majorities in the state general assembly. Once Rhodes gave the high sign, 50 out of 58 delegates probably would follow him to Rockefeller.

Not much whip-snapping would be needed. The average Ohio party stalwart, while duly grateful to Nixon for his many fund-raising visitations here, has turned pragmatic. Thus, the answer to Ohio and perhaps the nomination depends on that poll in June, which in turn, may be shaped by a Rockefeller-Nixon showdown in Oregon on May 28. In fact, the Ohio party leaders feller victory in Oregon likely would deliver him the Ohio support he needs so badly. For Rockefeller, then, the road to Columbus starts in Portland. (Copyright 1968)

Dow Interviews, Draft Counseling Set at UW

School Plan to Expand on Information For Students About Selective Service

MADISON — In a double-barreled approach, the University of Wisconsin administration announced Friday that it had rescheduled the on-again, off-again Dow Chemical Company job placement interviews and that it intends to go into the draft counseling business.

The Dow interviews, subject to violent protests by anti-war demonstrators on the Madison campus, will be held Saturday, March 30. Madison campus Chancellor William Sewell announced. The last interviews on campus, Oct. 18, resulted in a riot.

Interviews were postponed during the winter while a faculty-student committee examined policies affecting the Dow company and all other prospective employers.

The committee, by split vote, recommended discontinuation of job interviews, in effect until the Vietnam war is ended.

This week the faculty overrode that recommendation and voted to back interviews on campus. The Saturday date is expected to keep onlookers at a minimum.

The draft counseling, Sewell announced, will be an expansion of a current service restricted to informing students about the Selective Service Systems 2-S classification for student deferments from the draft.

Included in the new program, said Sewell, will be information on conscientious objector status and fleeing the country to avoid the draft.

Sewell told the regents that students would not be advised to take the latter action, but that the consequences of the act would be pointed out.

He said many students currently receive prejudiced information from friends and draft resistance groups on such programs.

The University offers no advice but should on conscientious objector status, a legal classification under the Selective Service System, he said.

Recruit Training Chief This Is Different Kind Of War, General Feels

By BRUCE E. RICHARDSON
Associated Press Writer

FORT SHERIDAN, Ill. (AP) — The Korean War and the fighting in Vietnam are separated by time and distance.

A professional soldier who gained fame in one as a fighter and who now is training recruits for the other says the wars are also miles and years apart from a military standpoint.

"Today's war is much like the frontier days when we fought the Indians—it's strictly guerrilla-type, hit-and-run warfare," according to Lt. Gen. John H. "Mike" Michaelis, who commanded the 25th Division's famous "Wolfhound" infantry regiment during the Korean War.

"The battle in Korea was fought along fairly well-defined lines," he said in an interview. "There was a general perimeter and there were safe areas."

See Enemy

Michaelis, commanding general of the U.S. 5th Army headquartered at Ft. Sheridan, north of Chicago, said a great deal of fighting took place along the ridges in Korea.

"We could sit up on the ridges and see the enemy were fighting most of the time," he recalled. "In Vietnam, the enemy can be sitting 10 yards away in the dense jungle cover and you can't see him."

Michaelis, who won the Distinguished Service Cross, the second highest award for heroism in combat, said the Army has changed training procedures to put today's soldier on even terms with the enemy.

"Quick Kill"

One type of training for soldiers headed for Vietnam the general said, is the "quick kill" method of firing a rifle.

"Besides being taught the conventional methods of firing, soldiers are being taught to fire from the hip, without taking time to sight in the target," he said.

"We start them out with air rifles shooting at silver dollar-size discs thrown into the air and later they work up to the regular rifle," he said. "It's much like teaching duck hunting. You'd be surprised at the accuracy they achieve."

"This type of firing is a must in Vietnam," he said, "where the enemy is all around and may pop up at any time."

The 55-year-old general served eight months as commander of the "Wolfhounds." He received two battlefield commissions, from lieutenant colonel to brigadier general. His regiment became known as the fire brigade and was employed as a separate unit to plug gaps in the Pusan perimeter.

Michaelis was wounded twice during World War II when he parachuted with his troops in the invasion of Normandy and again in the airborne assault in Holland.

The general said today's training is also more slanted for small platoon-type action. "In Europe and Korea we used entire units," he said, "but because of the jungle terrain in Vietnam, the big unit approach is not as effective."

"There is a great deal of emphasis on the individual and on training soldiers to coordinate air and ground strikes," he added.

The general began his Army career by enlisting as a private in 1931 and was graduated from the U.S. Military Academy in

Ask High Court to Define Standards For Motor Carriers

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The State Supreme Court has been asked to rule on the standards that must be used by the Public Service Commission in granting certificates of operating authority to intrastate motor carriers.

According to the Wisconsin Motor Carriers Association, the appeal of a Dane County Circuit Court decision will bring about a "landmark ruling."

At issue in the litigation is the proposal of Martin Priebe and Son to expand contract motor carrier authority for the transport of livestock from farms within an 18-mile radius of the Town of Brooklyn, in Green Lake County, to Green Bay and the Town of Ashwaubenon in Brown County.

Application Denied

The regulatory commission had denied the application, holding that existing shipping services are adequate, but the ruling was overturned upon appeal to the Dane County Circuit Court.

When the application was considered by the agency, two other carriers already holding operating authority for the route opposed it.

The substance of the trial court's decision was that preferences of livestock producers for quality service and economic benefits must be considered by the commission and considered to be proof of need for it.

Test Replaced

The effect, says the Wisconsin Motor Carriers Association, which has filed a brief with the state appeals court, is that the trial court has attempted to replace the "reasonable and adequate" test of service which has been followed for many years.

"If this decision is sustained," said counsel for the trade association, "it will mean that the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin will become a rubber stamp agency burdened by a judicial mandate to grant every application for intrastate contract carrier authority as long as the supporting witness can allege that he desires a quality of service."

Hyphen Removed It's Official; Green Bay Campus Is Now UWGB

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The University of Wisconsin-Green Bay formally became the UWGB Friday.

The UW's Board of Regents adopted an abbreviation system that finally fixed the shortened designation of the campus which will open for Northeastern Wisconsin students in 1969 as the "UWGB."

The action came after 18 months of effort by the administrators of the new campus to win backing for a "UWG" title.

"We're now in transition. I've now endorsed it," said Chancellor Edward W. Weidner, former backer of the three letter abbreviation.

Newspapers Dominate

UW President Fred H. J. Harrington, recommending a system of abbreviations for the entire UW system, pointed out that, "The chancellor of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay made a spirited attempt to name it the UW-G, but the newspapers in the area dominated."

"I notice his communications have a tendency to come out as the UW-G, however," said Regent James Nellen of Green Bay.

Weidner then good naturedly announced that he had concurred in the recommendation.

Under the new system, the UWGB will be joined by the UWP (Parkside), UWM (Milwaukee), and the UW-MSN (Madison).

The UWGB will include the Fox Valley Campus, the Manitowish County Campus, and the Marinette County Campus.

The University of Wisconsin Center System will be designated the UWCS, and the UW extension program will be dubbed UWEX.

The only opposition to the plan came from regents who argued that the Madison campus should be referred to only as the University of Wisconsin, in line with its traditions and academic excellence. Involved were Arthur DeBardeleben of Park Falls and A. Matt. Werner of Sheboygan.

University officials, including Weidner, countered that faculty members of other campuses feel that they are slighted if they are set apart and seemingly not considered fullfledged UW staff members.

Stassen Welcomes Kennedy Entry Into Primary Campaign

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Harold Stassen, challenging Richard M. Nixon in Wisconsin's April 2 primary, says Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's entry into the presidential campaign might prompt Nixon to be "specific" on Vietnam issues.

The former Minnesota governor, addressing a group of college students Friday, said Sen. Eugene McCarthy's strong showing Tuesday in New Hampshire's primary "shows that people are beginning to understand the issues. It shows that they are turning against the war."

Stassen said Kennedy's appearance in the Democratic presidential campaign would increase review of the war topic.

"Maybe this will promote more clear discussion of the Vietnam problem," he said. "As it is, my opponent refuses to be specific."

Nixon, Stassen and California Gov. Ronald Reagan are the three Republicans in Wisconsin's primary. McCarthy faces President Johnson on the Democratic ballot.

"If you want a continuing war, then Nixon is the one," Stassen said. "If you want the most expensive campaign, one financed by war industries, then Nixon is the one."

Stassen toured Milwaukee's predominantly Negro Inner Core, scene of 200 consecutive days of open housing demonstrations which were ended this week. He called slums a symbol of "one of the nation's tragedies."

He declined comment on the current gold crisis, but responded to a question on the subject by saying the Vietnam conflict "has distorted the economy and deflated the dollar."

Farm Project Involves Many New Learning Experiences

The only difference between a bull and a cow is a ring in the bull's nose.

At least that was the consensus of 62 Primary 2 and 3 youngsters at Lincoln School who recently completed a project to study the farm industry in the state.

Despite a trip to the farm, various experiments and the continuous efforts of Mrs. Cora Bantleon and Kenneth Ginner, instructors of the multi-age group, the bull remained a cow to the end.

In short, the time when school children called a farm a home has sunk into ancient history for the majority of children today.

"Start from Scratch"

"We have to start from scratch because even the feel of a tiny chicken was a new thrill for them," explained Mrs. Bantleon.

A visit to the Willard Van Handel farm started the project rolling. Here the children, most of whom had never been near animals, had an opportunity to play with the chickens, pet the calves and climb to the very top of the silo.

As the project progressed, an incubator was placed in one of the classes and the children could observe new life as chickens hatched from eggs. The whole class also participated in making butter in an old-fashioned churn and baked cornbread, both of which served as a delicious treat at a party culminating the project.

All of this was fun and something the children began to look forward to, but the purpose of the program went deeper than that, as all projects do.

Teaches Values

"We tried to teach the class values and make them aware that dairying is a major industry in the state — one they can be proud of," Ginner explained.

It also pointed out the relationship between one kind of farming and the welfare of people in towns and cities; illustrated the cleanliness essential on a dairy farm, and increased the appreciation of milk as a food and a beverage.

"This also was a good way to awaken their interest in what the government and social organizations are doing, said one of the instructors.

Geography, math and social studies got a few boosts too and "the children didn't even notice," the instructors added with smiles.

During the butter-making process, the youngsters quickly measured pints, quarts, gallons and cups without a second thought and teaspoons, cupfuls, pounds and ounces became familiar terms during the bread-baking escapade.

Traced Maps

Maps, once a frightening mass of lines, became familiar as small fingers traced roads, and highways and circled villages and cities, marking their relationship to the farms in the vicinity.

Social studies were interspersed throughout the entire project as children learned to understand the difficulties other children throughout the world experience without regular supply of milk.

Through their joint projects, they learned cooperation and to share and help others; and that an outstretched hand has to reach further than the class and the family; that it has to be long enough to encircle the globe.

Made Booklets

But it was the making of illustrated booklets on farm animals and farm life which proved the most delightful. It also proved that despite the lack of knowledge about farming, anything is possible when one has a pure and simple imagination and a bent for the artistic.

Using all the letters of the alphabet, the children had to come up with an object on the farm to fit the letter.

Now, everyone knows there are a number of letters which simply don't have words to match. In those cases, one has to improvise.

So, when a writer comes to the letter "N", one simply uses his imagination and comes up with "N is for the nut tree on the farm."

And then there are the difficult M's, O's, R's, S's and V's. No problem. "M stands for cows that moo; O for jumping over the fence or oval eggs; R for running dogs; S for horse's saddle, and V for veterinarian."

Some were a little stumped by the difficult G, which automatically stands for goose, of course; and the J, which definitely is for jumping calves; or the K, which naturally stands for kernels of corn.

It seems adjectives and adverbs was another thing in which the class had a great deal of practice.

Colorful illustrations of wild horses, "Xmas" on the farm, yellow chicks and Zeke, the hired hand, need no explanation that W, X, Y and Z were as simple as the rest of the letters in the alphabet.

All the animals, buildings and equipment were correctly illustrated, though a little bit out of proportion, but there was no doubt that the project could be declared a success.

That is, all of it except for the bull. The poor bull remained a cow with a ring in his nose to the very last.

There Is Nothing as soft as a newly-hatched chick, decide Kurtis Bruss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bruss, and Traycee England, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas England, above. The Primary 2 and 3 youngsters were just as fascinated by an older variety of the same animal on their visit to the Willard Van Handel farm. Getting acquainted with the chicken, at right, are Ann Hallada, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hallada; David Theyerl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Theyerl, and Becky Brabender, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Brabender.

Strong Hands Churned Milk Into Butter while smaller ones held on, waiting their turn. Cooperation radiated on the faces of Jamie Zemlock, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Zemlock; Edgar Sutta, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Sutta, and Dree Larson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Larson.

Conference for Women Set at Oshkosh

A special current affairs conference for women is scheduled April 27 at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh. It will be the forerunner of what is hoped can be an annual joint effort among four northeastern Wisconsin universities in the area of continuing education for women.

Cooperating agencies are: The Division of Extended Services, Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh; Lawrence University, Appleton; and the University of Wisconsin Extension through the U.W. Green Bay and Fox Valley Centers.

Increased interest among Fox Valley-Green Bay women in further education prompted representatives of each institution to explore the joint sponsorship. Through combining the resources of each university, it was felt programs of highest caliber could be made accessible to all area women, as well as to those interested throughout the state.

Plan Other Programs

If this spring's conference proves successful, plans are to present similar programs on topics of current concern each year, alternating the location of such meetings among the four campuses.

The April 27 conference is titled "Television: Architect of Society," and will be highlighted by an address by Dr. Frances Horwich, Director of Children's Programming, WFLD-TV, Chicago.

Dr. Horwich is perhaps best known as "Miss Frances" of the NBC-TV program, "Ding Dong School." Also speaking will be: James Robertson, director of radio-TV, University of Wisconsin Extension; Harold Larson, vice president, J. Walter Thompson Co., Chicago; and Arthur Olczyk, news editor of The Milwaukee Journal stations.

The selection of this topic was based on the assumption that television has changed our society. Conference participants will explore how, whether the change has been good, and what, if anything, might be done about it.

The institutional planning committee includes: Mrs. Ione Brown, Continuing Education Agent, University of Wisconsin-Green Bay Center; Donald Vorpahl, Lawrence University, Appleton; Allen Bussell, University of Wisconsin-Fox Valley Center; Mrs. Connie Threinen, Director of Continuing Education for Women, University of Wisconsin Extension; and Mrs. Audrey Hansen, Director of Continuing Education for Women, Division of Extended Services, Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh.

The organization has served over 100,000 children from over 80 nations. Since the end of the Six-Day War, priority has been given to Jewish orphans from North Africa who came to Israel.

Silver Cross Circle Benefits Camp Program

Silver Cross Circle of The King's Daughters approved a donation to Christ Child Society for the group's summer camp program at the Circle's March meeting. Hostess was Mrs. Thomas Luther. Mrs. Robert Duthie and Mrs. Robert Harper were co-hostesses.

The Circle will not hold its spring rummage sale this year, and will instead donate the rummage articles to Indians at Neopit under the State King's Daughters Indian Project.

The group's next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Howard Whitehead.

Kitchen Carpeting has a practicality most people still find hard to believe. Food spills actually wipe up without stain and spots can be sponged with detergent and water. For the most part, vacuuming is all that is needed to keep the carpet clean. Extra dividends are the warmth and sound deadening qualities, as well as the bright touch it can lend to a room.

Kitchen Carpeting Offers Color, Warmth, Easy Care

In most neighborhoods, carpet on the kitchen floor is still far out enough to be a subject for debate around bridge tables and car pools, with opinions pro and con generating almost as much heated discussion as proper hair lengths for high school boys.

A lot of the argument which keeps the kaffeeklatsches buzzing, however, is based on preconceived and out-dated notions about carpeting. For, of course, carpet for the kitchen is not just any carpet. It is woven of special man-made fibers engineered to resist stains and dirt and not to absorb liquids or foods. Tight, dense, low-level weaves have been worked from these fibers and are then bonded to a cushiony backing of natural sponge rubber or of foam rubber. Tests have shown such carpeting on a kitchen floor can really take it.

Thoroughly Tested
Women keep asking if kitchen carpet will stand up under family stress and mess. The question has been answered pretty thoroughly by women who have had kitchen carpet, since it first came out, and also by home economists who have put experimental installations of kitchen carpeting to much more stringent tests than the material is likely to undergo in the average home kitchen.

With day to day use, even those who doubted kitchen carpet's feasibility have been amazed to find that most spilled foods really do wipe right up, just as the ads say, and ordinary spots can be sponged off with water and detergent, while more stubborn greasy ones respond to cleaner fluid.

Regular vacuuming is all the upkeep the carpet needs for the most part, but if it becomes badly soiled it can be washed on the floor with a sponge mop or an electric scrubber — as easily as other floors are mopped and waxed.

Deadens Noise
What's more, these early pioneers of the carpeted kitchen discovered some dividends they didn't think about when they made their choice. The first dividend is the way the carpet deadens noise. It absorbs the usual rattling of pots and pans, children's voices and running feet and even blocks noise from outside. The second dividend they discovered was that the cushioning underfoot cuts down on the fatigue that creeps up on you after hours of walking and standing on a hard floor.

This last quality was rated as the most important of all by one young home economist who tests food recipes for a publication, after she had been working for a few weeks in a kitchen recently equipped with carpeting. "It really makes a difference by the end of the day for me," she said.

Try Something New
Every community has its adventurous souls who are not afraid to be the first to try something new. One family carpeted kitchen and family room two-and-a-half years ago when they remodeled a 45-year-old house they had just purchased. The original kitchen was completely redone and turned into a kitchen and breakfast area which opened onto the new family room they added to the house.

The decision took some courage for a family with five children and a dog. But the carpet's colors went so well

Parents, Children Look At TV in Different Ways

Television holds tremendous fascination for children, and it has become one of the major sources of recreation for some, according to Mrs. Viola Wilkin-son, family life specialist at the University of Wisconsin.

This devotion is evidenced by the many hours children choose to watch it in preference to other activities.

Many 2-year-old children become attentive viewers, and by the age of three an estimated one-third of the children make regular use of television. This proportion mounts rapidly until by the time school starts, it is the rare child who is not a regular viewer. However, more than 25 hours of televising per week should be regarded as a danger signal, Mrs. Wilkinson says.

Tastes, Habits Vary
Television tastes and habits vary with the child. Children's choices of programs will be determined by their age, sex and intelligence. Parent's attitudes and rules also influence choices. Children also decide between available programs and competing interests and activities. When children are free to select programs, their choice overwhelmingly favors fantasy over reality.

Short attention span provides young children with a built-in defense. They are content to play in front of the set without paying particular attention to the program. Often it is the irrelevant feature, the random movement or the sudden flicker which captures attention of the preschooler.

Children of six to eight, find it difficult to follow a plot, but they do develop a grasp of the interpersonal relationships seen on the screen, particularly those involving children of a similar age and sex. Much of the story content is beyond them, and they often miss the point of the adult interaction which they see. Children don't have the experience to distinguish the make-believe elements of television from the realities of life. Preschoolers and primary-grade children take what they see on TV as real, but only as a real part of their play life. This may seem contradictory to an adult who sharply distinguishes between work and play and equates the former with reality, the latter with fantasy.

Some programs offer children intellectual stimulation that fosters a broader understanding of the world in which they live. Others supply a blending of excitement without terror and offer good relaxing enjoyment. It is up to parents to regulate the amount of viewing and the choice of program, Mrs. Wilkin-son says.

The Expert Is Looking For Santa

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

A tremendous amount of harm was done to the bridge players of the United States some years ago by the New York newspaperman who wrote a famous editorial entitled "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus." The fact is, and bridge experts know it, there is NO Santa Claus.

When today's hand was played in the 1954 World Championship, Doug Steen of the American team opened the ace of diamonds. After some thought, Steen then led the nine of hearts to dummy's ace.

Jean Besse, of the European team, thought long and hard about his next move as declarer. After about 30 seconds, which seemed like an hour, he turned to his left to examine Steen carefully. He was looking for a red suit, a white beard and a round belly.

Since Steen was conservatively dressed, clean shaven and painfully thin, Besse led the singleton club from dummy and played the ace from his hand. The king dropped and Besse scored his slam.

Against Percentage Mathematically speaking, it was far more likely that East had K-x of clubs than that West had the singleton king. In the socialites and theatrical personality, South's best chance for the slam was to try a finesse in clubs.

Besse went against percentage, perhaps because he had never read that editorial in the New York Sun. If West had two small clubs he would surely lead a spade at the second trick, hoping to make dummy ruff and thus deprive declarer of a trump finesse through East.

But Steen had not led a spade, and Steen was not Santa Claus. There could be only one other explanation: Steen held the king of clubs himself. Having come to that conclusion, Besse made the only play that could possibly help him. It plays to be on the alert for white beards.

New Designs Created for Hand Knitter

It takes a great deal of energy for designers in the fashion industry to keep ahead of the youthful women of the U.S. Manufacturers and designers alike try to please and stimulate interest in new design concepts.

One yarn manufacturer has introduced an entirely new concept in knitting — knit an outfit today and wear it tomorrow. This speed knitting started when the manufacturer hired a Boston designer, Jeanne Damon, whose advanced ideas for design seem to be in step with the pace of today's living. Miss Damon invented the largest knitting needles in existence and they lap up yarn as fast as it can be unrolled from the skein.

Even a beginning knitter can put together a mini dress in an evening with these new needles, and have an outfit with a boutique look at a modest cost.

First Design

Miss Damon's first innovation was a basic mini-sleeveless dress knit entirely of the simple knit and purl stitches from the high squared neckline to the hemline. A purl stitch is used around all edges and there is no blocking or assembling required. Sides are simply sewed up and the dress is complete.

One important phase in the fashion story is the great, bulky sweater and Miss Damon feels 'the bulkier the better. One design called the "rich boy" could be just right for skiing or apres ski. It is knit with four heavy skeins of yarn in the same color and features a matching hat and interchangeable collar, one that is large enough to cover all the way up to the eyes assuring the wearer warmth, in the coldest wintry weather.

Ping-Pong Balls

Miss Damon's signature this season is the ping-pong ball. She is covering them with matching yarn and using them for closings, ends of ties, hems and even the hemline of some outfits, for dramatic effects.

Knitting is one of those hobbies women use to pass time and be creative. This new innovation might just inspire some to try their hand at something new or inspire the woman who spends many hours knitting to create something different.

Military Sweaters are created with a knit and purl stitch in red, white and blue. Four strands of varying weight yarn are used with the jumbo needles.

Royalty Joins Socialites To Dine, Dance for Charity

By LOUISE COOK

NEW YORK (AP) — Princess Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, dined, danced and made merry Friday night along with some 400 New York socialites and theatrical personalities who gathered to honor the royal couple and raise some money for charity.

The men almost outshined the women in the fashion department among the guests who danced to the music of Peter Duchin's orchestra, supped on salmon and steak and were entertained by a group of performers including Jack Cassidy and Shirley Jones. Dionne Warwick, Lisa Kirk and Tony Randall.

Velvet Jackets
Actor Richard Harris, one of those performing, was in a red velvet jacket. Several men replaced dress shirts and black bow ties with turtlenecks and necklaces adorned with jeweled medallions. And actor George Grizzard stepped out on the dance floor in a blue uniform with red epaulettes which even he was hard put to describe.

"I guess you could say it's a uniform," he said. "Doug Fairbanks was staring at it. I think he thought he wore it in 'Gunga Din.'"

Socialite Susan Stein, Grizzard's date, matched her escort's fine feathers by sporting a red, white and blue striped silk crepe formal and huge red, white and blue earrings by jewelry designer Kenneth Lane. "They're kind of like the shields of the African Masai warriors," said Miss Stein of the earrings.

Wore Long Gowns

Most of the women wore floor-length gowns. Only one miniskirt was spotted—the white organdy froth of pop art collector Ethel Skull.

Princess Margaret, in a long, other guests and enjoy themselves until the wee hours of the morning.

The party, billed as "A Gala Evening of Musical Theater," was held in the Rainbow Room, atop the RCA Building overlooking midtown Manhattan. The proceeds of the $125 per person soiree went to the New York Association for Brain Injured Children.

Classified Ad For Maid Rings Familiar Bell

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP) — Soldier Ken J. Dunsmore's classified advertisement for "maid service" in Vietnam, where he is now stationed, got quick results—from the girl he's engaged to marry.

It appeared in Ken's hometown Port Huron Times Herald, and Sharon Balon, 21, his sweetheart, saw it when she was visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Balon, in nearby Smiths Creek last weekend.

With tongue in cheek, Ken had sent the Times Herald $1.50 for a want ad seeking someone to perform maid service for him at Cam Ranh Bay, Vietnam.

"I would like," Miss Balon wrote the newspaper, "to answer the ad for I feel most qualified for the job, since I am his fiancée. Though I really don't feel he needs a maid at Cam Ranh, I would be VERY happy to have an interview if he wants to. I'm sure I could take a week off from school."

Starts Senior Year

The school is Eastern Michigan University at Ypsilanti, where Sharon is a physical education major and starts her senior year with beginning of the summer term.

Incidentally, Ken might think twice about employing anyone

Soldier Ken H. Dunsmore decided that life at Cam Ranh Bay required the services of a maid, so he advertised for one in the "Port Huron Times Herald," his hometown newspaper. He got results and fast—from Sharon Balon, 21, his fiancée, who is majoring in physical education at Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti. (AP Wirephotos)

Wife Gives Husband Series Of Kicks, Slaps, Punches

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am sure you receive many letters from wives whose husbands sock them around from time to time. Have you ever heard from a husband who gets slapped, kicked and punched? Well, this is my problem and I need to know what to do about it. We have three small children and if I ever lose control of myself and give my wife what she deserves she'll be in the hospital for a month.

You probably want to know why she hits me. Here's what set off the last two episodes: She forgot where she parked the car and I had to ride around town in a taxi for an hour before I found it. When I got home I was disgusted and told her so. She socked me in the jaw and broke my bridge.

Last night when I came home from work the soup was burning on the stove and my wife was next door visiting with a friend. I gave her a piece of my mind and she hauled off and kicked me. Now I have a lump on my leg the size of a golf ball.

If anyone had told me I would wind up writing to Ann Landers for help I would have said they were crazy, but I need someone to tell me what to do about this wild woman. — H.B.L.

DEAR H.B.L.: You don't have three children, Mister, you have four. A woman who has such a short fuse needs to learn how to handle her hostilities in a rational, civilized manner. Insist that she get counseling. I feel sorry for the kids as well as for you. Rest assured they catch plenty in your absence. Your doctor can direct you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm almost ashamed to write because my problem makes me sound like a moron, but the truth is I am being victimized by a five-year-old child.

Almost every evening when I come home from work this little neighbor girl is standing outside my door. I live in an apartment. Sally is a darling child, and I enjoy her company, but there are times when I would like to be alone. More often than not Sally asks me if she can stay for supper and I say yes. If I didn't lead her by the hand and take her home at 8 p.m. she would stay all night.

It seems strange to me that her parents never seem to be looking for her. When I bring her home they are very pleasant and thank me for being so "nice."

Last night I was very tired, and didn't want company so I thought I'd sneak in the back door. I wasn't in my apartment five minutes when Sally and her mother appeared at the door. The mother said, "Your girl friend wants to see you." I pretended to be pleased because I didn't want to hurt the child's feelings. Again Sally stayed for supper and when I took her home at 7:45 p.m. I was mad at myself. What's the solution to my problem, Ann? — Trapped

DEAR Trapped: The little girl isn't victimizing you, her mother is. Unless you extricate yourself from this weird situation you may be stuck with it until Sally gets married.

Tell the mother (privately, of course) that there are times when you need to be alone after work — that you will come and get Sally when you want her and please not to allow her to wait at your door. If the child turns up, anyway, take her by the hand and return her to her mother.

Hearing Tests Set for Neenah And Appleton

Free electronic hearing tests will be given in NEENAH on Wednesday, March 20th and in APPLETON on Wednesday, March 27th.

Mr. Billingsley

Visitors can also get information on how simple operations on the ear have helped thousands of people to hear again and how the latest electronic developments are helping thousands more.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test and find out about the latest methods of hearing correction.

The free hearing tests will be held from 10 A.M. through 1 P.M. on Wed., March 18th at Morton's Drug Store in Neenah and from 10 A.M. to 5 P.M. at the Beltone Office at 206 N. Union St. in Appleton on Wed., March 27th.

Lovelier You Electronic Aid

Many lovelies ask about the advantages of electronic facial exercisers. The idea behind them certainly is intriguing. And, depending on your needs, use could prove beneficial.

When you are developing such telltale signs of age as fine lines around the mouth, crow's-feet at the corners of the eyes or lax skin in the c-h-i-n area, an electronic facial exerciser could help strengthen your muscle tone.

The key to smooth, firm skin is a strong, resilient tone in the muscles underlying the facial skin. You come by the asset naturally in youth. As time passes, the muscles weaken and stretch, and so cannot give the skin the support necessary for preventing sag and wrinkles.

In fortifying the musculature, exercisers work through gentle but unbelievably rapid electrical impulses. Thus muscles get a telling workout in just a few minutes. For continuing results, treatments must be repeated daily at the outset and probably should never be entirely dispensed with.

Inconvenience, if any, is negligible. Machines are small enough to fit in the palm of your hand. Being cordless, they are mechanically safe. A lovely who for any reason entertains doubts about electronic beautifiers could save agonizing by consulting her doctor.

To firm and uplift sagging facial muscles and flesh, use my four-way method. It works wonders through corrective exercise, posture, skin care and make-up. Procedures are detailed in the leaflet, "Banish Crepey Throat & Chin." For your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing 10 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Cookie Sale Supports Scout Camp Program

The annual Girl Scout Cookie sale began March 7 and will continue through today. This is an area-wide project in which all Girl Scouts in the Fox River Area Girl Scout Council are given the opportunity to support their own camping program.

Proceeds from the sale are used for improvement and maintenance of camp belonging to the area council. At this time there are two daycamps, two campsites, and one established camp. Each troop receives a percentage from each package sold for their own troop camping.

Family Pleasure Found in 'World of Birds'

The world of birds can be a wonderland of interest for children and grown-ups. If it's hitherto unexplored area in your family activities, an article in the April issue of a family magazine suggests "birding" as an exciting new project for all.

You'll want to keep a list of birds you see and identify. This calls for 7x35 binoculars (which magnify an image seven times), a small notebook and an inexpensive field guide. Late spring is an ideal time to start bird-watching and you'll see more of our feathered friends during the first two hours after daysbreak when they are most active.

Building a simple bird bath is a great way to lure small birds who like to take at least one quick dip daily. The simplest do-

Woman Delivers Ice; Carries a Ton a Day

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Five-foot-two Mrs. Don Waters wrestles with frozen assets—ice. The petite mother of five coolly delivers 25 to 50 pound bags and blocks of the chilly product for a benumbing average of a ton a day.

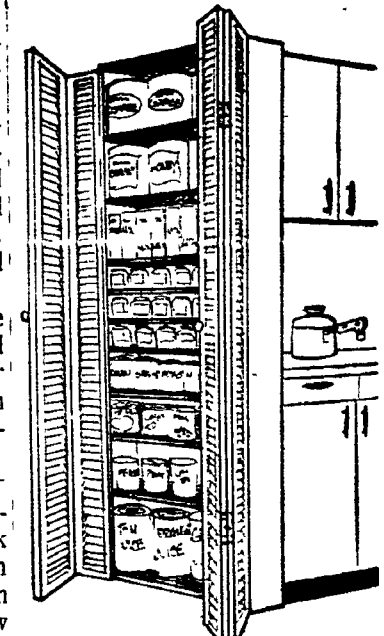

Pat Waters first broke the ice and took over her husband's route in 1966 when he became ill. That first summer, Danny, the Waters' now 16-year-old son, rode with her. "Otherwise I'd never have been able to make it," she said.

"Everyday someone's ice machine breaks down," Pat reported.

Persons faced with inoperative ice-makers are the company's best customers. Bags and blocks of ice also are delivered to restaurants, grocery stores, bars, clubs, hospitals and concessionaires.

"During the time of the State Fair my husband and I worked 20 hours a day, and my sister came to help with the children and housework," the lady iceman said.

At times Mrs. Waters takes one or two of her younger children along on the route. David is nine years old; Elizabeth, the only girl is 12; Rollee is 14 and Donnie is 15.

Only a Six-Inch depth is needed for this great pantry, built floor to ceiling on the projecting end of a U-shaped kitchen. Sides and shelves are fir boards. The louvered bi-fold doors won't block passageway when open. For fun, paint the doors in the kitchen's accent color.

Spring Fever Bug Bites

SHERWOOD — Swarms of people blooming all over with that rosy goofiness called "spring fever" thronged to High Cliff State Park Sunday afternoon.

Hundreds of cars, some filled with moms, dads and giggling youngsters; others with young persons who wanted the world to know they were in love, and older folks, who suddenly felt and acted younger — all suffering from the same disease were there.

Tour Park

Though signs of winter still are evident at the park — picnic tables stacked in artistic forms, frozen marina, trees naked against the ice coated ledge—visitors came. Some just drove through. The hill dividing the two levels remains closed, obligating those visiting the lower level to turn around at the old lime kiln and walk up the hill, or those driving in from State 55 on the new road through the quarry to park in one of the upper parking lots and walk down. A few drove into the lots at the bathing beach and scanned forbidding Lake Winnebago and others toured the marina area, not sure where they were bound.

There are those however, who came with a purpose, as the young parents who tried patiently to get a bright yellow kite airborne for their small son and daughter. And the children who brought ropes with them and chanted doggerel as they skipped and hopped on the pavement.

Camera fans were everywhere. They moved about obviously not sure what they were looking for, but filled with an inner drive to take a picture of something to remind them of the springlike day.

First Picnickers

Yes, and there were the first picnickers who set up a table and muched on potato chips as they waited for that first taste of charcoal broiled fare they'd been craving all winter.

Hikers came prepared with boots to traipse along wet muddy trails oblivious of the discomfort and the aftermath of winter. Ice still covers the gushing springs as water gurgles on its race down the ledge to the lake.

Teen-agers clambered over the high rocks in the quarry and shouted friendly greetings to passersby, while others walked into the campgrounds.

Though the park season usually gets underway Memorial Day, park lovers apparently pay little attention to dates.

P-C Film Shows Dangers

Common Household Items Cause Poisoning

"Poison — Handle With Care" is the latest News-In-Depth Filmstrip sent to area schools participating in the The Post-Crescent School program.

Every day, adults and children are accidentally poisoned because many people are not aware of the number and variety of poisons in their homes!

Potential Killers

With the filmstrip, students learn that every room in their home may contain poisonous items . . . and that more poisonings occur in the kitchen than in any other room.

The filmstrip points out that common household cleaners, paint removers, hair tonics, insecticides, weed killers, medicines, and even certain household plants are all potential killers.

The filmstrip suggests that students help their parents check each room in their home for carelessly stored dangerous items — in a concentrated effort to "poison proof" their homes.

Students learn that there are over 500 poison control centers throughout the United States. They are open 24 hours a day to advise about emergency treatment.

Quick Action

Students are advised to check with their telephone company, local health department, or their family doctor to learn the phone number of the nearest poison control center — and to keep the phone number near the telephone, since quick action may be the difference between life and death.

The telephone company's emergency number list shows Appleton Memorial and St. Elizabeth hospitals as the two poison control centers for Appleton.

"Poison — Handle with Care" was produced by Visual Education Consultants, Inc. in cooperation with the National Safety Council. The American Association of Poison Control Centers, and the poison control branch of the U.S. Public Health Service. This latest monthly News-In-Depth Filmstrip is one of a series sent to schools participating in the The Post-Crescent School Program.

Industrial Park Land Sought By City Firm

Fourth in Six Weeks to Inquire About Plant Sites

Appleton city officials met this morning with the representative of an Appleton firm interested in acquiring a 20-acre tract at the new industrial park on the city's northeast side.

The firm, which officials requested remain anonymous at this time while negotiations are underway, has plans for building a new plant.

It represents the fourth firm to contact city officials direct in the past six weeks in regard to tentative plans for building at the old county airport property. One is from out of the city — the others from Appleton.

Today's joint meeting was between the council's land acquisition committee and its commerce - industrial development committee.

City officials said they intended to "cooperate to the fullest extent" with anyone interested in acquiring land in the industrial park. However, they also indicated the negotiations would not be "broadcast or publicized" until firmed up, lest an attempt be made to lure them outside the city by county or area development groups.

As a sidelight, the committees also noted there are 20 acres in the old industrial park on the city's southwest side where the U. S. Government option will expire this year.

The city agreed to donate the land to the government for a new National Guard armory. However, if the project is not started by the end of the year, the property will revert back to the city for sale to any firm which might be interested, officials said.

Backfire Sets Car Engine Ablaze Sunday

Appleton firemen were summoned to the intersection of Durkee and Atlantic streets Sunday when fire broke out near the engine of a car owned by John Thurber, 229 Broad St., Menasha.

Firemen said the fire started when the engine backfired through the carburetor. The fire was out when firemen arrived, and damage was minor.

schools in Appleton. Winners were Jill Peerenboom, St. Thomas More, who captured the top trophy with the word "governor"; Scott Young, St. Joseph School, second place; and Lynn Peterson, St. Thomas More, third place. Members of the Xavier faculty served as judges. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Blizzard and Below Zero

When St. Pat Shoveled Snow

The weatherman pulled an Irish trick on the Fox Cities — the entire state of Wisconsin, in fact — on St. Patrick's Day three years ago.

In contrast to Sunday's balmy, wearin' o' the green weather St. Pat's Day in 1965 was a white one. Not only was it a snowy, blowy day but the worst snowstorm of the winter came sneaking into the area between 1 and 2 a.m. and pelted the state with anywhere from 5 to 18 inches of snow.

This was only four days before spring and, as if to add insult to injury, a wind as wild as any banshee out of Ireland clogged highways as fast as they were plowed and blanketed walks and driveways. The wind was clocked at speeds from 28 miles per hour in the Fox Cities to 45 m.p.h. in other parts of the state.

Snow fell until 10 a.m. Thursday, March 8, with 8½ inches recorded at Appleton and the Twin Cities, 8 inches at Chilton and 8.2 inches in the Waupaca area.

Schools were closed and many stayed closed for two days because buses could not get through the drifts. All secondary roads were "trifled" shut and only main highways were kept open by round-the-clock plowing. Hard-packed snow on main roads made them slippery and treacherous.

Student Congress Delegates Named

KAUKAUNA — Four Kaukauna High School students will participate in a student congress program at Brookfield Central High School Friday and Saturday.

The program, sponsored by the National Forensic League, will consist of a mock legislative session in which students, acting as senators or representatives, will debate bills on the international, national, state and local levels.

Students making the trip will be Robert Rutter and Thomas Kneepkens, who will act as senators, and Doris Heller and Sue Schmidt who will act as representatives.

Police all over the state warned motorists to make only trips absolutely necessary for two reasons. Roads were dangerous, many of them blocked by drifts, and the erratic high winds cut visibility close to zero. They urged trucks, and other service vehicles to stay off the roads as much as possible so as not to interfere with highway crews trying to keep the roads clear.

St. Patrick's Day that year was on Wednesday, a working day, and all traffic in the villages and cities moved at snail's pace. As the storm increased, out-of-town workers were sent home early; city schools which had opened were closed so that the children could get home during daylight hours. In many cases parents were called to come and get their youngsters.

Appleton Vocational School cancelled its adult school classes: meeting were called off and many events were rescheduled for a later date. All airports in the area were "weathered in" with no flights. The buses and trains kept running but not on schedule. They kept going as best they could in the battle of the drifts.

Appleton city crews kept sanding, salting, plowing throughout the day and night just to keep even with the howling storm. Homeowners began shoveling their way out of the winter's heaviest snowfall only to have the snow close back in again as the winds reached 30 miles per hour.

It was no better in other parts of the state. With 5 inches of snow by 8 a.m. that day, Milwaukee area schools didn't open at all; in Janesville the major industries closed for the first shifts. Three Fox Valley residents died while shoveling snow or pushing stalled vehicles.

With the temperature heading for zero on Friday, March 19, the world returned to normal with winter driving warnings still in effect throughout the state. The warning was that it was time to "Bundle Up!" one day before Spring.

The vernal equinox finally arrived at 2:05 p.m. Saturday, but Old Man Winter was still in the driver's seat with an overnight low of 2 degrees below zero and a high for the day of a chilly 18 degrees.

Man Jailed for Theft, Drug Possession

Michael M. Brown, 19, 724 N. Bennett St., who last Thursday was found guilty of theft and unlawful possession of dangerous drugs, this morning was sentenced to eight months in the Outagamie County Jail.

Circuit Judge A. W. Parnell ordered that Brown be given credit for the one month he has been in jail under bond. Judge Parnell sentenced Brown to four months in jail for theft and eight months for the drug possession, but ordered that the terms be served concurrently.

Brown pleaded no contest and was found guilty of stealing a large quantity of pills, most of them barbiturates, from Appleton Pharmacy on Jan. 29. The drug possession charge was brought after police found 1,736 pills in Brown's car on Feb. 2.

Boys Find Chain Saw

Appleton police have a chain saw which they said youngsters found late last week in a wooded area on the southeast side of the city. Police said the owner can claim the saw by furnishing a satisfactory description.

Jail Term Extended For Beer Party Host

Rural DePere Man Found Guilty of Contributing to Delinquency of Minors

Zeke Smith, 49, route 2, West De Pere, who is already serving an eight months sentence in the Outagamie County Jail, had another four months added to his term this morning after he was found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of minors.

Judge Gustave J. Keller imposed sentence following a trial in Court Branch 2.

Smith was charged following investigation by Outagamie County authorities who said he had six boys, ages 14 through 17, at his house early the morning of Oct. 18. The juveniles had been drinking, authorities said.

On Nov. 20, Smith was sentenced to eight months in jail for contributing to the delinquency of minors. The November offense reportedly occurred while he was out on bond awaiting trial for the October offense, for which he was sentenced today.

Harrison's Denial Won't Stop Pipeline

Warren, Ceci To Appear at GOP Caucus

District Delegates Also to be Named At Spring Meeting

Several announced candidates for state offices or their representatives will attend the 1968 spring caucus of the Outagamie County Republican Party Tuesday night at the Conway Motor Hotel.

Lou Ceci, former assemblyman and a candidate for attorney general, has notified Ed Koerschner, county activities chairman, that he will attend.

Sen. Robert Warren, Green Bay, who recently announced for that office, had indicated earlier he would attend the caucus to speak for State Sen. Jerris Leonard, who is a candidate for the U. S. Senate.

All potential candidates have been invited. Koerschner said, as well as candidates for county offices.

Other items on the agenda include selection of a list of delegates and alternates to the Eighth District caucus in Green Bay and the state convention in Madison, and a report of the resolutions committee.

Dr. David Grunwaldt, Outagamie County chairman, said the caucus is open to the public. Only those holding county GOP membership cards for at least 10 days will be eligible to vote on party matters.

The caucus is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the downstairs meeting rooms at the Conway. A social hour will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Voter List In Appleton Near 22,800

Appleton's list of registered voters for the April 2 primary may hit the 22,800 mark by mid-week, City Clerk Eldon Broehm predicted today.

He said his office would be open Tuesday from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. for those who have not registered.

"We were open for four hours Saturday morning and registered 176 persons," Broehm said. "There was actually a waiting line in the hallway."

In April of 1966 mayoral election there were 22,747 registered voters. And for the April, 1964, presidential primary registrations totaled 20,918.

350 Enrolled in School District's Driver Training

Nearly 350 students, 50 more than anticipated, from all Appleton high schools have enrolled in a driver education course, which will begin March 26 at Wilson Junior High School.

This is the first year the course has been offered by the public school system. William Pickett, director of physical education, health and safety for the Appleton Public School System, is in charge.

Classes will be from 7 to 9 p.m. Meeting dates are March 26, and 28; April 2, 4, 9, 23, 25, 30; May 2, 7, 9, 14, 16, 21 and 23. A 30-hour minimum of instruction is required by the state.

Films and speakers will be presented to the entire group during the first part of the class. Then students will be divided into small groups for study and training.

Smoke, Flames Damage House

Considerable smoke and some fire damage resulted from a blaze that broke out early Sunday afternoon in a kitchen at the Marvin Dorow home, 2412 S. Jackson St., Appleton.

The fire was discovered about 12:55 p.m. by a neighbor, Donald Bushman, 511 E. Wilson St., who called the fire department. Bushman reportedly saw flames through the kitchen window. The Dorows were not home when the fire broke out.

Firemen, who had to break a door glass to get into the house, were at the scene about an hour. Five fire department units responded to the alarm.

Firemen said a can of vegetable shortening was on a kitchen stove burner, and probably caused the fire. Flames were confined to the cupboard and wall area around the range, but there was smoke damage throughout the house.

Law Is on Appleton's Side Says City Attorney in Letter to Members of Town Board

City Atty. David Geenen to plain any facet of the water day took the Town of Harrison expansion project.

"If there is any basis within the exercise of reasonable discretion to indicate the proposed installation in the town road would have a deleterious effect on the Town of Harrison, every effort will be made by the city to reach a solution which will allow both the city and the town to develop in an orderly and sensible manner," Geenen said.

He concluded that the city looked forward to discussing and explaining the project with town representatives at their convenience.

Geenen informed Lutz the law was on the city's side and Appleton would proceed with its pipeline project as scheduled.

At the same time Geenen was critical of town officials for not replying sooner than last week to the city's request to use the town road right-of-way.

Petition Filed He pointed out that on Nov. 29, 1966, a petition was filed by the city with the town board.

"We heard nothing and as a courtesy we refiled the same request on Jan. 22, 1968," Geenen wrote.

The state statute, according to Geenen, says failure to act on a petition of such a nature within 15 days of the date of filing actually constituted approval.

"We therefore feel that any attempt to deny permission at this late date means nothing and we will proceed with our project," Geenen told Lutz.

The city intends to put the pipeline in the town road right-of-way, covering a distance from the shore of the lake to the west junction of U.S. 10 and State 114 at Waverly Corners.

Many Reasons Last week when the town board informed city officials the request was denied, the board said the reasons for doing so were manifold. Harrison officials indicated, however, they would be agreeable to holding a conference with city officials to explain their reasons.

However, the city has interpreted the towns' action as "another attempt at delaying the water project."

"The City of Appleton has never believed in acting arbitrarily or in taking any action that was not in the public interest," Geenen wrote the town board.

Anyone Interested "It has further been our policy to make information available to anyone who was interested enough to seek it."

At the same time Geenen said city officials were "most willing" to meet with town representatives at any time to explain their reasons.

Buckley has tentative plans to attend the National Congress this year, along with the U.S. Conference of Mayors to be held at Chicago in June.

Seek Unified Stand For CAB Hearings

City, State Officials Discuss Milwaukee-East Coast Air Link

Representatives from Appleton joined those of six other Wisconsin cities at a meeting Friday in Madison with State Department of Transportation officials in an effort to determine a united course of action before the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) hearings on petitions from nine airlines to provide direct service between Milwaukee and the east coast.

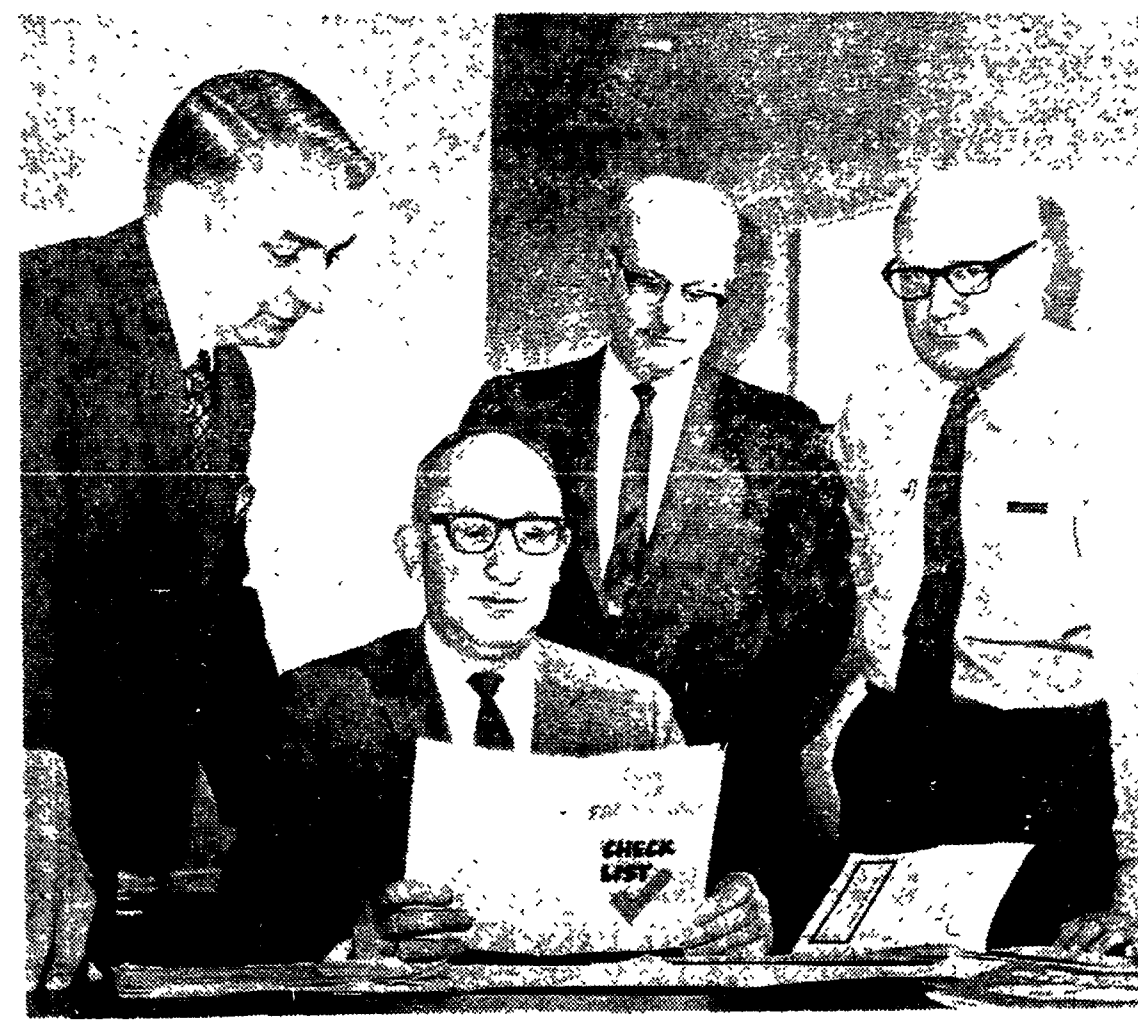

No action was taken at the meeting but G. H. Bakke, secretary of the department, recommended that representatives of the chambers of commerce of the various cities get together and decide what stand would be taken by the state. He offered state assistance in preparing briefs to be filed with the CAB.

It is anticipated that it could take as long as three years before the CAB designates which airline will serve the Milwaukee longhaul routes.

Airlines Involved Petitions for the service have been filed by United, TWA, Braniff, Mohawk, Western, Northwest, Allegheny, Northeast and North Central.

The Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce, Air Wisconsin and Outagamie County have formally intervened in the case but only to support the approval of the air routes. Officials have indicated they will not back any particular airline.

Cities represented at the meeting, in addition to Appleton, were Milwaukee, Madison, Manitowish, Green Bay, Wausau and Oshkosh.

Fire Chief Roland Kuehn and Capt. Robert Ertl, head of the department's inspection division, planned Appleton's observance of Fire Prevention Week with Kiwanis members at the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce offices Tuesday. The week always coincides

6th District Democrats Split Over Candidacy of Kennedy

OSHKOSH — A rift between Sixth District Democratic Party leaders yawned wide open Saturday after Robert F. Kennedy announced his presidential candidacy.

Immediately after Kennedy's announcement Saturday morning, William Wingren, Winnebago County Democratic Party chairman, who headed the Citizens for Johnson-Humphrey Committee, changed sides. Former Democratic Congressman John A. Race and other Johnson backers were teetering on the edge of the split, likely to fall to the Kennedy side.

The chairman of Sen Eugene McCarthy's supporters in Winnebago County viewed the new alignments as placing McCarthy and Kennedy supporters on the same side of the split.

Mrs. Diana Green, Oshkosh, said this morning she disagreed with observers who saw a three-way split dividing Johnson, Kennedy and McCarthy backers. She said the local McCarthy ranks have included some former supporters of Kennedy since the group formed.

Now that the New York senator has entered the contest, offering his support in Wisconsin to McCarthy, she said the reaction of the former Kennedy workers is "not anti-Kennedy; it's just a kind of disappointment," that he failed to run against President Johnson earlier.

Of Kennedy's offer of support in the Wisconsin campaign of McCarthy, Mrs. Green said she doubted that it would "make any difference."

Race used the same language that Kennedy used Thursday to indicate his willingness to run. The former Congressman said he is "re-assessing" his position. He said he has definitely withdrawn his support for the President.

Will Decide Soon
"I'm happy to see the senator come out and commit himself," Race said, "because it will give the people a wider choice and selection at the national convention. It will also give the people more views on the issues and will get into the issues deeper with three candidates rather than only two," he added.

"Although I have not made up my mind yet," Race said, "I am looking over the situation very closely and it is possible that I will switch my support from the President to the senator."

He indicated that it would be a "few weeks" before he made up his mind but implied that the chances of changing his allegiance were more than even.

Wingren told the Sunday Times Saturday that he believes in Kennedy's Vietnam position and said he is "the right man for the job."

There were those who dissented. Old line Democrats in Winnebago County were less enthusiastic over the Kennedy announcement.

"I think he's late," Morton Gazerwitz said. He and Alvin Charapata were John Kennedy delegates to the National Convention in 1960. Both know the late President's brother, Sen. Robert Kennedy.

Gazerwitz said he thinks Kennedy has hurt his image by not entering the early state primaries, and "I don't like the image this has projected."

Gazerwitz said he will continue to back President Johnson as the party's standard bearer at least until he makes an announcement. "I won't commit myself beyond that," he said.

Sen Kennedy has all the qualifications a presidential candidate should have, Charapata said. "I've always considered him one of the strongest Democrats in the nation."

"I'm not committed to any candidate," Charapata concluded. He said, however, that he had asked Kennedy by letter about three months ago if he intended to campaign. "He said 'no' at that time," he reported.

Acknowledge Split

In Fond du Lac County, most leading John F. Kennedy backers indicated they would favor his brother. Mrs. Dee Ottery, county chairman of the Citizens for Kennedy Committee, said Robert Kennedy "has all the qualities of leadership that make him a prime runner in this race." Other John Kennedy backers indicated support for Robert though a couple were hesitant.

Regardless of what side they were on, major Democrats in both Winnebago and Fond du Lac counties acknowledged the opening rift, primarily over the Vietnam issue.

Lawrence Jones, Fond du Lac County Democratic chairman said, "It will split the party wide open. He has been lukewarm up until now. If anyone other than President Johnson gets the nod, it should be Senator McCarthy."

Wingren said the split in the party is over Vietnam policy and the resultant slowdown of the programs designed to solve the nation's urban problems.

Wingren said he thought Kennedy chose the right approach in delaying announcement of his candidacy.

Race, an announced candidate for the Sixth District congressional post, said he is actively seeking appointment as a delegate from the Sixth District.

"The appointment will not be out until after the primary," he said. "And I imagine that the executive committee will appoint delegates who are on the side of the winning primary candidate."

Race said that the issue to decide who the Democrats will put on the November ballot will be Vietnam.

"Until the Tet offensive, I considered myself a hawk," Race pointed out. "But after that I re-evaluated my position and perhaps I'm not as strong a hawk as I used to be."

Late Break-Up of Ice Possible

OSHKOSH — It may be late when winter's ice lets go its hold in Lake Winnebago this year, according to State Conservation Warden Frank Deringer.

He's making no predictions, however. There are too many factors of wind and rain likely to affect the situation.

Deringer said he had been away from the situation for the past three weeks, but light snow cover in the Wolf River Basin generally will tend to slow the break-up.

"A good strong wind such as we had a week ago could change that," he advised.

Generally, Deringer said, the ice cuts loose with the spring run-off and the rise in water level. This year, lacking heavy general rains over the basin and a strong wind, there may be ice cover on Winnebago as late as mid-April.

Deringer said the ice usually breaks late in March.

The ice bridge over the usual expansion crack off Oshkosh is gone, sure sign of spring and that the ice is weakening. Cars containing avid fishermen still were finding access to the lake ice, however, at least at Hesser's Supper Club south of the city.

An observer at Conservation

Department field headquarters north of Oshkosh said there were cars on the ice there and numerous fishermen who were walking to favorite spots.

Lake Winnebago ice was estimated at 30 inches a week ago, however, with slabs of floating ice from Lake Poygan to be seen in the river.

close attention to where they walk. Holes are opening up along the shoreline of the lake.

Fremont on the Wolf River is still ice-bound and the Fox was frozen at Omro Saturday. There was open water at Winneconne.

Asked whether this development necessarily meant the long delayed cases might be on the move once more toward settlement, Judge Parnell replied he didn't know. But he added, "they're going to be set for trial and disposed of in some way."

AHS-E Cast to Give Play At City Elementary Schools

"The Emperor's New Clothes" is the play selected this year for children's theatre, and will be presented this week by the Patriot Players of Appleton High School-East at all the public elementary schools in the city.

The cast will put on the play four times a day for three days, starting Tuesday.

Ronald King is the director; Jack Burroughs, stage manager and Gordon Case, costume designer. All are instructors at the high school.

Students Involved

Nearly 50 high school students are involved in the production. They are Mike Philippi, Scott Duthie, Robert Tilly, Charles Selig, Marcy Beula, Sharon Prausa and Charles Crane.

Trial May be Set In Annex Cases

MENASHA — The possibility of renewed action seen ed better today in the two town-versus-city annexation cases, one 2½ years old, the other more than six months old.

Circuit Judge Andrew Parnell said he was calling a pre-trial conference for this afternoon with attorneys on both sides of the two similar disputes.

The judge said the purpose of the conferences would be "to find out what the issues are, where they stand with respect to trial and so forth."

Asked whether this development necessarily meant the long delayed cases might be on the move once more toward settlement, Judge Parnell replied he didn't know. But he added, "they're going to be set for trial and disposed of in some way."

Churches, 2 Schools Ransacked

NEENAH — Burglars broke into two churches and two schools Saturday evening, smashed windows, ransacked drawers and cabinets but apparently left empty handed.

They broke a stained glass window near the door in the west wing of the First Presbyterian Church, 200 Church St., to gain entrance to the building, police said.

The thieves broke another window to get into pastor's and a second office. Papers were strewn about but nothing was reported missing.

They broke into the First Methodist Church, 261 S. Commercial St., and smashed a small window near the main office. The cabinets were ransacked.

McKinley School and Washington Schools both were entered by breaking windows and releasing the panic bars on the doors, police reported.

At both schools, the burglars went through desks, lockers and cabinets and scattered papers, apparently looking for money, authorities feel.

Landowner Picks Worse Alternative

VERONA, Va. (AP) — Verona landowner Stanley L. Price wanted to set up a trailer park on his property. But his neighbors petitioned against it and the Board of Supervisors turned down his request.

Sunday this newspaper advertisement appeared.

"To lease to qualifying person or persons: 10 acres more or less, county area easily accessible for garbage truck through Verona Court or Verona Heights subdivisions. Qualifiers must maintain a legal hog farm raising from 300 to 3,000 hogs per year. Also feed and cook garbage on premises if possible. Will lease for $1 per month. Signed, Stanley L. Price."

Words Often Misused: Do not say, "Bill came near winning the contest." Say, "Bill ALMOST WON the contest." Often Mispronounced: Pronounce pro-ray-ta, accent second syllable; and not "pro-ratt-a." Often Misspelled: Innuendo; observe the first two "n's." Inoculate; only one "n." Synonyms: Docile, amenable, compliant, gentle, obedient, pliable, tame, teachable, yielding, manageable, tractable. Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Today's word: DEFERENCE; courteous regard for another's wishes. "He treated the elderly man with deference."

Cosby Tells Follies of Childhood

BY TV SCOUT

7-8 (Channel 5) — The Bill Cosby Show is a well-deserved special for a very clever, very funny commentator on the follies of childhood. The material will be familiar to fans of Cosby's record albums, but watching his expressions as he tells of scaring Fat Albert with a Frankenstein monster, or the Buck Buck Championship of the World, or recalls his experience having his tonsils out, are hysterical. The opening is in Philadelphia, his home town, and has him playing a game of touch football with neighborhood kids. After the longest run in history for a pass catch, he settles down in a studio before some fancy monkey bars, and talks. There's a dance production number, The Fat Albert, a 16-year-old trombonist named Janice Robinson and the "world's champion street football player," 13-year-old Eddie Hunley. Otherwise, it's all Bill, until Sheldon Leonard appears to introduce "Silver Throat." (C)

6:30-7:30 (Channels 11-9) — Tom Nardini as John Henry is the feature of tonight's Cowboy in Africa with the flora sharing the spotlight with the fauna. His pride becomes piqued when he mistakenly is given the impression that he is considered the bottom man on the animal farm. (C)

6:30-7:30 (Channels 2-7) — Gunsmoke's finale to its twopartier starring John Ireland has to be one of the most active in the series' long history. Young James Stacy again takes the lion's share of the story: he guns down the powerful rancher's son, then takes on a slew of gunmen, gets himself captured, escapes and then begins an action to burn down all of Dodge City. (C)

7:30-8 (Channels 11-9) — The Rat Patrol seems at its best when it mixes juvenile sentimentality with its blood and guts premise. The plot begins coldly and viciously with the group joined by a conscienceless sniper. Their mission is to pick off a notorious German general nicknamed "The Butcher." (C)

8-9 (Channel 5) — The Danny Thomas Hour begins its rerun schedule with "The Wonderful World of Burlesque III." Carol Channing, Wayne Newton and Mickey Rooney recall the early days of the business when comedy not strippers, reigned. (C)

9-10 (Channels 2-7) — Jack Jones fits very well in the breezy format of The Carol Burnett Show and shows it best with Lyle Waggoner and he trying to subdue a couple of amazons (Carol and Ruth Buzzi) with kisses. He sings "I Can't Get Started With You" and "Cause I Got So Much Lovin' in Me." Another feature is Tim Conway appearing in several skits including a funny bit with Carol and Conway as a computer-matched couple. The hit of the show has Jones and Burnett in a bouncy production number titled "Hoedown Time." (C)

9-10 (Channels 11-9) — If you're a Joey Bishop fan you've probably seen some of this episode of The Big Valley, featuring Joey's announcer Regis Philbin. Clips of it have been used on Joey's show. James Gregory stars as a senator being blackmailed with a doctored photograph showing him and a lovely lady in a scandalous situation. The lady is Victoria Barkley. (C)

9-10 (Channel 5) — Janet MacLachlan is not only good on I Spy, but she also provides Bill Cosby with some opportunities to project his romantic qualities. Their love scenes are just fine. She plays an embassy clerk in Greece who becomes a pawn in a mid-East crisis. Scott's pose to get information begins as a game and then becomes the real thing. Oddly enough, her superior (Michael Rennie) becomes suspicious of Scott after the fake affair becomes real, and marks him for death. (C)

Reports Indicate That NL Expansion May be Near

Milwaukee Considered One of The Candidates; AL Said to Be Ready for Divisional Split

By DICK COUCH
FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Hints of imminent National League expansion circulated freely Sunday. This followed published reports that the American League will split into two six-team divisions next year.

American League sources, however, denied the divisional setup has been formalized. National League club owners, reportedly panicked by the AL plan, remained mum on the possibility of 1969 expansion.

A National League committee will meet to discuss expansion before the regular spring session of the major league's Executive Council Wednesday and Thursday. If expansion to 12 teams in 1969 is recommended by the NL committee, it will be put before the league club owners sometime next month.

Among the cities reportedly in line for new NL franchises are San Diego, Calif.; Dallas-Fort Worth, Tex.; Milwaukee, Wis.; and Buffalo, N.Y.

Within 30 Days
Published accounts have stated that the American League would announce within 30 days a two-division split in 1969, with a pennant playoff between the division winners.

The reports said the American League already had notified the National League of the move, triggering a series of frantic secret meetings of NL club owners.

"It's just speculation," an American League source said. "I can tell you definitely that no action has been taken."

Others in the AL contend the two-division setup still was in the planning stage, and that their league has not presented its schedule to the National League for 1969.

Under baseball rules each league must submit its schedule to the other for the sake of conformity.

Urged to Follow Suit
It has been suggested that a pennant playoff between American League division winners — for example a best 3-of-5 game

MU Stands Firm Al McGuire Says He Will Honor Remainder Of Marquette Pact

MILWAUKEE (AP)— Al McGuire, Marquette University basketball coach, said Sunday that he intends to honor the remaining four years of his contract with the school because "they will not release me."

McGuire, who asked earlier this month that he be released from the contract in order to become coach and general manager of Milwaukee's new team in the National Basketball Association, returned Sunday from the NCAA regional tournament at Lexington, Ky., where his Warriors placed third.

Father Raymond McAuley, Marquette executive vice president, reaffirmed the school's position that it would not release McGuire, adding, "I had told him earlier that we intend to remain firm."

"We don't want to hurt Al but I don't see how at this time we can turn him over to the pro club," he said. "We have no intention of releasing McGuire from his contract."

Officials of the pro club had no comment.

Ohio State and North Carolina Also Clash Friday

Kansas and Duke are expected to advance in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament tonight, while UCLA and Houston continue to prime their plentiful weapons for a showdown in Los Angeles.

"Maybe I'm crazy, but I'm looking forward to playing UCLA out there," Houston coach Guy Lewis said after his top-ranked and unbeaten Cougars had knocked off Texas Christian 103-68 for the NCAA mid-west regional title in Wichita, Kan. Saturday night.

"You have to play the best to win the national championship." In Albuquerque, N.M., Lew Alcindor, UCLA's 7-foot-1½ All-American center, commented:

"I hope we're ready to play. We want to win it very much."

In Routine Fashion
The Bruins, No. 2 and beaten only by Houston in a regular season game at the Astrodome, demolished Santa Clara 87-66 in routine fashion to win the west regional and set up the rematch with Houston.

The two teams will meet in a semifinal game in Los Angeles Friday. Fourth-ranked North Carolina, a 70-66 winner over Davidson in the east regional at Raleigh, N.C., and Ohio State, 82-81 upset winner over Kentucky at Lexington, Ky. in the mid-east regional meet in the other semifinal.

The semifinal winners play Saturday night for the crown won by UCLA three of the last four years, including 1967.

The NIT continues in New York with Kansas playing Villanova and powerful Duke going against St. Peter's, N.J. in quarter-finals tonight.

The other quarter-finals will be played Tuesday, sending Dayton against Fordham and Long Island U. against Notre Dame. The semifinals are scheduled Thursday night and the finals Saturday afternoon.

Hayes, Player of the Year, scored 39 points in Houston's rout of Texas Christian — the Cougars' 31st straight this season — while Alcindor tossed in 22 for UCLA against Santa Clara.

"Houston has improved, but so have we," said UCLA coach John Wooden. "If we can stop them, it will be something. We hope to be better than when we lost to them in January."

In the NIT tonight, Kansas has a 6-foot-10, 6-6, 6-5 front line

The New York Knickerbockers are on Cloud Nine today.

Well, maybe not that high but they are higher than they have been since the 1958-59 National Basketball Association season.

New York, which finished second in 1958-59, clinched third place in the Eastern Division Sunday when they trounced San Francisco 130-104 and Los Angeles edged Detroit 120-116.

Detroit now is tied with Cincinnati for the fourth and final playoff spot in the East, with two games remaining for each team.

Baltimore outlasted Boston 147-139 and Chicago topped San Diego 129-121 in other NBA games Sunday.

Seven players hit double figures as the Knicks, leading only 58-56 at halftime, turned the game into a rout by building up a 93-78 margin at the end of three quarters.

Walt Bellamy led New York with 26 points. San Francisco's Rudy LaRusso scored 28.

Dave Bing did his best to keep Detroit in the fight for third, but a Los Angeles surge in the final seven minutes gained the victory for the Lakers.

Nose Surgery Puts West Out Of 3 Games

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Surgery was performed Sunday on the nose of Jerry West and the star Los Angeles Laker guard is expected to miss the team's final three National Basketball Association games.

West suffered what at first was thought to be a broken nose in a game against the New York Knicks on Friday. X-rays Saturday morning proved negative and West played Saturday night when the Lakers routed the Detroit Pistons, 135-108. West scored 17 points, hitting on six of seven shots from the field.

A team spokesman termed the surgery "corrective" and said West's breathing would not be impaired. He will be ready for the opening playoff game against Chicago next Sunday, the spokesman said.

Debbie Meyer Sets Record for 1,650 Yards

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Debbie Meyer, a 15-year-old high school sophomore, shattered the American record for the 1,650-yard freestyle swim Sunday. She was timed in 17:04.9 at the final session of the Southern California Invitational swim meet.

Miss Meyer's mark bettered the listed record of 17:38.1 which she set last year and also the 17:29.1 time she swam Jan. 21 at her hometown of Sacramento, Calif.

In her smashing victory, the 5-foot-7, 116-pound teen-ager defeated her closest opponent Patty Caretto, by 44 seconds. Miss Caretto, of the Phillips 66, Long Beach, Calif., team, was clocked in 17:48.9.

Conigliaro Success in Comeback Bid

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

John Blanchard, a spectacular pinch hitter during the New York Yankees' years of great love the game," he said. "It's his sacrifice fly won it. It was the missed it. I wanted to play some more, maybe then catch on as a coach or manager."

Tony Conigliaro, also on a comeback trip, is on his way back to a regular spot in the Boston Red Sox outfield.

"Tony's going to be okay," Red Sox Manager Dick Williams said Sunday after Conigliaro's 400-foot double had ignited a decisive rally in Boston's 3-2 exhibition baseball victory over World Series rival St. Louis at St. Petersburg, Fla.

"He's standing up there without flinching," Williams said. "I've been watching him, and he's going to make it."

But for Blanchard, 35 and trying a comeback after two years away, it was a different, sadder story. He was one of 11 players cut by the Atlanta 'Braves at West Palm Beach, Fla. after dropping a 9-3 decision against the Cardinals' Steve Carlton with a double in the ninth. Reggie Smith followed with a triple and Rico Petrocelli's sacrifice fly won it. It was the second loss of the spring for the champion Cardinals.

Cloninger Shelled
Washington jumped on Atlanta pitcher Tony Cloninger for seven runs and eight hits—including a three-run homer by Mike Epstein—in three innings, and coasted in.

Don Pavletich drove in three runs with a homer, his third of the spring, and a single in Cincinnati's easy conquest of Baltimore.

Hal King had four RBI on a double and a single and led Houston past Minnesota. Rookie Graig Nettles drove in four runs, three on a homer.

Ad's Win Sixth
Former Dodger Gene Michael helped the Yankees beat his old mates, starting a decisive two-run rally with a double.

Pinch hitter John Donaldson's single drove in two seventh-inning runs and sewed up Oakland's victory over the Mets.

Diego Segui got credit for the A's sixth victory of the spring.

Mattv Alou doubled in two runs and Roberto Clement's double sent across another while Tom Sisk pitched five innings of shutout ball in Pittsburgh's victory over Philadelphia.

Jim Northrup was the big gun for Detroit, driving in four runs against the White Sox on a homer and a triple. Earl Wilson worked five shutout innings.

Cleveland rookie Dave Nelson broke a 2-2 tie against the Angels when he tripled and scored on a ground ball in the eighth inning.

Sparkling pitching by right-handers Ron Herbel and Bob Bolin took San Francisco by the Cubs. Herbel allowed only one hit in four innings and Bolin gave up only two more the rest of the way.

MANITOWOC (AP) — With horns blaring and banners waving, a parade of nearly 500 cars turned out to welcome the state champion Manitowoc High School basketball team home Sunday.

The Ships captured the title Saturday night with a come-from-behind 63-51 victory over Beloit in the state tournament in Madison.

A vanguard of some 150 cars met the undefeated Ships at Valders, nine miles from home. More and more cars joined in and when it wound through Manitowoc, the motorcade was five miles long.

Thousands of cheering fans packed Washington Park as school and city officials praised the team and its coach, Ed Fleener.

Knowles Sends Telegram
A congratulatory telegram from Gov. Warren P. Knowles was read by Manitowoc Mayor Robert Rand. Rand—once a member of the Ships' varsity himself in the 1930's—is one of the team's most ardent supporters.

The team had breakfast with the governor before the trip back from the state capital.

Manitowoc Athletic Director John Jung said a main reason for the Ships' success was the way Fleener developed his bench strength during the season. He said substitutions made the difference in the state tournament. Jung coached the Ships to their last state crown in 1963.

Principal William Malinsky told the crowd there would probably be a special assembly today to honor the victorious Ships.

But he drew a round of boos when he said that all other classes would be held as scheduled.

Gordon Johncock Wins First USAC Race of '68

HANFORD, Calif. (AP)—Gordon Johncock leads the race for the national racing title today after winning the first of 24 United States Auto Club championship races to be held this year.

The 31-year-old driver took over the lead with 11 laps to go Sunday in the California 200-miler in Hanford to beat Al Unser for the first prize of $12,000.

Leaders Bobby Unser and Art Pollard spun out with 11 laps to go and Johncock, driving a rear-engine Offenhauser, took the lead for the first time.

Johncock then held off a frantic closing rush by Al Unser to sweep into the winners' circle with a one-second margin. It was Johncock's second straight victory at Hanford, this time, 2:23.3 with an average speed of 120.8 miles an hour.

Just last October Johncock

had another Hanford 200-miler victory when leader Joe Leonard spun out in front of him with only three laps left.

The USAC circuit this year is 24 races long, longest in the history of the tour. It winds up at Riverside, Calif., the first Sunday in December with the Rex Mays 300.

With his victory Sunday, Johncock gets 400 points toward the individual title—awarded on the basis of two points per mile. Al Unser was awarded 320 points for second place and third place Lloyd Ruby of Wichita Falls, Tex., got 280.

Bruins Stay in Tie for Second With Triumph

Late Rally Brings Boston 3-1 Victory; Rangers, Hawks Win

By HAL BOCK Associated Press Sports Writer

Just as the Boston Bruins were about to die, the corpse staged a miraculous recovery. Locked in a three-way battle for second place in the National Hockey League's East Division with New York and Chicago and with one fewer game left than either the Rangers or Black Hawks, the Bruins were in deep trouble Sunday night.

They trailed Montreal, the division's runaway leader, 1-0 with time running out. New York had already beaten Pittsburgh 3-0 and Chicago was on its way to a 4-1 victory over Oakland. A Boston loss would have dumped the Bruins unceremoniously into fourth place.

But instead of flopping to fourth, the Bruins rallied for three goals in the final 2½ minutes, beat the Canadiens 3-1, and clung to their share of second.

In other NHL games Sunday, Minnesota walloped Detroit 5-1 and Philadelphia ripped Toronto 7-4.

Vachon Injured
Fred Stanfield's goal with 2:21 left to play got the Bruins even with Montreal and knocked out goalie Rogatien Vachon, who was hit by a stick as the puck went into the net.

Gump Worsley, injured Saturday night against Pittsburgh, took over for Vachon and was beaten by rookie Derek Sanderson for the lead goal. Then Phil Esposito hit an empty net for the wrapup goal.

The victory gave Boston 80 points, the same as New York and one more than Chicago. The Bruins have five games remaining while the Rangers and Black Hawks each have six.

New York finished its business with the expansion West Division by beating Pittsburgh as goalie Ed Giacomin chalked up his eighth shutout. The victory gave the Rangers a 17-4-3 log against the West—best record of any East club against the new division.

Jean Ratelle's 31st goal started New York off and Orland Kurtenbach and Phil Goyette also scored for the Rangers.

44th for Hull
Bobby Hull scored his 44th goal of the year and assisted on another goal as the Hawks backed strong goaltending by rookie Jack Norris with a victory over Oakland.

Norris made 22 saves—many of them tough ones—against the Seals.

Minnesota blitzed Detroit's Roger Crozier with 49 shots and whipped the Red Wings to move into a tie for third place in the West with idle St. Louis.

The game attracted 14,495 fans—Minnesota's eighth sellout of the season—and raised the North Stars' home attendance over 400,000.

Andre Lacroix, Bill Sutherland and Jean Gauthier all scored in the final 5½ minutes as Philadelphia all but eliminated Toronto from the playoffs. Floyd Smith scored three times for Toronto.

Sikes 'Citrus' King by Stroke Over Weiskopf

Victory Good for $23,000 to Florida Attorney-Golfer

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Dan Sikes needs only a victory in one of the major tournaments to win a ranking among pro golf's top players. But the 1968 Citrus Open champ says his main goal is to win $100,000 a year.

The long-driving veteran is just reaching his peak at the age of 37. He has his sights set this year on claiming a title in one of the prestige tournaments, such as the Masters.

"And if I keep playing like I did last year and I have here, I believe I should be ranked in the top five or six players," he said Sunday.

"But my big goal is to win $100,000 again," added the attorney-golfer from Jacksonville, Fla., after winning the $23,000 Citrus Open Sunday.

Sikes harvested $111,000 from golf tournaments in 1967 when he won the Jacksonville Open and the Philadelphia Classic.

Straight Down Middle

"But I've never played better than I did in the last round here," Sikes said. "I'm always a good driver, but not like this I was right down the middle on every hole."

Sikes shot a 66 in the furious finish for a 72-hole total of 274, one stroke ahead of Tom Weiskopf.

Weiskopf fired a 66 and won $13,800 for his second-place fin-

Bernice Mompier in 602 National Series

Ruth Schmidt, Ken Gradl Slam 290 Game in 'Scotch Couples'

Bernice Mompier, bowling as a substitute in the Meat Couples League at the Hortonville Lanes Sunday night, slammed a national honor count of 602.

Mrs. Mompier and her husband Norm are proprietors at the Hortonville Lanes. Bernice cracked games of 209, 212 and 181 for her first national count in her bowling career.

Bernice was substituting on the Spare Ribs team when she blasted the national count.

In Scotch Couples Tournament competition at the 41 Bowl Friday night, Ruth Schmidt and

Ken Gradl counted a booming 290 game.

After a spare in the first frame, Ken proceeded to slam 11 straight strikes for the high count. He was given a special merchandise award by the 41 Bowl and together they had a 765 total to win second place in the event.

Ken has been carrying a 185 average this season.

Stanky Seeks More Hitting Power, but Relies on Pitching

By JACK HAND
SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — If Eddie Stanky's plans work out, they won't be calling his Chicago White Sox the hitless wonders this season. "I'm going to play my best eight hitters, regardless of defense," said Stanky. "I'm tired of all those squeakers I'm for bats."

Stanky's party platform may be tough to carry out. The White Sox have added the .300-plus bat of Tommy Davis and hope to get extra mileage out of veterans like Ken Boyer and Rocky Colavito. But the big plus still is the pitching staff.

Eddie expects improvement on last season's .225 team batting average, ninth in the league. Chicago was first in pitching, second in double plays but ninth in home runs with only 89.

Good Bullpen
If the Sox are to win the pennant it will be up to the formidable pitching of Gary Peters, Joe Horlen and Tommy John, plus a magnificent bullpen.

Horlen is coming off a 19-7 year, and a 2.06 earned run average that led the league. Peters was 16-11 but John slipped to 10-13. Jack Fisher, a veteran with a 9-18 record with the New York Mets, figures to be the fourth starter, taking over the spot vacated when Bruce Howard was traded to Baltimore.

In addition to scheduling nine regular season games in Milwaukee for this summer, the White Sox front office was busy swapping players during the off season.

Don Buford, Roger Nelson and Howard went to Baltimore. Tommie Agee, J. C. Martin and Al Weis to the Mets and Ron Hansen, Dennis Higgins and Steve Jones to Washington.

New Arrivals
Luis Aparicio is back for another turn at Comiskey Park after five years in Baltimore and he brings with him Russ Snyder. Tommy Davis and a couple of kids, catcher Dick Boeer and pitcher Billy Wynne are the new arrivals from the Mets. Second baseman Tim Lincecum and pitchers Buster Narum and Bob Priddy have moved over from Washington.

Stanky's pitching staff also has Fred Klages (6-9 at Indianapolis) or Cisco Carlos (11-8 at Indianapolis), both of whom were impressive in trials at Chicago.

Hoyt Wilhelm still is the master of the bullpen at 44 and is coming off his best year, 8-3 with a 1.31 earned run average. Bob Locker, 7-5, Don McMahon, 6-2 with Boston and Chicago and Wilbur Wood, 4-2, a left-handed knuckler to go with Wilhelm's right-handed dippy doodles, form the best relief corps in the league. Priddy, 3-7 at Washington, might crack the list.

Outside of Aparicio at shortstop, Stanky's infield is unsettled.

Switching Around
"We have Tommy McCraw at first base," said Stanky, "but I'm also working on Boyer, Pete Ward and Davis there. I know Cullen can play second but I am looking at a kid, Dick Littleton (at Evansville). At third we have Boyer and Ward. We also will see Ward in the outfield."

Davis undoubtedly will hold down one regular outfield job and Ken Berry and Russ Snyder will fight it out for center. In addition to Colavito, Stanky will add Ward in the outfield and Charley Bradford who hit .271 at Indianapolis.

Duane Josephson, handicapped by injuries during a .238 rookie season, probably will wind up as No. 1 catcher.

Stanky is going for the bat but he knows he will sink or swim with his pitching. It is good enough to make the White Sox a strong pennant factor in a well-balanced league.

Teen-Ager Slams 738

Ohio Team Leads in ABC Regular Class

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bankers Life & Casualty Co. of Youngstown, Ohio, racked up a 2,985 series Sunday and took the lead in the regular team division of the American Bowling Congress tourney.

The Bankers opened up with games of 1,049 and 1,024 and appeared to be heading to a big margin in the division. But they tumbled to 912 in the finale and dislodged by a mere five pins Associated Graphics of Detroit, which had topped the standings for a week with 2,980.

Rolls 24 Strikes
Tom Kirol paced them with a 643 series on games of 234, 225 and 184 and teammates Henry Spencer and Jack Baum added 632 and 605, respectively.

A splinter-thin teen-ager cut loose for 738 behind 24 strikes and games of 279, 241 and 218 to move into first in regular singles.

Debuting in the ABC, Wayne Kowalski, 19, of Revere, Mass., displaced Rob Babiar, an Oregon University student, who had led the division with a 710 for four days. The series was their best fired in 30-day-old tournament and marked Kowalski's best series ever, his previous high was 683.

The Detroit Stroh's, first team to appear in the classic division, totaled 5,932 for their two-day six-game stint. The Stroh's got off to a 2,970 start Saturday and added 2,962 Sunday.

Mike Totsky, who led the Stroh's Saturday with 686, took high-man honors again with 634

UCLA-Houston Rematch Set

Lew, Bruins in Easy Victory

BY PAT THOMPSON
ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Things started badly for Santa Clara even before it took the court against defending national champion UCLA in the NCAA Far West regional basketball tournament finals.

By the time the Broncos walked off the floor, the 7-foot-1½ Lew Alcindor-led Bruins clutched an easy 87-66 victory Saturday night. They gained a semifinals berth this Friday night in Los Angeles against Houston — the only team to beat UCLA in 28 games this season.

Still, Santa Clara Coach Dick Garibaldi would like to forget some of the other problems that confronted his forces.

First, Santa Clara starter Bud Ogden was overlooked in introductions of Bronco starters.

Then, while the Bronco coach was trying to regroup his team at halftime with UCLA leading 51-34, he and several players smelled natural gas. They spilled out of the dressing room while University of New Mexico officials investigated.

Spokesmen said "there was nothing serious." There are no natural gas lines in the locker rooms of the University Arena where 15,010 persons watched the game. Officials theorized wind had blown some fumes from a boiler through the air vents and presented "only a momentarily problem."

The Broncos — finishing at 22-4 — returned to the court, where Alcindor and teammates Lucius Allen and Mike Warren continued the demolition.

Alcindor scored 22 points and pulled down 18 rebounds for a two-game tournament total of 50 points and 51 rebounds. Allen scored 21 points against West Coast Athletic Conference titlist Santa Clara. Warren, whose playmaking set the patterns that penetrated a Bronco zone, collected 15 points.

Alcindor, named the Most Valuable Player, was joined by Warren, Allen, Ogden and New Mexico's Ron Nelson on the All-Tournament team selected by newsmen.

"I'm sorry we weren't tougher," said Garibaldi.

Dennis Awtry had 17 points for Santa Clara.

14th in Row
UCLA, the Pacific Eight champ won its 14th straight NCAA tournament game and 14th since losing Jan. 20 to Houston.

UCLA Coach John Wooden said he felt better about playing Houston "this time around."

"No. 1, because of Lew's condition and No. 2, because we're playing in Los Angeles," he said. "There is some doubt in our minds about who is better. But we'll find out for sure Friday."

Houston topped the Bruins 71-69 in the Astrodome as Alcindor played with an injured eye, which now is healed.

"There is no use crying about it now," said Alcindor about the injury and the loss. "I just want to be prepared. I hope we're ready to play."

Hayes MVP In Midwest Regional

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
WICHITA, Kan (AP) — "Maybe I'm crazy, but I'm really looking forward to playing UCLA in Los Angeles," says Guy Lewis, coach of Houston's No. 1-ranked basketball team. "You have to play the best to win the national championship."

The awesome Houston club took Texas Christian apart 103 to 68 for the NCAA Midwest Regional crown here Saturday night, making it 32 straight victories since UCLA and Lew Alcindor beat Houston in the NCAA semifinals last year at Louisville.

UCLA's only defeat in Alcindor's collegiate career spanning 58 games was inflicted by Houston 71-69 in the Astrodome Jan. 20 before 52,693 fans. Houston cracked the famed UCLA press and Elvin Hayes outscored Alcindor 39-15 in the duel of All-Americans.

Not Many Changes
Lewis said he didn't expect too many changes in strategy. "I expect UCLA to stay with their press because they have more speed, quickness and depth than we have" said the Cougar coach. "We will try to cut off Alcindor's passing lanes to the cornerman and bother him all we can at the same time"

Alcindor was rusty from a layoff to recuperate from an eye injury and had a bad night at Houston, but a good part of his trouble was Hayes.

The graceful 6-foot-9½ Hayes, operating with shaved head and goatee, showed why he was voted Player of the Year with 74 points, 49 rebounds and several blocked shots in his two games here. The Wichita Roundhouse crowd of 11,004, gave him an ovation late in the title game.

Newsmen voted him the tourney's Most Valuable Player, 41-1. Westley Unseld, Louisville All-American, got the other vote.

"We'll do O. K. out there," Hayes said. "There is no selfishness on this club. We have the outside shooters and the board strength."

Widest Margin
If you were four minutes late for Houston-TCU, you missed the ball game. It was 15-0 after 3:46 and Hayes had eight points and two blocked shots. It was the widest margin ever in a Midwest final.

Hayes is the all-time No. 2 career scorer in collegiate history with 2,840 points, trailing only Oscar Robertson. He's well on his way to breaking Bill Bradley's NCAA tourney scoring mark of 177 in five games for Princeton in 1965. Hayes has 123 in three, a 41.0 average.

Teammates Don Chaney and Theodis Lee joined Hayes on the all-tourney team, along with Unseld Butch Beard of Louisville edged Houston's Ken Spain by one vote for the other first team berth.

King Wants One Peace Candidate

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. says he hopes antiwar Democrats will unite behind either Sen. Robert F. Kennedy or Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

Describing both as "very able and competent and dedicated men," he said he would like to see a "rally to one of these candidates so that we will have an alternative to the policies that we presently have" in Vietnam. Speaking to newsmen Sunday before addressing a church congregation, King said President Johnson is "so much involved in saving face that it's going to take a new administration to bring an end to this war."

Library's Free Day May Have Backfired

CHICAGO (AP) — When overdue books were accepted at the public library without fines Jan. 2, nearly 105,000 books—many of them valuable or out of print—were returned. Library officials were jubilant.

Now they fear the amnesty may have backfired. There has been a sharp decrease in the collection of fines on overdue books since.

Potato puppets are fun to make. By fixing up a cardboard carton as a stage, you can put on a good show.

At least two puppet actors will be needed, so two potatoes are required for the heads. Small, red potatoes are the best for this purpose. Select ones that have the greatest resemblance to a face. It is especially important for the potato to have a little knob on it for a nose. Carve a mouth, the eyes and the eyebrows.

Cut a hole in each puppet where the neck should be, making it just large enough to fit your forefinger snugly (Figure 2).

Make a coat and hat for each puppet, using cloth. Fit the coat over your hand (Figure 3) with your thumb acting as one arm and your middle finger as the other. Fit the potato head on your forefinger which sticks out through a neck hole in the coat. Attach the cloth hat with pins.

The stage is a cardboard or corrugated box minus lid and bottom. Work one puppet yourself and get a friend to operate the other. Both of you should be behind the box and lower than the stage so, to make the puppets appear to be on the stage, all you have to do is hold them up to the opening at the rear of the platform.

You and your friend will have to talk for the puppets, moving their arms and heads as you do so. Decide in advance what each actor is to say.

TOMORROW: A plate decorated with presidents' pictures!

Gold Run Halted by New 2-Price System

Americans Will Have To Pay More

WASHINGTON (AP) — A trip to the jeweler or the dentist probably will cost Americans more money under the new two-price system for gold adopted by the United States and its six European gold partners.

Wedding rings and other jewelry, fillings for teeth and sophisticated electronic circuits in missile systems are just a few of the domestic uses for gold.

Until now, domestic users bought the gold for $35 an ounce either directly from U.S. producers or from the Treasury Department, which dug into its stockpile to meet all the demand the producers couldn't.

But under the new agreement, the Treasury will no longer sell gold for domestic use. The jeweler and the dentist must buy their supplies on the open market, beginning today.

Whatever Price
A new Treasury Department regulation will permit U.S. producers to sell to domestic industry or to export gold at whatever price they want.

Although U.S. officials hesitate to predict where the open-market price of gold will go, it's almost a certainty the initial movement will be up.

Just how high it goes will depend on the supply both from producers and in the foreign markets and from the private hoards which have been accumulated throughout the world over the years and especially since devaluation of the British pound on Nov. 18.

As the price rises, hoarders will be tempted to unload their private stockpiles on the European markets for a quick profit — once the European markets reopen.

Too much gold on the market at one time, however, could depress the price.

Crash Kills 6 Cheerleaders

RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP) — Six high school girl cheerleaders and three adults were killed in the crash of a twin-engine plane coming home from the South Dakota state basketball tournament Sunday.

The tragedy stunned this western South Dakota city, and the Rapid City High School of some 2,600 students was closed today.

Ivan Landstrom, 56, a local businessman, was piloting his own plane and landing in a crosswind of 20 m.p.h. with gusts to 25 m.p.h. A witness said the plane had nearly touched down when it rose into the air, then cartwheeled on wing and screeched to a stop 100 yards off the runway.

A fire broke out and all nine aboard perished.

The Governor Sends Blarney

A Letter From Michael O'Knowles

If you remembered to tip the tam to Gov. Warren P. Knowles on St. Paddy's Day, there's a good chance he responded with a little blarney from Kilarney. One sample of the governor's Irish touch went to a Fox Valley woman who proudly pinned his letter to her shamrock Sunday. It reads:

Dear Cousin:

Your welcome letter received and me and your Aunt Bridget thank you kindly for the money you sent. We have seven masses said for your grandfather and grandmother. God rest their souls.

You have gone high places in America, God bless you. I hope you'll not be putting on airs and forgetting your native land.

Your cousin, Hughie, O'Toole, was hung in Londonderry last week for killing a policeman, may God rest his soul. And may God's curse be on Jimmy Callahan, the informer, and may he burn in hell, God forgive me.

Times are not as bad as they might be. The hearing is back and nearly everyone who has a heart is making ends meet and the price of fish is good, thanks be to God.

We had a grand time at Pat Muldoon's wake. He was an old blatherskite and it looked good to see him stretched out with his big mouth closed. He is better off dead, and he'll burn 'til the damn place freezes over. He had too many friends among the Orangemen. God curse the lot of them.

Too Much Drink

Bless your heart, I almost forgot to tell you about your Uncle Dinny. He took a pot-shot at a turncoat in back of a hedge, but he had too much drink in him and he missed. God's curse be on the dirty drink.

I hope this letter finds you in good health and may God keep reminding you to send the money.

The Brennans are 100 per cent strong around here since they stopped going to America. They have kids running all over the country.

Father O'Flaherty, who baptized you, is now feeble-minded and sends you his blessings.

Mollie O'Brien, the brat you used to go to school with, has married an Englishman. She'll have no luck.

May God take care of the lot of you and keep you from sudden death.

Your Devoted Cousin, Michael

P.S. Things look bright again. Every police barracks and every Protestant church has been burned to the ground in County Cork. Thanks be to God!

P.S. Keep sending the money.

7 Nations Won't Sell to Speculators

WASHINGTON (AP) — A two-level gold pricing system took effect today as the gold pool governments halted the flow of metal from their treasuries into the fevered speculative markets.

Cablegrams sped to all capitals reporting Sunday night's decision by the seven central bankers at their weekend meeting in Washington—and inviting all countries to join in maintaining the established $35 an ounce price for all transactions between governments.

Related Stories On Pages A-2, A-6

But the rest of the world's gold was set free to find its own price.

Pool Dissolved

The London gold pool was, in effect, dissolved. The London gold market—biggest of all, and the one which supplied most of the gold to other markets—was ordered to stay closed until April 1.

U.S. officials radiated confidence that the frenzied speculative attacks on the dollar would die away. Most Congressmen were pleased and relieved. London was dubious. Paris saw the action as a stop-gap, not a solution.

Among all the uncertainties, these results were assured:

1. The rate of exchange between dollars and other currencies will stay put. Those American travelers who suddenly could not spend dollar bills or cash travelers checks overseas should have no more trouble.

2. The pound sterling has been bolstered further. The six other countries which have supplied gold to the London pool are increasing to $4 billion the total of currency credits available to hard-pressed Britain. Their previous commitments were not disclosed, but the increase is known to be substantial.

Buy on Market

3. On the home front, jewelers and other licensed users of gold can no longer buy from the Treasury. The Treasury will continue to issue licenses to legitimate users, however, and the holders can buy on the free market here or overseas.

None of the governments, the seven bank governors said, will henceforth sell to private buyers or buy from private sellers. They seemed confident the rule would be followed by all free world governments, not just the seven signers.

Speculators and legitimate users alike thus will have to buy from those who mine the metal—in South Africa, the Soviet Union or Canada—or those who may be ready to sell from private hoards.

The question that hung heavily over the two-day conference in Washington's marble Federal Reserve Board building—and still remains unanswered—is whether the $35 official price can stand up if the free price is much higher.

Measures Sought

Not even Washington expects the plan to endure unless solid measures are taken to repair confidence in the dollar abroad. The Federal Reserve moved Thursday to tighten credit.

President Johnson gave further assurances Saturday. He will accept a multi-billion dollar spending cut in his fiscal 1969 budget, he said, to insure the enactment by Congress of his 10 per cent income tax surcharge proposal. There are strong indi-

600 Enemy Repulsed In 'Probe' at Khe Sanh

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese rangers fought off another attack on Khe Sanh today and allied troops sweeping around Saigon claimed an enemy death toll exceeding 600 in the first week of their big drive.

About 600 North Vietnamese soldiers charged from their trenches, some as close as 20 yards from the outer barbed wire, in their second attack this month on the South Vietnamese position at Khe Sanh.

A sheet of machine-gun fire from the rangers' trenches and U.S. Marine mortars drove the enemy away after about an hour. There was no report of casualties on either side, but the North Vietnamese could be seen dragging away dead and wounded men.

'Strong Probe'

A U.S. spokesman said the attack was a "strong probe" against the northwest frontier combat base, where the 400 rangers and some 6,000 U.S. Marines have been braced for several months for a major assault by an estimated 40,000 enemy troops around the fortress.

Enemy gunners fired about 500 shells at the Khe Sanh base Sunday, the heaviest barrage in more than a week. U.S. B52 bombers flew three raids against enemy positions.

In the 50,000-man operation Quyet Thang—Resolve To Win—around Saigon, South Vietnamese infantrymen came under fire from guerrillas dug in at the village of Tram Lak, 17 miles northwest of Saigon.

Associated Press photographer Al Chang, with the troops, said the infantrymen held their line while two tanks and 20 armored personnel carriers of the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry moved up and began blasting the enemy positions from within 50 yards.

Air strikes also were called in. At dusk, the allied troops secured the area and reported 84

Johnson Calls for National Austerity

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — President Johnson called on the American people today for "a program of national austerity" and an all-out effort to win the Vietnam war, win the peace and "complete the job at home."

Making an unannounced trip here from his Texas ranch to address the National Farmers' Union convention, Johnson said the tasks ahead will require "a program of national austerity to insure that our economy will prosper and our fiscal position will be sound."

Speaking more forcefully than ever before on the subject, Johnson declared:

"The time has come when your President must ask you to join in a total national effort to win the war, to win the peace, and to complete the job at home."

Johnson announced what reliable sources reported Saturday—that he is working with Congress to make major budget cuts in an effort to gain enactment of a 10 per cent income tax increase.

If such cuts are made—and they could slash $3 billion to $4 billion of federal spending in the next fiscal year—Johnson acknowledged the result would be to "postpone many needed actions."

'Support Our Men'

With the dollar under new assault in international money markets, Johnson also promised an intensified program to curb nonessential travel outside the hemisphere and to reduce business spending and investment in Western Europe. He did not go into detail.

Johnson said that "most of all I ask your help and your patriotic support of our men who are bearing the burden of battle in Vietnam." He said:

"We seek not the victory of conquest, but the triumph of justice. We will win."

guerrillas killed but only one American and one South Vietnamese wounded.

After two earlier battles Sunday, the U.S. Command had reported an enemy toll of 730 dead in the allied offensive that began last Monday in five provinces north, west and south of Saigon. U.S. losses so far were put at 30 killed and 249 wounded. Government casualties were reported light.

The U.S. Command also re-

Kennedy's Candidacy Involved

LBj Charges 'Deal' on War Commission, RFK Denies It

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and the Johnson administration have exchanged politically explosive charges over the New Yorker's proposal to stay out of the presidential race if U.S. policy in Vietnam were revised.

High administration sources labeled as an ultimatum Kennedy's proposal that President Johnson appoint a blue-ribbon panel to work on war policy revisions. They said Johnson spurned it as a totally unacceptable political deal.

Kennedy said the commission idea originated with an unnamed Democratic political leader who advanced it to him as well as to President Johnson. He said Theodore Sorenson, a former aide to President John F. Kennedy, also proposed the measure to Johnson but not at his (Sen. Kennedy's) behest.

Reports Distorted

Kennedy added, however, that published reports have since distorted it and he blamed the distortions on White House leaks to the news media.

Charged Kennedy, who entered the race for the Democratic presidential nomination on Saturday:

"This incident reveals in the sharpest possible terms why the American people no longer believe the President and the White House; why the credibility of our political leadership has been so critically eroded and why it is clear that the only way we are going to change our policy in Vietnam is to change administrations in Washington."

In a 1,500-word statement, Kennedy said he told Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford last Thursday that his candidacy wouldn't be necessary if Johnson accepted the commission proposal.

'More Than Gimmick'

Kennedy put it this way: "I made it clear that if it (the commission) were more than a public relations gimmick, I would support the President's announcement of the commission and its membership signalled a clear-cut willingness to seek a wider path to peace in Vietnam, then my declaration of candidacy would no longer be necessary."

But the administration source said Kennedy demanded that any statement announcing the commission indicate that Johnson had "grave doubt of the wisdom of his past course and that was why this reappraisal was necessary."

The source said Kennedy wanted to be on the commission and presented to Clifford a list of other possible members.

Johnson immediately rejected the proposal, the source said, on grounds it smacked of a political deal, cast doubt on his "Vietnam policies, might encourage North Vietnam to think U.S. resolve was weakening and furthermore represented an attempt to usurp presidential authority.

Newsweek magazine quoted a White House aide as calling the proposal "the damndest piece of political blackmail" he had ever heard of.

'Rules Abridged'

Kennedy, saying he was surprised that "the traditional rules of confidence governing White House conversations are no longer respected by the White House itself," charged published versions of the affair "fall so short of the truth that I believe the American people are entitled to the facts."

Kennedy said Johnson had first appeared interested in the proposal but later rejected it, in part—said the senator—because

10,000 Rioters in London Protest Vietnam War

LONDON (AP) — Police filed criminal charges against 220 rioters today after battling an estimated 10,000 screaming marchers in a big anti-American demonstration.

More than 80 policemen were injured and 28 hospitalized Sunday as 1,000 unarmed bobbies fought off demonstrators against the Vietnam war trying to storm the U.S. Embassy on Grosvenor Square.

In Nuernberg, 500 leftwingers protesting the war jeered West German Foreign Minister Willy Brandt and for 10 minutes kept him out of his political party's national convention.

In Stockholm, an American newsman said he and a U.S. consul were roughed up by two Americans after being invited to meet with a young American who had deserted from the U.S. Army to escape going to Vietnam.

In Paris, explosions before dawn broke windows at the Chase Manhattan Bank, the Bank of America and the TWA office. No one was hurt.

Those arrested in the London riot were charged with threatening behavior, possession of offensive weapons, assault on police, obstructing police or obstructing the highway. Most of them were released on bail and will appear in court during the week.

Fighting broke out when demonstrators tried to push through three lines of police protecting the embassy.

The demonstrators failed to reach the building, but in 55 minutes of fighting scores were wrestled to the ground and dragged away. Demonstrators hurled rocks, smoke bombs and red paint at the glass-walled embassy. There was little damage, but 13 windows were smashed by rocks and smoke bombs.

Mounted and foot police pushed back the surging throng without using truncheons or riot sticks. Several police horses were bruised in the melee.

The demonstration began in Trafalgar Square as an orderly protest against American involvement in Vietnam. Most of the protesters were British, but visiting American and European students joined in.

The crowd waved Viet Cong flags and carried banners denouncing the war and the United States.

The crowd moved from Trafalgar to Grosvenor Square, tying up traffic in central London. There was no violence until the embassy was approached.

Some demonstrators also broke windows in the nearby Europa Hotel, a popular residence with American visitors. Others tried to enter the Hilton Hotel about half a mile away but were locked out.

develop a 32-unit mobil home park on 5 1/2 acres of a 16 acre westside site purchased by the company for $5,500. Part of the parcel is being reserved for possible development for multiple family housing. An office, centrally located recreation center and individual garages are being included in the trailer court. BIW officials anticipate easement of the city's critical lack of rental units when the project is completed.

Governor Warren P. Knowles visited Brillion on April 22 to speak at dedication ceremonies for the Ariens Company's million dollar plant and office facility which was completed in Dec. of 1966. The same day, the Governor unveiled a plaque in front of the office which designates a spherical shaped water fountain as a memorial to Henry Ariens, co-founder of the 34 year old company.

Since that time, Ariens Co. has constructed an approximate 100,000 12,000 square foot addition to loading and storage facilities at the new plant. The loading area provides rail shipping facilities. The company has also resumed use of its old downtown plant for painting, fabrication and assembly of lawn, yard and garden power equipment.

Firm Merges

A quarter million dollar expansion program at Rent-A-Truck and Mobil Equipment Sales, Inc. was culminated this past summer with an open house and tours of the renovated downtown offices and the new 17,000 sq. foot plant addition on U. S. 10. The new plant facility doubled the mechanical work area and the parts and stock room. The body shop is tripled in size. A fire recapping plant, engine rebuilding room, warehouse and lunch room and locker facilities were added.

In November the firm announced a stock-for-stock merger with the Saunders Leasing System, Inc., Birmingham, Ala. "The merger will enable us to continue our expansion program at an even faster rate" and "customer service will be improved," Mel Koch, Rent-A-Truck president, said.

There were 20 building permits issued for new homes totaling $389,600 in construction costs. This was six more than in the previous year when 14 permits were issued for $258,000 in new home construction. Seven new garages valued at $12,000 were built in the city in 1967.

Fourteen permits for industrial improvements or new construction were issued during the year. Construction value was $382,770.

Some $35,340 was spent by 26 home owners for remodeling work on existing buildings.

The $150,000 St. Bartholomew Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, was completed in July and parishioners conducted an open house and dedication services the following month.

This community now has six churches and a population just over 2,000.

Deer Run Golf Course proprietors anticipate an earlier spring opening this year due to dike construction that will aid in water level control. Continued brush removal and filling of lowlands during 1967 have improved the four-year old nine-hole course.

A "first" was accomplished during 1967 in the Brillion High School football-sports program history when the Lions squad earned the undisputed Little Nine Conference championship.

New London Firemen
Fix Plugged Chimney

NEW LONDON — Firemen were called to the home of Mabel Mathewson, 411 McKinley St., about 6 a.m. Saturday to unplug a chimney.

There was no threat of fire or danger, a fire official said.

Portage County Sheriff Nick Check has concrete evidence of something but he isn't sure just what it is. An office safe, obviously tampered with but unopened, was found and turned over to the sheriff's department. After trying for three weeks to find the owner, the department opened the safe and found it filled with concrete. (AP Wirephoto)

Blizzard and Below Zero

When St. Pat Shoveled Snow

The weatherman pulled an Irish trick on the Fox Cities — the entire state of Wisconsin, in fact — on St. Patrick's Day three years ago.

In contrast to Sunday's balmy, wearin' o' the green weather St. Pat's Day in 1965 was a white one. Not only was it a snowy, blowy day but the worst snowstorm of the winter came sneaking into the area between 1 and 2 a.m. and pelted the state with anywhere from 5 to 18 inches of snow.

This was only four days before spring and, as if to add insult to injury, a wind as wild as any banshee out of Ireland clogged highways as fast as they were plowed and blanketed walks and driveways. The wind was clocked at speeds from 28 miles per hour in the Fox Cities to 45 m.p.h. in other parts of the state.

Snow fell until 10 a.m. Thursday, March 8, with 8 1/2 inches recorded at Appleton and the Twin Cities, 8 inches at Chilton and 8.2 inches in the Waupaca area.

Schools were closed and many stayed closed for two days because buses could not get through the drifts. All secondary roads were drifted shut and only main highways were kept open by round-the-clock plowing. Hard-packed snow on main roads made them slippery and treacherous.

Police all over the state warned motorists to make only trips absolutely necessary for two reasons. Roads were dangerous, many of them blocked by drifts, and the erratic high winds cut visibility close to zero. They urged trucks, and other service vehicles to stay off the roads as much as possible so as not to interfere with highway crews trying to keep the roads clear.

St. Patrick's Day that year was on Wednesday, a working day, and all traffic in the villages and cities moved at snail's pace. As the storm increased, out-of-town workers were sent home early; city schools which had opened were closed so that the children could get home during daylight hours. In many cases parents were called to come and get their youngsters.

Appleton Vocational School cancelled its adult school classes; meeting were called off and many events were rescheduled for a later date. All airports in the area were "weathered in" with no flights. The buses and trains kept running but not on schedule. They kept going as best they could in the battle of the drifts.

Appleton city crews kept sanding, salting, plowing throughout the day and night just to keep even with the howling storm. Homeowners began shoveling their way out of the winter's heaviest snowfall only to have the snow

Theft of Sign Proves Costly
To Four Youths

KAUKAUNA — Four teenagers involved in the theft of a sign from Thilmany Pulp and Paper Company found the vandalism expensive after pleading guilty of disorderly conduct when arraigned Friday before Municipal Justice Clarence O'Connor.

Fined $25, assessed court costs of $5 and ordered to pay $37.50 each for repair of the sign were Dennis Vondracek, 18, 1500 Florence St., Kaukauna; Michael Brautigan, 20, 1613 Green Bay Road, Kaukauna; and Joseph Pieters, 18, 108 Garfield St., Kaukauna.

John Murphy, 18, route 1, Princeton, who was asleep in the auto when the sign was taken, was not fined but was assessed court costs and will share in the restitution.

The youths said they wanted the sign for their college dormitory.

The four were stopped by Kaukauna police, who discovered the sign in the car.

UWGB to Offer Plan
For Fox Valley Center

Expansion Needed for Growing Enrollment;
School to be Designated a 'Campus'

A University of Wisconsin Green Bay (UWGB) official is expected today to propose methods to handle the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center's growing enrollment.

Curtis Lindem, who is assisting in planning new campus facilities, will appear before the Fox Valley Center's board of trustees. He will represent Robert Maier, UWGB assistant chancellor.

He is expected to probe possibilities on expansion of the present facilities, and discuss the future of the center in relation to the UWGB.

Center trustees have been investigating expansion of present facilities or construction elsewhere to meet anticipated student enrollment demands.

The Center already is overcrowded and must be expanded or face limiting enrollment in Trustees also are examining possibilities of federal funds.

The center also has been designated as one of several to become a "campus" July 1.

The name change was ordered Friday by the Board of Regents.

Other centers to become "campuses" July 1 will be Racine and Kenosha, as part of the University of Wisconsin-Parkside and Manitowoc and Marinette County, as part of UWGB.

Seven other centers to become "campuses" immediately are Marshfield-Wood and Sheboygan.

Vandals Hit
Freedom High
Early Today

Windows Smashed
By Pipes, Bottles;
Cars Driven on Lawn

Freedom High School, target of numerous incidents of vandalism and burglary in recent months, was hit by vandals again early today.

Outagamie County Sheriff's Department investigators said that vandals used pieces of steel to smash a large plate glass window in the agricultural room. An 11 foot pipe was used to break two smaller windows in the industrial arts room and soft drink bottles were thrown through two garage windows.

Investigators said at least one car was driven on the school lawn causing considerable damage. Ruts as deep as six inches were cut into the lawn. Authorities said the car or cars made at least four passes across the lawn. The vandalism was discovered at 3 a.m. today by a county patrolman.

Nine windows were smashed in the Outagamie County Highway Department garage at Freedom. Police said there may be a connection between the two vandalism complaints.

Voluntary Vehicle Check May Lead to Mandatory Inspection

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The voluntary vehicle inspection bill, approved by the Legislature and soon to be put into effect in Madison and its rural environs, may lead to the compulsory inspection program vainly urged upon the 1967 Legislature by Gov. Warren P. Knowles, the Wisconsin Automotive Trades Association (WATA) says.

The association is a long-time supporter of the idea of regular and required inspection of all licensed motor vehicles on the road as a means of identifying and removing mechanical hazards to road safety.

The Division of Motor Vehicles is setting up the machinery for an alternative program, under which motorists who are flagged down by state patrolmen at random will be subjected to an automobile inspection and given tickets requiring adjustments and repairs when defects are discovered.

The legislature also decided the division should select a typical test area, representing metropolitan and rural districts, for voluntary tests when the universal testing program was rejected.

Voluntary vehicle inspection will be available in a demonstration area consisting of the city of Madison and environs, and the nearby rural counties of Sauk, Iowa, and Richland.

Standards for such inspections are being developed, but must be approved by the standing committees on highways of both houses of the Legislature before they can be put into effect.

Many travelers, it has been pointed out, might be inconvenienced when halted for the random inspections and would prefer an authorized inspection and a passing certificate from a state-licensed inspection station.

The WATA said it was informed the inspection standards in both pilot programs will be less rigorous than those proposed in the original Knowles bill, but added the results may persuade the succeeding Legislature to require annual safety inspection of all vehicles as a matter of law.

Cosby Tells Follies of Childhood

BY TV SCOUT

7-8 (Channel 5) — The Bill Cosby Show is a well-deserved special for a very clever, very funny commentator on the follies of childhood. The material will be familiar to fans of Cosby's record albums, but watching his expressions as he tells of scaring Fat Albert with a Frankenstein monster, or the Buck Buck Championship of the World, or recalls his experience having his tonsils out, are hysterical. The opening is in Philadelphia, his home town, and has him playing a game of touch football with neighborhood kids. After the longest run in history for a pass catch, he settles down in a studio before some fancy monkey bars, and talks. There's a dance production number, The Fat Albert, a 16-year-old trombonist named Janice Robinson and the "world's champion street football player," 13-year-old Eddie Hunley. Otherwise, it's all Bill, until Sheldon Leonard appears to introduce "Silver Throat." (C)

6:30-7:30 (Channels 11-9) — Tom Nardini as John Henry is the feature of tonight's Cowboy in Africa with the flora sharing the spotlight with the fauna. His pride becomes piqued when he mistakenly is given the impression that he is considered the bottom man on the animal farm. (C)

6:30-7:30 (Channels 2-7) — Gunsmoke's finale to its twoparter starring John Ireland has to be one of the most active in the series' long history. Young James Stacy again takes the lion's share of the story: he guns down the powerful rancher's son, then takes on a slew of gunmen, gets himself captured, escapes and then begins an action to burn down all of Dodge City. (C)

7:30-8 (Channels 11-9) — The Rat Patrol seems at its best when it mixes juvenile sentimentality with its blood and guts premise. The plot begins coldly and viciously with the group joined by a conscienceless sniper. Their mission is to pick off a notorious German general nicknamed "The Butcher." (C)

8-8:30 (Channel 2-7) — Having introduced Ken Berry, the replacement star for The Andy Griffith Show on last week's episode, we now meet another feature of the forthcoming Mayberry R.F.D., young Buddy Foster who will play Mike, the son of Sam Jones (Berry). The whole show is given over to the youngster with Andy, Sam and mostly Opie pitching in to help solve the boy's problem with a bully. (C)

8-9 (Channel 5) — The Danny Thomas Hour begins its rerun schedule with "The Wonderful World of Burlesque III." Carol Channing, Wayne Newton and Mickey Rooney recall the early days of the business when comedy not strippers, reigned. (C)

9-10 (Channels 2-7) — Jack Jones fits very well in the breezy format of The Carol Burnett Show and shows it best with Lyle Waggoner and he trying to subdue a couple of amazons (Carol and Ruth Buzzi) with kisses. He sings "I Can't Get Started With You" and "Cause I Got So Much Lovin' in Me." Another feature is Tim Conway appearing in several skits including a funny bit with Carol and Conway as a computer-matched couple. The hit of the show has Jones and Burnett in a bouncy production number titled "Hoedown Time." (C)

9-10 (Channels 11-9) — If you're a Joey Bishop fan you've probably seen some of this episode of The Big Valley, featuring Joey's announcer Regis Philbin. Clips of it have been used on Joey's show. James Gregory stars as a senator being blackmailed with a doctored photograph showing him and a lovely lady in a scandalous situation. The lady is Victoria Barkley. (C)

9-10 (Channel 5) — Janet MacLachlan is not only good on I Spy, but she also provides Bill Cosby with some opportunities to project his romantic qualities. Their love scenes are just fine. She plays an embassy clerk in Greece who becomes a pawn in a mid-East crisis. Scott's pose to get information begins as a game and then becomes the real thing. Oddly enough, her superior (Michael

Debbie Meyer Sets Record for 1,650 Yards

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Debbie Meyer, a 15-year-old high school sophomore, shattered the American record for the 1,650-yard freestyle swim Sunday. She was timed in 17:04.9 at the final session of the Southern California Invitational swim meet.

Miss Meyer's mark bettered the listed record of 17:38.1 which she set last year and also the 17:29.1 which she swam Jan. 21 at her hometown of Sacramento, Calif.

In her smashing victory, the 5-foot-7, 116-pound teen-ager defeated her closest opponent Patty Caretto, by 44 seconds. Miss Caretto, of the Phillips 66, Long Beach, Calif., team, was clocked in 17:48.9.

Conigliaro Success in Comeback Bid

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
John Blanchard, a spectacular New York Yankee pinch hitter during the New York Yankees' years of greatness, is on his way back to the minors, his comeback try a failure.

Tony Conigliaro, also on a comeback try, is on his way back, too—back to a regular spot in the Boston Red Sox outfield.

"Tony's going to be okay," Red Sox Manager Dick Williams said Sunday after Conigliaro's 400-foot double had ignited a decisive rally in Boston's 3-2 exhibition baseball victory over World Series rival St. Louis at St. Petersburg, Fla. "He's standing up there without flinching," Williams said. "I've been watching him, and he's going to make it."

But for Conigliaro, 35 and trying a comeback after two years away, it was a different, sadder story. He was one of 11 players cut by the Atlanta

Meet Set for Manitowoc; AHS-E Has 10 Lettermen

Appleton East will get off to an early start on its first track season in history.

The Patriots will travel to the John F. Kennedy Fieldhouse, Manitowoc, Tuesday afternoon for an indoor quadrangular meet. In addition to AHS-E and the Ships, the field will include Neenah and Sheboygan South.

Manitowoc, with outstanding indoor training facilities and a host of lettermen back from its 1967 state championship track team, will be favored in tomorrow's meet.

Patriot Coach Paul Freund will build his team around 10 lettermen from the 1967 combined Appleton High School squad. Freund, who is making his debut as a head coach, was a high jumper on the Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh team last year.

East's senior lettermen are pole vaulters Bob Manwell and Cliff Tierney; hurdler and quarter-miler Bill King; Terry Calder, shot put and discus; and distance runner Scott Schultz. Sprinter Steve Kagen, another senior letterman, is recuperating from a knee operation but expects to join the team later.

Junior lettermen are Neil Gleason, a high jumper, long jumper and quarter-miler; Don Knaack and Dave Brown, weights; and Greg Foker, distance runner. Bruce Weigman (440 and 880) is a senior transfer student.

Among other promising candidates are mile Luke De Young and sophomore sprinters Don Siani and Jeff Forslund.

The Patriots, who have worked out since Feb. 15, have been able to use their new track for two weeks because of favorable weather.

When the outdoor campaign starts, the Patriots will compete in about two meets per week.

Freund's coaching assistants are John Benn, who will work principally with the sprinters and hurdlers; and Bill Radke, who'll tutor the weightmen.

The Patriot schedule:
March 19—Quadrangular at Manitowoc (with Neenah and Sheboygan South)
April 4—FRVC indoor meet (at Manitowoc)
April 13—Madison West Relays
April 19—Triangular at Neenah (with AHS-W)

Gordon Johncock Wins First USAC Race of '68

HANFORD, Calif. (AP)—Gordon Johncock leads the race for the national racing title today after winning the first of 24 United States Auto Club championship races to be held this year.

The 31-year-old driver took over the lead with 11 laps to go Sunday in the California 200-mile race in Hanford to beat Al Unser for the first prize of $12,000.

Leaders Bobby Unser and Art Pollard spun out with 11 laps to go and Johncock, driving a rear-engine Offenhauser, took the lead for the first time.

Johncock then held off a frantic closing rush by Al Unser to sweep into the winners' circle with a one-second margin. It was Johncock's second straight victory at Hanford, this time Caretto, by the Phillips 66, Long Beach, Calif., team, was clocked in 17:48.9.

Just last October Johncock

had another Hanford 200-mile victory when leader Joe Leonard spun out in front of him with only three laps left.

The USAC circuit this year is 24 races long, longest in the history of the tour. It winds up at Riverside, Calif., the first Sunday in December with the Rex Mays 300.

With his victory Sunday, Johncock gets 400 points toward the individual title—awarded on the basis of two points per mile.

Al Unser was awarded 320 points for second place and third place Lloyd Ruby of Wichita Falls, Tex., got 280.

MANITOWOC (AP) — With horns blaring and banners waving, a parade of nearly 500 cars turned out to welcome the state champion Manitowoc High School basketball team home Sunday.

The Ships captured the title Saturday night with a come-from-behind 63-51 victory over Beloit in the state tournament in Madison.

A vanguard of some 150 cars met the undefeated Ships at Valders, nine miles from home. More and more cars joined in and when it wound through Manitowoc, the motorcade was five miles long.

Thousands of cheering fans packed Washington Park as school and city officials praised the team and its coach, Ed Fleener.

Knowles Sends Telegram

The team had breakfast with the governor before the trip back from the state capital.

Manitowoc Athletic Director John Jung said a main reason for the Ships' success was the way Fleener developed his bench strength during the season. He said substitutions made the difference in the state tournament. Jung coached the Ships to their last state crown in 1963. Principal William Malinsky told the crowd there would probably be a special assembly today to honor the victorious Ships.

But he drew a round of boos when he said that all other classes would be held as scheduled.

Reports Indicate That NL Expansion May be Near

By DICK COUCH

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Hints of imminent National League expansion circulated freely Sunday. This followed published reports that the American League will split into two six-team divisions next year.

American League sources, however, denied the divisional setup has been formalized. National League club owners, reportedly panicked by the AL plan, remained mum on the possibility of 1969 expansion.

A National League committee will meet to discuss expansion before the regular spring session of the major league's Executive Council Wednesday and Thursday. If expansion to 12 teams in 1969 is recommended by the NL committee, it will be put before the league club owners sometime next month.

Within 30 Days

Published accounts have stated that the American League would announce within 30 days a two-division split in 1969, with a pennant playoff between the division winners.

The reports said the American League already had notified the National League of the move, triggering a series of frantic secret meetings of NL club owners.

"It's just speculation," an American League source said. "I can tell you definitely that no action has been taken."

Others in the AL contend the two-division setup still was in the planning stage, and that their league has not presented its schedule to the National League for 1969.

Under baseball rules each league must submit its schedule to the other for the sake of conformity.

Urged to Follow Suit

It has been suggested that a pennant playoff between American League division winners — for example a best 3-of-5 game series — would draw attention away from the final week of the National League race, however tight it might be.

When the American League expanded to 12 teams for 1969 — adding Seattle, Wash., and returning Kansas City to major-league status — AL owners urged the National League to follow suit.

Some National League owners, including Walter O'Malley of Los Angeles and Horace Stoneham of San Francisco, favored 1969 expansion. The others, and league president Warren Giles, wanted to wait longer.

Reports that the American League notified the National of its intentions to go to two divisions also said O'Malley and Stoneham were furious at the move.

The New York Knickerbockers are on Cloud Nine today.

Well, maybe not that high but they are higher than they have been since the 1958-59 National Basketball Association season.

New York, which finished second in 1958-59, clinched third place in the Eastern Division Sunday when they trounced San Francisco 130-104 and Los Angeles edged Detroit 120-116.

Detroit now is tied with Cincinnati for the fourth and final playoff spot in the East, with two games remaining for each team.

Baltimore outlasted Boston 147-139 and Chicago topped San Diego 129-121 in other NBA games Sunday.

Seven players hit double figures as the Knicks, leading only 58-56 at halftime, turned the game into a rout by building up a 93-78 margin at the end of three quarters.

Walt Bellamy led New York with 26 points. San Francisco's Rudy LaRusso scored 28.

Dave Bing did his best to keep Detroit in the fight for third, but a Los Angeles surge in the final seven minutes gained the victory for the Lakers.

Nose Surgery Puts West Out Of 3 Games

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Surgery was performed Sunday on the nose of Jerry West and the star Los Angeles Laker guard is expected to miss the team's final three National Basketball Association games.

West suffered what at first was thought to be a broken nose in a game against the New York Knicks on Friday. X-rays Saturday morning proved negative and West played Saturday night when the Lakers routed the Detroit Pistons, 135-108. West scored 17 points, hitting on six of seven shots from the field.

A team spokesman termed the surgery "corrective" and said West's "breathing would not be impaired. He will be ready for the opening playoff game against Chicago next Sunday, the spokesman said.

MU Stands Firm

Al McGuire Says He Will Honor Remainder Of Marquette Pact

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Al McGuire, Marquette University basketball coach, said Sunday that he intends to honor the remaining four years of his contract with the school because "they will not release me."

McGuire, who asked earlier this month that he be released from the contract in order to become coach and general manager of Milwaukee's new team in the National Basketball Association, returned Sunday from the NCAA regional tournament at Lexington, Ky., where his Warriors placed third.

Father Raymond McAuley, Marquette executive vice president, reaffirmed the school's position that it would not release McGuire, adding, "I had told him earlier that we intend to remain firm."

"We don't want to hurt Al but I don't see how at this time we can turn him over to the pro club," he said. "We have no intention of releasing McGuire from his contract."

Officials of the pro club had no comment.

Kansas and Duke are favored to advance in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament tonight, while UCLA and Houston continue to prime their plentiful weapons for a showdown in Los Angeles.

"Maybe I'm crazy, but I'm looking forward to playing UCLA out there," Houston coach Guy Lewis said after his top-ranked and unbeaten Cougars had knocked off Texas Christian 103-68 for the NCAA mid-west regional title in Wichita, Kan. Saturday night.

"You have to play the best to win the national championship," in Albuquerque, N.M., Lew Alcindor, UCLA's 7-foot-1½ All-American center, commented.

"I hope we're ready to play. We want to win it very much."

In Routine Fashion

The Bruins, No. 2 and beaten only by Houston in a regular season game at the Astrodome, demolished Santa Clara 87-66 in routine fashion to win the west regional and set up the rematch with Houston.

The two teams will meet in a semifinal game in Los Angeles Friday. Fourth-ranked North Carolina, a 70-66 winner over Davidson in the east regional at Raleigh, N.C., and Ohio State, 82-81 upset winner over Kentucky at Lexington, Ky. in the mid-east regional meet in the other semifinal.

The semifinal winners play Saturday night for the crown won by UCLA three of the last four years, including 1967.

The NIT continues in New York with Kansas playing Villanova and powerful Duke going against St. Peter's, N.J. in quarter-finals tonight.

The other quarter-finals will be played Tuesday, sending Dayton against Fordham and Long Island U. against Notre Dame. The semifinals are scheduled Thursday night and the finals Saturday afternoon.

Hayes, Player of the Year, scored 39 points in Houston's rout of Texas Christian — the Cougars' 31st straight this season — while Alcindor tossed in 22 for UCLA against Santa Clara.

"Houston has improved, but so have we," said UCLA coach John Wooden. "If we can stop them, it will be something. We hope to be better than when we lost to them in January."

In the NIT tonight, Kansas has a 6-foot-10, 6-6, 6-5 front line

Bruins Stay in Tie for Second With Triumph

By HAL BOCK Associated Press Sports Writer

Just as the Boston Bruins were about to die, the corpse staged a miraculous recovery. Locked in a three-way battle for second place in the National Hockey League's East Division with New York and Chicago and with one fewer game left than either the Rangers or Black Hawks, the Bruins were in deep trouble Sunday night.

They trailed Montreal, the division's runaway leader, 1-0 with time running out. New York had already beaten Pittsburgh 3-0 and Chicago was on its way to a 4-1 victory over Oakland. A Boston loss would have dumped the Bruins unceremoniously into fourth place.

But instead of flopping to fourth, the Bruins rallied for three goals in the final 2½ minutes, beat the Canadiens 3-1, and clung to their share of second.

In other NHL games Sunday, Minnesota walloped Detroit 5-1 and Philadelphia ripped Toronto 7-4.

Vachon Injured

Fred Stanfield's goal with 2:21 left to play got the Bruins even with Montreal and knocked out goalie Rogatien Vachon, who was hit by a stick as the puck went into the net.

Gump Worsley, injured Saturday night against Pittsburgh, took over for Vachon and was beaten by rookie Derek Sanderson for the lead goal. Then Phil Esposito hit an empty net for the wrapup goal.

The victory gave Boston 80 points, the same as New York and one more than Chicago. The Bruins have five games remaining while the Rangers and Black Hawks each have six.

New York finished its business with the expansion West Division by beating Pittsburgh as goalie Ed Giacomin chalked up his eighth shutout. The victory gave the Rangers a 17-4-3 record against the West—best record of any East club against the new division.

Jean Ratelle's 31st goal started New York off and Orland Kurtenbach and Phil Goyette also scored for the Rangers.

Norris made 22 saves—many of them tough ones—against the Seals.

Minnesota blitzed Detroit's Roger Crozier with 49 shots and whipped the Red Wings to move into a tie for third place in the West with the St. Louis Blues.

The game attracted 14,495 fans—Minnesota's eighth sellout of the season—and raised the North Stars' home attendance over 400,000.

Sikes 'Citrus' King by Stroke Over Weiskopf

Victory Good for $23,000 to Florida Attorney-Golfer

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Dan Sikes needs only a victory in one of the major tournaments to win a ranking among pro golf's top players. But the 1968 Citrus Open champ says his main goal is to win $100,000 a year.

The long-driving veteran is just reaching his peak at the age of 37. He has his sights set this year on claiming a title in one of the prestige tournaments, such as the Masters.

"And if I keep playing like I did last year and I have here, I believe I should be ranked in the top five or six players," he said Sunday.

"But my big goal is to win $100,000 again," added the attorney-golfer from Jacksonville, Fla., after winning the $23,000 Citrus Open Sunday.

Sikes harvested $111,000 from golf tournaments in 1967 when he won the Jacksonville Open and the Philadelphia Classic.

Straight Down Middle

"But I've never played better than I did in the last round here," Sikes said. "I'm always a good driver, but not like this I was right down the middle on every hole."

Sikes shot a 66 in the furious finish for a 72-hole total of 274, one stroke ahead of Tom Weiskopf.

Weiskopf fired a 66 and won $13,800 for his second-place fin-

Ruth Schmidt, Ken Gradl Slam 290 Game in 'Scotch Couples'

Bernice Mompier, bowling as a substitute in the Meat Couples League at the Hortonville Lanes Sunday night, slammed a national honor count of 602.

Mrs. Mompier and her husband Norm are proprietors at the Hortonville Lanes. Bernice cracked games of 209, 212 and 181 for her first national count in her bowling career.

Bernice was substituting on the Spare Ribs team when she blasted the national count.

In Scotch Couples Tournament competition at the 41 Bowl Friday night, Ruth Schmidt and ish at 275. His check boosted Weiskopf's official earnings for the year to $60,042.

Jack Nicklaus, never able to curb his wildness with his driver, finished with a 68, good for third place at 276 and $8,625.

The hard-hitting trio moved out of the bunched field on the last nine holes. Nicklaus dropped out of the race when he drove into the water on the 14th hole, taking a bogey. Sikes moved in front to stay with a birdie on the 15th, and just missed an eagle when his 20-foot putt stopped an inch from the cup.

Ken Gradl counted a booming 290 game.

After a spare in the first frame, Ken proceeded to slam 11 straight strikes for the high count. He was given a special merchandise award by the 41 Bowl and together they had a 765 total to win second place in the event.

Ken has been carrying a 185 average this season.

Dale Stiernhagen blasted a 244 game and 618 series for top scores in the Comic Couples League at the 41 Bowl. Matt Schaeffer had a 555 series.

For the women, Dee Breuer slammed a 212 game and 532 series and Darlene Grimmer had a 197 line.

Stanky Seeks More Hitting Power, but Relies on Pitching

By JACK HAND
SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — If Eddie Stanky's plans work out, they won't be calling his Chicago White Sox the hitless wonders this season.

"I'm going to play my best eight hitters, regardless of defense," said Stanky. "I'm tired of all those squeakers. I'm for bats."

Stanky's party platform may be tough to carry out. The White Sox have added the .300-plus bat of Tommy Davis and hope to get extra mileage out of veterans like Ken Boyer and Rocky Colavito. But the big plus still is the pitching staff.

Eddie expects improvement on last season's 225 team batting average, ninth in the league. Chicago was first in pitching, second in double plays but ninth in home runs with only 89.

Good Bullpen

If the Sox are to win the pennant it will be up to the formidable pitching of Gary Peters, Joe Horlen and Tommy John, plus a magnificent bullpen.

Horlen is coming off a 19-7 year, and a 2.06 earned run average that led the league. Peters was 16-11 but John slipped to 10-13. Jack Fisher, a veteran with a 9-18 record with the New York Mets, figures to be the fourth starter, taking over the spot vacated when Bruce Howard was traded to Baltimore.

In addition to scheduling nine regular season games in Milwaukee for this summer, the White Sox front office was busy swapping players during the off season.

Don Buford, Roger Nelson and Howard went to Baltimore. Tommie Agee, J. C. Martin and Al Weis to the Mets and Ron Hansen, Dennis Higgins and Steve Jones to Washington.

New Arrivals

Luis Aparicio is back for another turn at Comiskey Park after five years in Baltimore and he brings with him Russ Snyder. Tommy Davis and a couple of kids, catcher Dick Boer and pitcher Billy Wynne are the new arrivals from the Mets. Second baseman Tim Lulen and pitchers Buster Narum and Bob Priddy have moved over from Washington.

Stanky's pitching staff also has Fred Klages (6-9 at Indianapolis) or Cisco Carlos (11-8 at Indianapolis), both of whom were impressive in trials at Chicago.

Hoyle Wilhelm still is the master of the bullpen at 44 and is coming off his best year, 8-3 with a 1.31 earned run average. Bob Locker, 7-5, Don McMahon, 6-2 with Boston and Chicago and Wilbur Wood, 4-2, a left-handed knuckler to go with Wilhelm's right-handed dippy doodles, form the best relief corps in the league. Priddy, 3-7 at Washington, might crack the list.

Outside of Aparicio at shortstop, Stanky's infield is unsettled.

Switching Around

"We have Tommy McCraw at first base," said Stanky, "but I'm also working on Boyer, Pete Ward and Davis there. I know Cullen can play second but I am looking at a kid, Dick Littleton (at Evansville) At third we have Boyer and Ward. We also will see Ward in the outfield."

Davis undoubtedly will hold down one regular outfield job and Ken Berry and Russ Snyder will fight it out for center. In addition to Colavito, Stanky will Ward in the outfield and Charley Bradford who hit .271 at Indianapolis.

Duane Josephson, handicapped by injuries during a 238 rookie season, probably will wind up as No 1 catcher.

Stanky is going for the bat but he knows he will sink or swim with his pitching. It is good enough to make the White Sox a strong pennant factor in a well-balanced league.

Teen-Ager Slams 738

Ohio Team Leads in ABC Regular Class

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bankers Life & Casualty Co. of Youngstown, Ohio, racked up a 2,985 series Sunday and took the lead in the regular team division of the American Bowling Congress tourney.

The Bankers opened up with games of 1,049 and 1,024 and appeared to be heading to a big margin in the division. But they tumbled to 912 in the finale and dislodged by a mere five pins Associated Graphics of Detroit, which had topped the standings for a week with 2,980.

Rolls 24 Strikes

Tom Kirol paced them with a 643 series on games of 234, 225 and 184 and teammates Henry Spencer and Jack Baum added 632 and 605, respectively.

A splinter-thin teen-ager cut loose for 738 behind 24 strikes and games of 279, 241 and 218 to move into first in regular singles.

Debuting in the ABC, Wayne Kowalski, 19, of Revere, Mass., displaced Rob Babiar, an Oregon University student, who had led the division with a 710 for four days. The series was the best fired in 30-day-old tournament and marked Kowalski's best series ever, his previous high was 683.

The Detroit Stroh's, first team to appear in the classic division, totaled 5,932 for their two-day six-game stint. The Stroh's got off to a 2,970 start Saturday and added 2,962 Sunday.

Mike Totsky, who led the Stroh's Saturday with 686, took high-man honors again with 634

UCLA-Houston Rematch Set

Lew, Bruins in Easy Victory

BY PAT THOMPSON
ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Things started badly for Santa Clara even before it took the court against defending national champion UCLA in the NCAA Far West regional basketball tournament finals.

By the time the Broncos walked off the floor, the 7-foot-1½ Lew Alcindor-led Bruins clutched an easy 87-66 victory Saturday night. They gained a semifinals berth this Friday night in Los Angeles against Houston — the only team to beat UCLA in 28 games this season.

Still, Santa Clara Coach Dick Garibaldi would like to forget some of the other problems that confronted his forces.

First, Santa Clara starter Bud Ogden was overlooked in introductions of Bronco starters.

Then, while the Bronco coach was trying to regroup his team at halftime with UCLA leading 51-34, he and several players smelled natural gas. They spilled out of the dressing room while University of New Mexico officials investigated.

Spokesmen said "there was nothing serious." There are no natural gas lines in the locker rooms of the University Arena where 15,010 persons watched the game. Officials theorized wind had blown some fumes from a boiler through the air vents and presented "only a momentarily problem."

The Broncos — finishing at 22-4 — returned to the court, where Alcindor and teammates Lucius Allen and Mike Warren continued the demolition.

Alcindor scored 22 points and pulled down 18 rebounds for a two-game tournament total of 50 points and 51 rebounds. Allen scored 21 points against West Coast Athletic Conference titlist Santa Clara. Warren, whose playmaking set the patterns that penetrated a Bronco zone, collected 15 points.

Alcindor, named the Most Valuable Player, was joined by Warren, Allen, Ogden and New Mexico's Ron Nelson on the All-Tournament team selected by newsmen.

"I'm sorry we weren't tougher," said Garibaldi.

Dennis Awtrey had 17 points for Santa Clara.

14th in Row

UCLA, the Pacific Eight champ won its 14th straight NCAA tournament game and 14th since losing Jan. 20 to Houston.

UCLA Coach John Wooden said he felt better about playing Houston "this time around."

"No 1, because of Lew's condition and No. 2, because we're playing in Los Angeles," he said. "There is some doubt in our minds about who is better. But we'll find out for sure Friday."

Houston toppled the Bruins 71-69 in the Astrodome as Alcindor played with an injured eye, which now is healed.

"There is no use crying about it now," said Alcindor about the injury and the loss. "I just want to be prepared. I hope we're ready to play."

Duane Josephson, handicapped by injuries during a 238 rookie season, probably will wind up as No 1 catcher.

Stanky is going for the bat but he knows he will sink or swim with his pitching. It is good enough to make the White Sox a strong pennant factor in a well-balanced league.

Hoyt Wilhelm still is the master of the bullpen at 44 and is coming off his best year, 8-3 with a 1.31 earned run average. Bob Locker, 7-5, Don McMahon, 6-2 with Boston and Chicago and Wilbur Wood, 4-2, a left-handed knuckler to go with Wilhelm's right-handed dippy doodles, form the best relief corps in the league. Priddy, 3-7 at Washington, might crack the list.

Outside of Aparicio at shortstop, Stanky's infield is unsettled.

Switching Around

"We have Tommy McCraw at first base," said Stanky, "but I'm also working on Boyer, Pete Ward and Davis there. I know Cullen can play second but I am looking at a kid, Dick Littleton (at Evansville) At third we have Boyer and Ward. We also will see Ward in the outfield."

Davis undoubtedly will hold down one regular outfield job and Ken Berry and Russ Snyder will fight it out for center. In addition to Colavito, Stanky will Ward in the outfield and Charley Bradford who hit .271 at Indianapolis.

Hayes MVP In Midwest Regional

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — "Maybe I'm crazy, but I'm really looking forward to playing UCLA in Los Angeles," says Guy Lewis, coach of Houston's No. 1-ranked basketball team. "You have to play the best to win the national championship."

The awesome Houston club took Texas Christian apart 103 to 68 for the NCAA Midwest Regional crown here Saturday night, making it 32 straight victories since UCLA and Lew Alcindor beat Houston in the NCAA semifinals last year at Louisville.

UCLA's only defeat in Alcindor's collegiate career spanning 58 games was inflicted by Houston 71-69 in the Astrodome Jan. 20 before 52,693 fans. Houston cracked the famed UCLA press and Elvin Hayes outscored Alcindor 39-15 in the duel of All-Americans.

Not Many Changes

Lewis said he didn't expect too many changes in strategy. "I expect UCLA to stay with their press because they have more speed, quickness and depth than we have," said the Cougar coach. "We will try to cut off Alcindor's passing lanes to the cornerman and bother him all we can at the same time."

Alcindor was rusty from a layoff to recuperate from an eye injury and had a bad night at Houston, but a good part of his trouble was Hayes.

The graceful 6-foot-9½ Hayes, operating with shaved head and goatee, showed why he was voted Player of the Year with 74 points, 49 rebounds and several blocked shots in his two games here. The Wichita Roundhouse crowd of 11,004, gave him an ovation late in the title game.

Newsman voted him the tourney's Most Valuable Player, 41-1. Westley Unseld, Louisville All-American, got the other vote.

"We'll do O. K. out there," Hayes said. "There is no selfishness on this club. We have the outside shooters and the board strength."

Widest Margin

If you were four minutes late for Houston-TCU, you missed the ball game. It was 15-0 after 3:46 and Hayes had eight points and two blocked shots. It was the widest margin ever in a Midwest final.

Hayes is the all-time No. 2 career scorer in collegiate history with 2,840 points, trailing only Oscar Robertson. He's well on his way to breaking Bill Bradley's NCAA tourney scoring mark of 177 in five games for Princeton in 1965. Hayes has 123 in three, a 41.0 average.

Teammates Don Chaney and Theodis Lee joined Hayes on the all-tourney team, along with Unseld Butch Beard of Louisville edged Houston's Ken Spain by one vote for the other first team berth.

UW Trackmen Score 6 Points in NCAA Meet

DRETOIT (AP) — Wisconsin finished in a four-way tie for 13th place among more than 40 teams in the 17-event, NCAA indoor track and field championships which ended Saturday.

Wisconsin received six points. Villanova, with 35 1-3 points, won the team title for the first time.

Ray Arrington of Wisconsin successfully defending his title in 1,000-yard run, covering the distance in 2:09.3.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. says he hopes antiwar Democrats will unite behind either Sen. Robert F. Kennedy or Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

Describing both as "very able and competent and dedicated men," he said he would like to see a "rally to one of these candidates so that we will have an alternative to the policies that we presently have" in Vietnam. Speaking to newsmen Sunday before addressing a church congregation, King said President Johnson is "so much involved in saving face that it's going to take a new administration to bring an end to this war."

Library's Free Day May Have Backfired

CHICAGO (AP) — When overdue books were accepted at the public library without fines Jan. 2, nearly 105,000 books—many of them valuable or out of print—were returned. Library officials were jubilant.

Now they fear the amnesty may have backfired. There has been a sharp decrease in the collection of fines on overdue books since.

Young Hobby Club Put on a Show of Your Own With Potato-Head Puppets

BY CAPPY DICK
Potato puppets are fun to make. By fixing up a cardboard carton as a stage, you can put on a good show.
At least two puppet actors will be needed, so two potatoes are required for the heads. Small, red potatoes are the best for this purpose. Select ones that have the greatest resemblance to a face. It is especially important for the potato to have a little knob on it for a nose. Carve a mouth, the eyes and the eyebrows.
Cut a hole in each puppet where the neck should be, making it just large enough to fit your forefinger snugly (Figure 2).
Make a coat and hat for each puppet, using cloth. Fit the coat over your hand (Figure 3) with your thumb acting as one arm and your middle finger as the other. Fit the potato head on your forefinger which sticks out through a neck hole in the coat. Attach the cloth hat with pins.

The stage is a cardboard or corrugated box minus lid and bottom. Work one puppet yourself and get a friend to operate the other. Both of you should be behind the box and lower than the stage so, to make the puppets appear to be on the stage, all you have to do is hold them up to the opening at the rear of the platform.

You and your friend will have to talk for the puppets, moving their arms and heads as you do so. Decide in advance what each actor is to say.

TOMORROW : A plate decorated with presidents' pictures!

Gold Run Halted by New 2-Price System

Americans Will Have To Pay More

WASHINGTON (AP) — A trip to the jeweler or the dentist probably will cost Americans more money under the new two-price system for gold adopted by the United States and its six European gold partners.

Wedding rings and other jewelry, fillings for teeth and sophisticated electronic circuits in missile systems are just a few of the domestic uses for gold.

Until now, domestic users bought the gold for $35 an ounce either directly from U.S. producers or from the Treasury Department, which dug into its stockpile to meet all the demand the producers couldn't.

But under the new agreement, the Treasury will no longer sell gold for domestic use. The jeweler and the dentist must buy their supplies on the open market, beginning today.

Whatever Price

A new Treasury Department regulation will permit U.S. producers to sell to domestic industry or to export gold at whatever price they want.

Although U.S. officials hesitate to predict where the open-market price of gold will go, it's almost a certainty the initial movement will be up.

Just how high it goes will depend on the supply both from producers and in the foreign markets and from the private hoards which have been accumulated throughout the world over the years and especially since devaluation of the British pound on Nov. 18.

As the price rises, hoarders will be tempted to unload their private stockpiles on the European markets for a quick profit — once the European markets reopen.

Too much gold on the market at one time, however, could depress the price.

Crash Kills 6 Cheerleaders

RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP) — Six high school girl cheerleaders and three adults were killed in the crash of a twin-engine plane coming home from the South Dakota state basketball tournament Sunday.

The tragedy stunned this western South Dakota city, and the Rapid City High School of some 2,600 students was closed today.

Ivan Landstrom, 56, a local businessman, was piloting his own plane and landing in a crosswind of 20 m.p.h. with gusts to 25 m.p.h. A witness said the plane had nearly touched down when it rose into the air, then cartwheeled on a wing and screeched to a stop 100 yards off the runway.

A fire broke out and all nine aboard perished.

The Governor Sends Blarney

A Letter From Michael O'Knowles

If you remembered to tip the tam to Gov. Warren P. Knowles on St. Paddy's Day, there's a good chance he responded with a little blarney from Kilarney. One sample of the governor's Irish touch went to a Fox Valley woman who proudly pinned his letter to her shamrock Sunday. It reads:

Dear Cousin:

Your welcome letter received and me and your Aunt Bridget thank you kindly for the money you sent. We have seven masses said for your grandfather and grandmother. God rest their souls.

You have gone high places in America, God bless you. I hope you'll not be putting on airs and forgetting your native land.

Your cousin, Hughie O'Toole, was hung in London-derry last week for killing a policeman, may God rest his soul. And may God's curse be on Jimmy Callahan, the informer, and may he burn in hell. God forgive me.

Times are not as bad as they might be. The hearing is back and nearly everyone who has a heart is making ends meet and the price of fish is good, thanks be to God.

We had a grand time at Pat Muldoon's wake. He was an old blatherskite and it looked good to see him stretched out with his big mouth closed. He is better off dead, and he'll burn 'til the damn place freezes over. He had too many friends among the Orangemen. God curse the lot of them.

Too Much Drink

Bless your heart, I almost forgot to tell you about your Uncle Dinny. He took a pot-shot at a turncoat in back of a hedge, but he had too much drink in him and he missed. God's curse be on the dirty drink.

I hope this letter finds you in good health and may God keep reminding you to send the money.

The Brennans are 100 per cent strong around here since they stopped going to America. They have kids running all over the country.

Father O'Flaherty, who baptized you, is now feeble-minded and sends you his blessings.

Mollie O'Brien, the brat you used to go to school with, has married an Englishman. She'll have no luck.

May God take care of the lot of you and keep you from sudden death.

Your Devoted Cousin, Michael

P.S. Things look bright again. Every police barracks and every Protestant church has been burned to the ground in County Cork. Thanks be to God!

P.S. Keep sending the money.

7 Nations Won't Sell to Speculators

WASHINGTON (AP) — A two-level gold pricing system took effect today as the gold pool governments halted the flow of metal from their treasuries into the fevered speculative markets.

Cablegrams sped to all capitals reporting Sunday night's decision by the seven central bankers at their weekend meeting in Washington—and inviting all countries to join in maintaining the established $35 an ounce price for all transactions between governments.

But the rest of the world's gold was set free to find its own price.

Pool Dissolved

The London gold pool was, in effect, dissolved. The London gold market—biggest of all, and the one which supplied most of the gold to other markets—was ordered to stay closed until April 1.

U.S. officials radiated confidence that the frenzied speculative attacks on the dollar would die away. Most Congressmen were pleased and relieved. London was dubious. Paris saw the action as a stop-gap, not a solution.

Among all the uncertainties, these results were assured:

1. The rate of exchange between dollars and other currencies will stay put. Those American travelers who suddenly could not spend dollar bills or cash travelers checks overseas should have no more trouble.
2. The pound sterling has been bolstered further. The six other countries which have supplied gold to the London pool are increasing to $4 billion the total of currency credits available to hard-pressed Britain. Their previous commitments were not disclosed, but the increase is known to be substantial.

Buy on Market

3. On the home front, jewelers and other licensed users of gold can no longer buy from the Treasury. The Treasury will continue to issue licenses to legitimate users, however, and the holders can buy on the free market here or overseas.

None of the governments, the seven bank governors said, will henceforth sell to private buyers or buy from private sellers. They seemed confident the rule would be followed by all free world governments, not just the seven signers.

Speculators and legitimate users alike thus will have to buy from those who mine the metal—in South Africa, the Soviet Union or Canada—or those who may be ready to sell from private hoards.

The question that hung heavily over the two-day conference in Washington's marble Federal Reserve Board building—and still remains unanswered—is whether the $35 official price can stand up if the free price is much higher.

Measures Sought

Not even Washington expects the plan to endure unless solid measures are taken to repair confidence in the dollar abroad. The Federal Reserve moved Thursday to tighten credit.

President Johnson gave further assurances Saturday. He will accept a multi-billion dollar spending cut in his fiscal 1969 budget, he said, to insure the enactment by Congress of his 10 per cent income tax surcharge proposal. There are strong indi-

Kennedy's Candidacy Involved

LBJ Charges 'Deal' on War Commission, RFK Denies It

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and the Johnson administration have exchanged politically explosive charges over the New Yorker's proposal to stay out of the presidential race if U.S. policy in Vietnam were revised.

High administration sources labeled as an ultimatum Kennedy's proposal that President Johnson appoint a blue-ribbon panel to work on war policy revisions. They said Johnson spurned it as a totally unacceptable political deal.

Kennedy said the commission idea originated with an unnamed Democratic political leader who advanced it to him as well as to President Johnson. He said Theodore Sorenson, a former aide to President John F. Kennedy, also proposed the measure to Johnson but not at his (Sen. Kennedy's) behest.

Reports Distorted

Kennedy added, however, that published reports have since distorted it and he blamed the distortions on White House leaks to the news media.

Charged Kennedy, who entered the race for the Democratic presidential nomination on Saturday:

10,000 Rioters in London Protest Vietnam War

LONDON (AP) — Police filed criminal charges against 220 rioters today after battling an estimated 10,000 screaming marchers in a big anti-American demonstration.

More than 80 policemen were injured and 28 hospitalized Sunday as 1,000 unarmed bobbies fought off demonstrators against the Vietnam war trying to storm the U.S. Embassy on Grosvenor Square.

In Nuernberg, 500 leftwingers protesting the war jeered West German Foreign Minister Willy Brandt and for 10 minutes kept him out of his political party's national convention.

In Stockholm, an American newsman said he and a U.S. consul were roughed up by two Americans after being invited to meet with a young American who had deserted from the U.S. Army to escape going to Vietnam.

In Paris, explosions before dawn broke windows at the Chase Manhattan Bank, the Bank of America and the TWA office. No one was hurt.

Those arrested in the London riot were charged with threatening behavior, possession of offensive weapons, assault on police, obstructing police or obstructing the highway. Most of them were released on bail and will appear in court during the week.

Fighting broke out when demonstrators tried to push through three lines of police protecting the embassy.

The demonstrators failed to reach the building, but in 55 minutes of fighting scores were wrestled to the ground and dragged away.

Demonstrators hurled rocks, smoke bombs and red paint at the glass-walled embassy. There was little damage, but 13 windows were smashed by rocks and smoke bombs.

Mounted and foot police pushed back the surging throng without using truncheons or riot sticks. Several police horses were bruised in the melee.

The demonstration began in Trafalgar Square as an orderly protest against American involvement in Vietnam. Most of the protesters were British, but visiting American and European students joined in.

The crowd waved Viet Cong flags and carried banners denouncing the war and the United States.

The crowd moved from Trafalgar to Grosvenor Square, tying up traffic in central London. There was no violence until the embassy was approached.

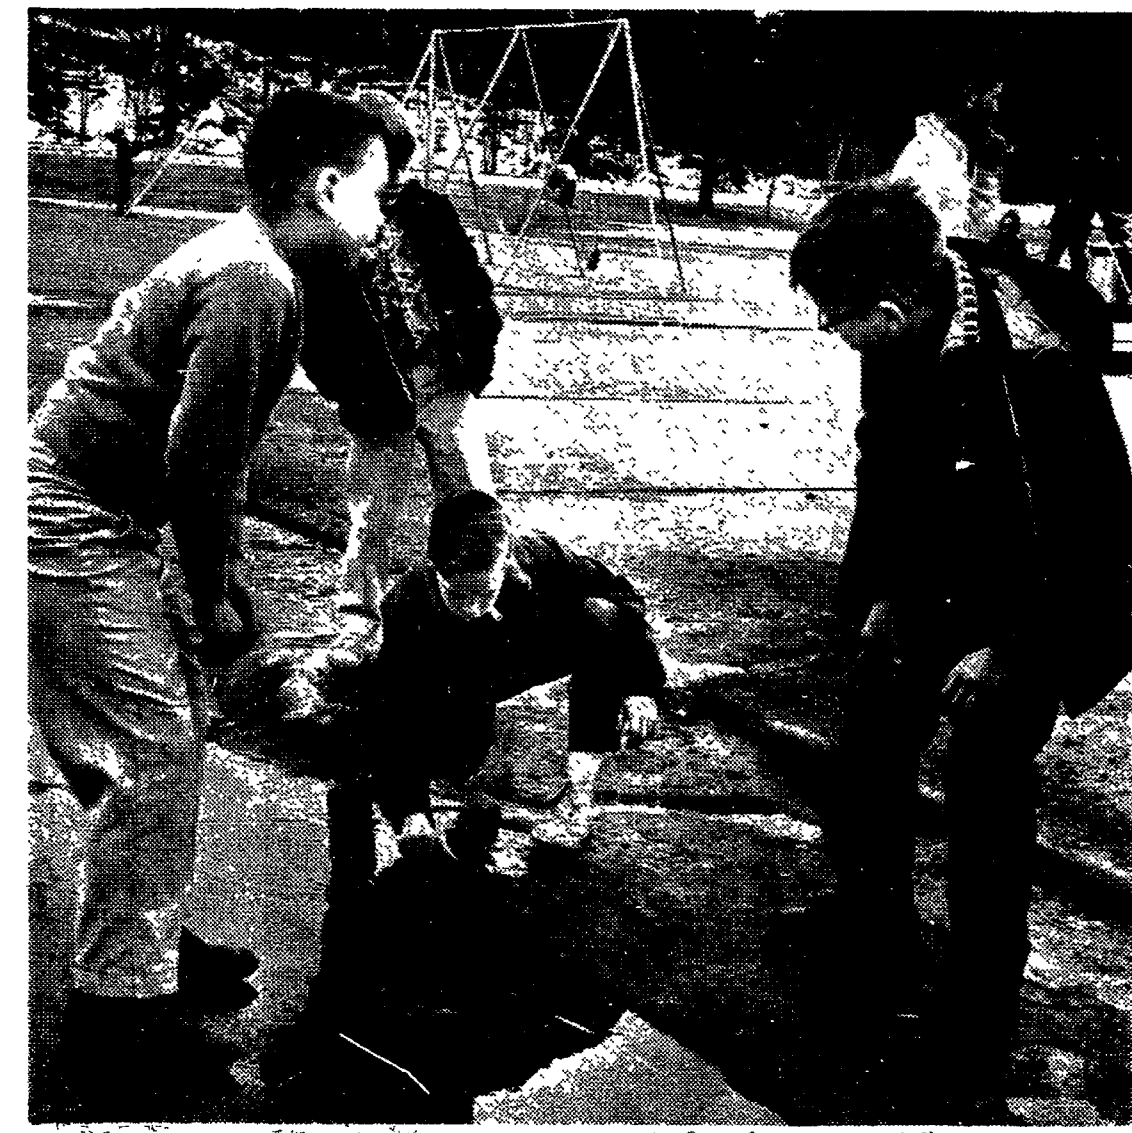

Some demonstrators also broke windows in the nearby Europa Hotel, a popular residence with American visitors. Others tried to enter the Hilton Hotel about half a mile away but were locked out.

All Categories Upped $500 Shiocton Okays Teacher Salaries With $6,000 Base

SHIOCTON — The board of education and Shiocton Education Association recently settled 1968-69 teacher contract terms, calling for a $6,000 base for a new teacher with a bachelors degree.

Starting salaries in the five educational categories were each boosted $500, increasing instructional costs about $38,500.

The maximum in the bachelors degree category will be $8,880 with 13 years experience. Other categories find the bachelors degree plus 15 credits with a $6,200 base and $9,320 maximum in 14 years, and masters degree, $6,400 to $9,760 in 15 years.

Teachers with two years of college will receive a base of $5,100 and $5,900 in five years while three-year college teachers will receive a $5,550 base and $6,750 maximum. An additional item pays an extra $100 to teachers living in the district.

Stipends Upped

Basketball and football head coaches received $100 per season pay hikes, increasing their stipends to $400. Their assistants will receive $300, also a $100 hike.

Receiving $50 increases were elementary basketball coach to $300, assistants, $175; track coach, $200; baseball, $200, and yearbook adviser, $100. The school paper adviser will receive $50.

The drama coach and forensics adviser will receive $75, a $25 increase. Chaperones for dances and bus trips will be paid $5 per evening while ticket sellers at athletic events will receive $2.50 per evening.

The new contract calls for the board to pay 100 per cent medical hospitalization single plan insurance for teachers, raising the per day rate from $18 to $25. Post-bachelors degree college credits will be reimbursed at $30 apiece during summer school and $15 during the school year. Each bachelor degree or above teacher must earn six credits in five years.

Reserves Right

The sick leave feature remained at five days per year accumulative to 60, but the board reserved the right to designate makeup days lost due to inclement weather.

The 1968-69 school calendar includes 160 teaching days, three convention days, four in-service days and a paid holiday. In-service meetings will be Aug. 22 and 23, and registration begins on Aug. 26.

The teachers convention will be Nov. 7 and 8, and the parent-teacher visiting day will be Nov. 15.

The board discussed changing the eligibility date on five-year-olds. It considered moving the date to Nov. 1, a month earlier, as the deadline on entering age for kindergarten.

In other business, the board approved the Shiocton Lions Club using school facilities March 31 for a Pancake Fest and the National Farmers Organization for a sausage feed April 20. The football coach was authorized to ask bids to replace equipment, buy 33 new uniforms and a seven-man blocking sled.

Discussing federal programs in the school system, the board learned that $1,500 remained in the Title III fund.

Ice Leaves Wolf River At Fremont

FREMONT — In a fitting climax to St. Patrick's Day the Wolf River was officially declared open here at 7:43:54 p.m. Sunday.

While the river is completely open there is still an ice covering on Partridge Lake and the Mill and Hubbard bays.

Herbert Reickmann Jr. of Fremont caught three walleye pike averaging four pounds each Sunday. Also out of state fishermen have started to arrive.

The annual ice-out contest is sponsored by the Wolf River American Legion post. Sunday's opening is second only to the March 8, 1966, opening in the past decade. The latest ice-out date is April 8, 1965.

Changes Asked at Hearing On Calumet Shoreland Plan

About 75 Attend First of Three Meetings; Officials Questioned on Flood Plain, Subdivision Programs

POTTER — Calumet County's shoreland zoning ordinances will be altered if the county board heeds suggestions made at the first of three meetings.

About 75 gathered late last week to air the new program, and similar meetings are set for Chilton tonight and Sherwood March 25. State and county officials clarified portions of the ordinances.

The flood plain and subdivision control ordinances were discussed by David Carpenter, State Department of Resource Development planner on leave, Fond du Lac; Orrin Meyer, Calumet agriculture agent and author of the county ordinance.

Assemblyman Gervase Hephner, D-Chilton, the principal objector to the subdivision control ordinance, said that before final plans are approved the subdivision must install all improvements. He said he felt this would retard rural development, pointing out the townships would be realizing taxes from the development and should be required to provide roads. He agreed the developer should provide sewer and water facilities.

Cities Logic

Carpenter disagreed, claiming the logic was that the roads would not benefit all, that municipalities are responsible for maintenance and because of the improvement the sale price of lots was more.

Hephner later changed his objections to obliging the developer to blacktop the roads. Carpenter said that in Fond du Lac this had been optional, depending on the town board ruling.

The assemblyman also objected to the fees charged for checking and verifying plans.

Meyer said that all suggestions made at the meeting will be reviewed by the Calumet County Planning and Zoning Committee, and if feasible, will be included. A public hearing will follow the three meetings, and the ordinances will be rewritten and sent to the county board for approval.

The flood plain ordinance also was discussed by the 75 persons, who were mainly farmers from the Potter marsh area and developers of the High Cliff recreation village.

William Engler, Chilton attorney, questioned the ordinance's official map, which did not have the flood plains delineated. Meyer suggested the county zoning administrator could delineate the flood plains to save time and money. Only the major marsh areas are defined on the quadrangle map.

Not Delineated

Farmers feared the ordinance would affect harvesting marsh hay and similar crops in the area, but learned it controlled only cultivated crops. They also were told the fenced area requirement for watering livestock had been changed in other counties. The Rantoul Town chairman said the farmers wanted to know if they could farm as usual under the ordinance, and they were assured it would have little effect on their status.

Those concerned with recreation questioned recreation being mentioned under permitted and conditional uses. They opposed requiring permits for hunting in game reserves. Proponents defended these as safety measures.

Francis Schneider, developer of a High Cliff area recreational project, said the conservation department has rules governing this type of recreation. However, Hephner felt there should be some conditional restrictions.

Appeals Change

Schneider also asked to have the section designating the board of appeals changed from "five members appointed by the chairman of county board to consist of one of which shall be a member of the county zoning agency who resides in the unincorporated area of Calumet County" to three members from the unincorporated area.

He pointed out that since the ordinance covered only the unincorporated areas they should have more representation. Carpenter said this had been changed in Fond du Lac County based on the tax money paid by incorporated and unincorporated areas for the administration of the zoning.

Meyer urged those who attend the meetings to be very constructive. "If you wish to delete something, give us something to improve it," he said.

Calumet Board Chairman Gilbert Hipke, remarked the objective is "a better Calumet County, better Wisconsin and better United States."

County zoning and planning committee members present were Mrs. Alyce Butler Appleton; George Hostettler, Stockbridge, and Howard Schuch, Chilton.

Great Decisions Lecture World Must Realize Two Germanies Exist, LU Professor Claims

The reality of two Germanies was offered as an alternative to east-west reunification by H. Hartmut Gerlach, speaker at a Thursday Great Decisions luncheon at the Appleton YMCA.

"The variety, disparities and different historical remembrances in Germany always have been strong," he said, "and Germany never has been able to bring itself to opt either for the West or the East."

Both Germanies refuse to see themselves as puppet regimes, he said, adding that "unfortunately, such simple arguments do not lead anywhere."

Maybe Never Unified

Gerlach noted that historically there is doubt as to whether Germany has ever been truly unified. The unification of 1871 "was a unification from above, not from the bottom up," he said. He attributed the problem to differing German views on "what is called civilization on the one hand, and on a culture of the soul" on the other.

In answer to questions, Gerlach noted that an aura of "total defeat" still hangs over Germany, and that many West Germans are not in sympathy with any renewal of their country's military strength.

He said that East Germans have no alternative to their present political regime, and that political attitudes are "an impairment to economic ties between them and West Germany, although a surprising amount of trade exists between the two."

He said that despite moderate advances in East Germany, "it is still a repressive and suppressive country" which is naive and unrealistic in many ways. "It has a simple view of the world," he said.

Seen 15 Years Ago

He noted that as early as 1953 some Germans felt that if reunification would not come soon, two separate national identities would result.

Waupaca County Group Retardate Association To Seek Memberships

CLINTONVILLE — March is membership month for the Waupaca County Association for Retarded Children.

The membership in 1967 was 33 and the challenge goal for 1968 is 42 memberships. The local associations that achieve the status of challenge for 1968 within each population range will be cited at the annual state conference on the retarded at Green Bay on May 3, 4 and 5.

Merlin Kurth, Madison, executive director of the Wisconsin association, who was the guest speaker at the March meeting at Manawa, spoke on memberships and duties of parents of retarded. He pointed out that parents need the association of other parents in this field, and that they should belong to the organization.

Kurth listed seven major barriers to service for the retarded. They are: the denial of rights to the retarded and the need for better service to this group; they should not be given second best in education or facilities; more concern should be given the retarded by schools and churches; there is a lack of understanding on the part of the public to problems of this group. The county government has never participated in any program for this group, in view of the fact that it is recommended that the retarded stay at home, the speaker said.

Kurth said too many people have no coordinated plan on what to do for their child. He also stated that mandatory approaches need to come into being and, lastly, that membership is needed to help fight the problem.

Amherst Plans Weekend for AFS Students

Following church services Sunday the group will be guests at a potluck dinner in the fellowship room at the Methodist Church.

Firemen Put Out Small Blaze at Chilton Farm

CHILTON — Volunteer firemen extinguished a small blaze on the Dale Harvey farm, route 2, shortly before 6 p.m. Sunday.

According to Norbert Seipel, assistant fire chief, paper from a rubbish burner was blown onto a small wood shed and started fire. The 12 by 8 foot shed was used for storage purposes.

No estimate of damage was immediately available. Lost in the blaze were a lawnmower, fencing and picnic equipment.

Dale Heart Fund Drive Reports $80 Collection

DALE — More than $80 was collected during the annual heart fund drive in the village, according to Mrs. Louise Zehner, chairman.

Mrs. John Kelly reported $28 collected in Medina and Mrs. Lawrence Jungwirth and her co-workers gathered over $100 in the rural area.

Brillion Cooperative Program Industries Support Unique Vocational School

BY JOAN COENEN
Post-Crescent Correspondent

BRILLION — A cooperative effort by Brillion industrialists to assure continuance of the two-year old unique Brillion Cooperative Vocational School topped news highlights here in 1967.

Donations of $65,000 from the Brillion Foundation, Inc., the charity arm of the Brillion Iron Works, Inc. (BIW) and $32,500 from Ariens Foundation, Limited, sponsored by the Ariens Co., are paying for the new vocational school building which was built in 1967 on a $10,000 site donated by Mel Koch, president of Rent-A-Truck, Inc. here.

Some 95 boys from Little Chute, Stockbridge, Reedsville and Brillion high schools attend daily classes in power mechanics and industrial operations at the state's first cooperative vocational program for high school students.

The program has received state and national educators' acclaim and was praised highly by Gov. Warren Knowles when he toured the facility in April of this past year.

New Approach

The venture has created a totally new approach toward vocational training in high school by linking the four Fox Valley area schools into a cooperative network.

This year, for the first time, basic machine operation, machine shop work on lathes and presses, use of hand tools and welding are being studied by a seven-member all-girl class at the school. The class was offered after the high school guidance department discovered through testing and personal interviews that the girls were interested in learning shop skills.

Construction began in July on the 10,000 square foot expandable steel structure and students moved in mid-October from leased quarters that had to be vacated.

Berner-Shober and Kilp, Green Bay architects, designed and engineered the project which just recently was completed. One 27 foot square classroom and another 27 by 40 feet, an office, display and exhibit space are included in the building.

Low Rent Housing

The Brillion Housing Authority anticipates construction will begin in spring on a 32-unit low-rent housing facility for the elderly. Site for the project is a 3 1/2 acre tract on the east side of South Parkway Drive. The project, financed entirely by federal funds and approved during 1967 by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), has a total budget of $538,525. Members of the housing authority, headed by R. A. Kleiber, and Leonard Wayman of Wayman and Catlin, Chicago architectural firm, have spent nearly 2 1/2 years planning and arranging the project.

The city expects an early 1968 approval of federal funds for urban renewal and additional aid in financing other phases of a $1,251,000 six-year capital improvements program. Groundwork for securing the funds began during 1967 by way of a "survey and planning application" submitted to HUD. Following closely the advice of city planners, Candebu, Fleissig and Associates, the city council thus has paved the way for major capital improvements during the next few years with no significant tax rate increase. Brillion has been dubbed both "aggressive and progressive" in this venture and in its homes for the elderly project.

The final phase of an over quarter-million dollar well-developed program was completed in late 1967 when the new $95,000 pump station went into operation. The new facility has doubled the city's water output. The new pump is capable of pumping 700 gallons per minute and its two water softening units treat 600 gallons per minute.

The city spent approximately $62,000 for street improvement during 1967. A $24,360 curb and gutter project and five miles of city sidewalks, at a cost of $22,559, were completed.

New Lighting

The city will have 62 per cent more light for 25 per cent increase in cost as a result of its conversion to mercury vapor street lights. Approval for replacement of the city's incandescent lamps was accomplished during the summer. It is anticipated that the Wisconsin Public Service Corp. will begin the project soon.

At the end of 1967, the Wisconsin Public Service Corp. completed installation of a 138,000 volt line from the Brillion west side substation to the Shoto station near Two Rivers. The line is part of a million dollar project undertaken during 1966 to meet continuing industrial and residential consumer power demands.

The Calumet County Bank enlarged its facility here late in the year to provide a drive-up service window, additional office space and a parking area.

Brillion Iron Works, Inc. continued its modernization and internal expansion program during the past year to include automation and mechanization, according to R. A. Kleiber, foundry spokesman.

The BIW spent "thousands of dollars" during 1967 to Put on a Show of Your Own With Potato-Head Puppets

BY CAPPY DICK

Potato puppets are fun to make. By fixing up a cardboard carton as a stage, you can put on a good show.

At least two puppet actors will be needed, so two potatoes are required for the heads. Small, red potatoes are the best for this purpose. Select ones that have the greatest resemblance to a face. It is especially important for the potato to have a little knob on it for a nose. Carve a mouth, the eyes and the eyebrows.

Cut a hole in each puppet where the neck should be, making it just large enough to fit your forefinger snugly (Figure 2).

your thumb acting as one arm and your middle finger as the other. Fit the potato head on your forefinger which sticks out through a neck hole in the coat. Attach the cloth hat with pins.

Ex-Outagamie Agent Awarded UW Fellowship

John E. Powers, former Outagamie County agricultural agent, has been awarded a fellowship for study at the University of Wisconsin for a PhD degree in the school of business.

The award to Powers was made by the University Extension Service.

Powers said he "would like to concentrate my efforts in the recreation industry field" while attending the University.

Powers was Outagamie County agricultural agent and 4-H club agent for 13 years before receiving his master's degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1964.

For the past four years Powers has been resource agent in Oneida County.

While in Outagamie County Powers was instrumental in development of the Oneida County total resource development plan. The goal of the program was to devise, through local people, a comprehensive plan for development of county resources.

Powers also provided leadership for the development of the seven-county Northwoods Council. He is presently secretary of the organization.
